Voters in Virginia Beach's seven boroughs will be going to their voting places next Tuesday, Nov. 7, to pull levers on voting machines to end a lukewarm campaign for local and state public offices.

There are only local races for five of 10 offices, and they have generated little interest on the part of voters after last July's hot Democratic primary election.

City Treasurer V.A. Etheridge and Revenue Commissioner Ivan D. Mapp are unopposed for re-election after winning in the primary.

A local man, Del. Edward T. Caton III, and two others are Democratic nominees for the state senate in the 3rd Senatorial District. They are State Sen. William H. Hodges of Chesapeake and Del. Willard H. Moody of Portsmouth. George R. Walker, a Portsmouth man, also is running.

Democrats here chose Caton, Hodges and Moody at the polls in July. And they nominated Court Clerk John Fentress, Kenneth N. Whitehurst Jr. and B.R. Middleton for the House of Delegates, City Sergeant John E. Marr, and Andre Evans for commonwealth's attorney.

The Republicans have candidates David Smithson opposing Fentress; John Field III and Henry Clarke opposing Whitehurst and Middleton; Israel Steingold against Evans and Charles Richardson against Marr. Joseph J. Dreano, unaligned, also is running for city sergeant.

Democratic party harmony in the city has evershadowed Republican campaigning, and political observers are predicting a Democratic victory, if supporters go to the polls, which will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. (EST) next Tuesday.

While the Democrats have campaigned on the theme that their candidates were picked by the voters in last July's primary, the Republicans have campaigned primarily on national issues in a move to try and build GOP strength in the city for future elections.

Princess Anne Winning State Championship ?

The unbeaten Princess Anne Cavaliers have virtually won the state football championship with their stunning victory over the Cradock High Admirals of Portsmouth last week.

Coach John Grady's red, white and blue clad eleven also wrapped up the Eastern District (Virginia Beach and Norfolk) title, according to football experts in the area.

Grady, who has stressed teamwork throughout the grid season thus far, takes his high-spirited squad into battle this Friday against Bayside High's Marlins, who have won only a single game in eight.

And the last regular-season game for the Cavaliers is against the Cox High Falcons, which have had a losing season as a result of few players and injuries.

The Cavaliers have been sparked in their championship bid by Bob German, John Kiefer, Tom Counter, Pete Carpenter, Bill Felchner, Mickey Byrd, Bruce Runon, Ed Love, Wayne Caudill, Robert Gerloff, Steve Sakis, Jack Spence, Paul Ziegler and Lloyd Sisson.

Al Habit has worked with all of them as defensive coach, and Denny Haglan's backfield coaching has added to the team's strength.

Doc Harrison, team physican, said after the Cavaliers beat the Cradock team 33 to 13 last Friday, for the 14th straight win in two seasons, said the team is in "good shape" physically.

Carpenter, who wears the number 40 and filled the shoes of Skip Wilkins, who graduated last June before being paralyzed in a water sports accident, scored three touchdowns last Friday.

(Wilkins, by the way, is expected to be home for Christmas from the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center in Fisherville, Va.)

Kiefer intercepted a pass, and he and Runyon fell on a fumbled ball in the end zone for another score last week. Mickey Byrd scored a touchdown after blocking a Cradock punt. German kicked for three extra points.

Here is the rest of the Cavalier roster:

Builders Pick Beach For '68 Convention

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--The Home Builders Association of Virginia, headed by Frederick Napolitano of Virginia Beach, will hold their 1968 state convention at The Cavalier hotel in the Beach Borough.

The statewide group's board of directors approved Virginia Beach as the June of 1968 convention site at a recent meeting at Bow Creek Golf & Country Club.

At the same time the state board met, the Tidewater Association of Home Builders (TAHB) elected Lawrence A. Sancillo of Virginia Beach as president for the second successive year.

Rep. Thomas N. Downing, who represents Virginia Beach and other First District communities in the U.S. House of Representatives, will be guest speaker when the TAHB officers are installed at a Nov. 17 banquet at the Lafayette Yacht Club.

Beach Teachers Will Have 'Prime' Guide

Elementary and secondary school teachers and administrators in Virginia Beach will receive, starting in January, a new service designed to help them plan their curriculum so that it is completely up to date on new developments in education.

For the first time, the myriad of suppliers of instructional materials and service to the school field will all be listed by curriculum and cross-indexed by types of services and resources in a master reference work that also includes actual catalogs of leading companies supplying the needs of schools.

Called the PRIME Catalog, the directory-buyers' guide is provided free of charge to curriculum planners by Educators PRIME Information Service, Route 46, Totowa, New Jersey. The organization also supplies another free service to educators in the form of the PRIME Reports, a twice-monthly review of new technology and methods in the educational field. Costs of the various services are borne by leading companies which present their catalogs in the directory.

This Week's Chuckle

A man has so many more temptations than a woman because he knows where to go and find them.

City Young Demos. Elect Woman Pres.

The Virginia Beach Young Democratic Club has elected a woman, Miss Shirley Jacobs as new president of the club to succeed Edward T. Caton, nominee for the state senate.

Miss Jacobs, who was elected national committeewoman at the 1966 Virginia YDC convention in Arlington, is on the state executive committee now and will be a state delegate to the national convention of Young Democrats Nov. 15 to 20 in Miami, Fla.

The Virginia Beach club at a meeting last week also elected David L. Cassida as 1st vice president; Maurice Ealy as 2nd vice president; Lonnie O. Clark as 3rd vice president; Judy Brown as secretary, and William Jones as treasurer.

Cassida is presently on the YDC state executive committee as chairman of the resolutions committee and of the investigating committee.

Members of the club unanimously endorsed the Democratic nominees in next Tuesday's election.

Miss Jacobs said she is "very honored" at being elected president of the young Democrats. "I definitely plan to be an active president, and to assist the club in becoming active locally and on the state level."

She said she plans to appoint soon the following committees: Youth, finance, membership and convention. Miss Jacobs also asked for "the continued cooperation of the club membership and of the senior party."

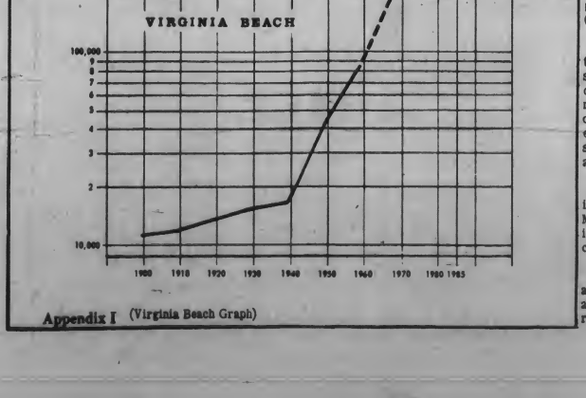
Schools 'Geared' to Growth

(Editor's Note: Virginia Beach City Council has under study a proposed community facilities and education plan, titled "Master Plan Report Number 7." Last week's edition of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN carried on page 4 the vocational school and community college sections of the study recommendations prepared by the City Planning Commission, headed by J.W. Wood with F. Mason Gamage as planning director, and the City School Board, headed by J.W. Buffington. Here is the text of Chapter I.)



Appendix I (Virginia Beach Graph)

"The City of Virginia Beach must gear its school planning, both in land acquisition and construction, to the rapidly growing population. Land for schools must be acquired prior to new development. It is difficult, if not possible, to obtain the necessary land once development has occured. Even if the land is available, acquisition costs quadruple once homes and streets are built.

"Population in the City of Virginia Beach has grown from 14,000 in 1940 to 160,000 in 1966 with no forseeable decline in this rate of growth. The total projected population in the City is 320,000 in 1975 and 460,000 in 1985.

"Trends in population for the United States, the State of Virginia and the City of Virginia Beach are shown from 1900-1960 (actual) and 1960-1985 (projected) in Appendix I.

"An examination of the graph (Appendix II) is indicative of the findings made in Chapter Two in the first grade enrollment survival rate for the years 1965 and 1966. The neighborhood chosen for this sample was Aragona Village. The choice of this neighborhood was based on the fact that at the time of the last decennial census (1960), this subdivision was completely developed, and with minor exceptions the bulk of residential construction in the city has been occupied by families of comparable age and family income.

"The graph in Appendix II also spotlights the unique problem in Virginia Beach as compared to the Norfolk-Portsmouth Metropolitan Area. The great majority of the City's population is made up of the young and their relatively young parents with comparatively few college age persons or senior citizens.

"The following chapter will correlate the findings of this and the preceding chapter to estimate, for the City as a whole, and for education zones, the 1975 and 1985 expected school enrollment."

'Yes' Votes Continue Poll Lead

Some residents answering the SUN Poll on the question of the local right to vote on whiskey sales are adding comments.

And some have written "yes" more than once on their votes for the poll, although each is being counted only one time.

As of last Monday, the "yes" votes led for the third straight week in returns. The poll is being continued for a number of weeks, giving all local readers a chance to express their position.

The final results will be published exclusively in the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN before Christmas.

How About It?

The 1968 General Assemby of Virginia is expected to consider legislation proposed to give voters in each city and county the righ to decide whether they want whiskey sold by the drink, under specific controls, within their own community.

Since the question has been debated in greater Virginia Beach's seven boroughs for years, the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN is conducting a "straw poll" on the question. Clip the coupon below, write "yes" or "no" and mail as directed. One per reader, please, with signatures optional.

Should voters in each community have the right to decide how whiskey is sold within their community? _____

BAYSIDE BITS

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--Aragona Moose Lodge No. 1198 here is accepting nominations for a "Humanitarian of the Year" award, which will go to some Virginia Beach resident later this year.

A Moose spokesman said any resident of Virginia Beach for the last year or more is eligible to receive the 1967 award, and people can file statements and nominations until Nov. 15.

They should be mailed to the Humanitarian Committee, Aragona Moose Lodge No. 1198, P.O. Box 2211, Virginia Beach, Va., 23452.

The Loyal Order of Moose is a "Family Fraternity," built upon the precepts of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, that every child should have a complete education, that every elderly person should have the opportunity of spending their years free from worry and care, and that man's greatest good is found in service to his fellowman.

The Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Department's Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor a fish fry Saturday, Nov. 4, and have the annual bazaar and bake sale at the same time, from 5 to 8 p.m.

Bayside Library on Independence Boulevard will begin having a story hour for children three to five years old. They will be from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Nov. 8, 15, 22 and 29.

Miss Ellen Wagner from the 22nd Street Branch Library will conduct the program. Mothers should register their children before Nov. 8.

League to Have Noted Historian

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Mrs. Emmet Kyle, locally well known speaker and historian, will speak at the Lynnhaven-Little Neck Civic League meeting at 8 p. m. Monday, Nov. 6 at the league building.

Mrs. Kyle will "look backward" at old Princess Anne County , particularly in the Lynnhaven-Little Neck area

Mayor Frank A. Dusch of Virginia Beach receives a framed picture of the Norwegian bark 'Dictator' which sank in a storm off Virginia Beach's shoreline in 1891. Thomas G. Baptist, a Norwegian who played a role in bringing the Norwegian Lady Statue (featured in the SUN) to Virginia Beach, presented similar pictures to City Manager W. Russell Hatchett and Rolfe Williams, Norwegian consul in Norfolk, last weekend at The Cavalier hotel. Baptist received Norway's Saint Olav's medal at the ceremony.

First Grade

Cooke Picked for New Teaching Method

BEACH BOROUGH— A new method of teaching science in elementary grades will be tested in two classes of first graders at W. T. Cooke Elementary School this school year, with expansion later throughout the city's public school system.

It is called "Science--A Process Approach." In 1961, the American Association for the Advancement of Science brought together leading scientists and educators to study the status and future of science education in United States elementary and junior high schools.

Financed by a grant from the National Science Foundation, conferences were conducted to consider the need and means for improvement in science education. The conferees said there was urgent need for new materials--and new approaches.

The following year, the AAAS established a Commission on Science Education . After several conferences, two recommendations emerged: 1) the Commission should sponsor the development of instructional science materials beginning at the kindergarten level and, 2) that these materials should stress the processes of science in the early grades rather than traditional content or concept sequences.

Within the past few years, enormous strides have been made in wide segments of American industry, particularly in such areas as electronic data processing, communications, space exploration, and education. One of the prime factors behind this accelerating rate of progress has been a new approach to problem solving--the "systems approach." In essence, the systems approach provides a technique analyzing a given set of resources to develop a system capable of meeting a given set of objectives.

It places the student in an active role of investigating science--intergrating the processes and the scientist. Through the systematic use of these processes in the primary grades, the children become mentally equipped for complex science education in later grades.

Exercises begin with the development of basic process skills. For example, kindergarten children are given exercises dealing with the naming and identifying of two-dimensional shapes--the square, rectangle, circle, etc.

Subsequent exercises show the students that these are components of three-dimensional shapes. Throughout the Process Approach, there is a spiralling effect as advanced exercises reinforce and add to the skills the students used in earlier exercises.

The exercises are arranged in steps, so that the child progresses through learning experiences from the simple to the complex; each exercise builds on what the child has learned, and prepares him for future learning.

Science - A Process Approach is probably one of the most thoroughly-tested curriculum ever introduced. The field testing for the program involved more than 7,000 children in 46 elementary schools.

The Process Approach is just that. It begins in kindergarten with five basic skills: observing, classifying, measuring, using numbers and using the space-time relationship.

In the first grade, communication is added. Second grade progresses to inferring and predicting. By the sixth grade, students normally should be prepared for experimenting.

In a workshop conducted by Xerox Corporation for Virginia Beach teachers and school supervisors, a Xerox representative explained it this way: "For years children have been taught facts and concepts. The most permanent thing we can give our children is the knowledge of how to think and learn independently."

Then he put the teachers through several exercises geared to first grade students.

In one, the teachers were asked to observe and investigate three baby food jars half full of a colorless liquid. The contents looked alike, but one contained water, one vinegar and one cooking oil.

Another exercise had seven sets of dishes containing different items. Although each pair resembled each other, there were differences. In one dish was sugar and in another, salt. One set contained marbles which were alike. But another set held two different, spices which looked alike. Participants in the exercise were encouraged to taste, smell, shake and feel the contents on each dish.

"We tend to observe without really looking," said the Xerox spokesman.

Xerox Corporation was awarded the contract for the publication, distribution and further cooperative development of Science-A Process Approach, by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

TAHB meeting was Lloyd E. Clarke, a Des Moines, Iowa, builder who is first vice president of the National Association of Home Builders.

Most of the other officers elected to serve with Sancilio live in Virginia Beach's suburban boroughs. They are:

Howard M. Weisberg, re-elected vce president, and David A. Howard, elected as a second vice president to succeed William J. Collins; Arthur L. Westcot, elected treasurer to succeed Doyle E. Hull, and Edward P. Brogan, elected secretary, a position previously held by David A. Howard.

Elected two-year directors were Lewis E. Keller, Bernard Kroll, F. Wayne McLuskey Jr., William J. Fanney, Harry R. Dudley Jr., Doyle E. Hull and George R. Powell. Elected one-year directors were Augustine DeMille and John R. Durham.

The home builders also named Horace A. Cistola and Sancilio as representatives to the national association, with Lee A. Gifford and W.W. Reasor to serve as alternates.

The Exchange Club of Virginia Beach will have a Pancake Party all day Wednesday, Nov. 8, at the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

BEACH BOROUGH--Barbara Chuilli, current Miss Virginia Beach, has a new role--as the daughter in the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach's second play of the season, "Five Finger Exercise."

Other cast members are Timothy L. Jones and Penny Martin in the roles of the father and mother; Tom Bloom as the son, and Michael S. Stroup as the German tutor. The play will be directed by Larry Williams.

The drama by Peter Shaffer will be seen at the Courtyard Playhouse on Virginia Beach Boulevard on Dec. 1,2,3,8,9 and 10.

Herbert Harrell, the set designer, announced that for this show "crew night" will be every Tuesday at 8 p.m. instead of the usual Monday night. Carpenters, painters and general handymen and women are welcome, he said.

"SHERM" ATKINS PROMISED HIS WIFE

... that he would take care of her always, because he loved her.

And he didn't just talk about it, he DID something. He made out a will, bought insurance and attended to all the other details that would guarantee her peace of mind.

Then, one day there was a death up the block and Sherm saw the disaster resulting from the family's neglect to plan ahead.

He promised himself, then and there, that his wife would never have to make a decision on a Family Memorial Site, ALONE. They would choose TOGETHER, in the calm, quiet peace of their home... The kind of site and the cost would be decided in advance of need. The immediate cash outlay in a crisis was not going to happen to his family.

Sherm Atkins immediately got in touch with a representative from Princess Anne Memorial Park and was even more convinced that purchasing a Family Memorial Site, before need, was a wise move.

He learned, for instance, that cemetery property had in many instances doubled in price in the last 10 years. And by buying now, while still a comparatively young man, he would save substantially for a needed purchase.

Finally, he learned that he could absorb the cost very easily because the payments would be just a few dollars a month.

Where rabbits are, or have been, a pest problem, with many fruit trees, a mechanical guard is perhaps the most satisfactory means of preventing this damage. Galvanized screen or hardware cloth with a small mesh is frequently used. A roll 36 inches wide may be cut lengthwise, forming two 18-inch strips. By cutting these into pieces 4 inches long, guards 14 by 18 inches are obtained.

Roll or bend the strip around the tree trunk so the long side is up and down the trunk and the edges overlap. Twist a small wire loosely about the center to prevent unrolling. Push the lower edges well into the ground.

Other means of rabbit control have been successful, also. Ordinary whitewash has given good results in some instances. In addition, there is a repellent on the market for this purpose.

Four students at First Colonial High have received letters of commendation for high performances on the 1967 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT), principal James Mounie announced.

The students are Heather Cheshire, Thomas Eagar, Ronald McAlhaney and Alfred E. Weston. They were among 40,000 in the United States who scored in the upper 2 per cent of those who will graduate from high schools in 1968.

Michael A. Waller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Waller of Pinewood Road, is a student at the Calhoon M.E.B.A. Training School to learn to become a licensed engineer in the United States Merchant Marine.

The Cavalier Garden Club, which recently won awards for beautifying the Sea Pines Post Office in the Beach Borough, had Mrs. A. M. Caputo as speaker for the October meeting.

"Mums the Word" was the key to the arrangements submitted for judging, and Mrs. Arthur L. Winder reported on the beautification awards. The club is continuing to maintain the Sea Pines beauty program.

Rev. Dr. Bryant Is Ferrum Trustee

BEACH BOROUGH--The Rev. Dr. R. Orman Bryant of Virginia Beach is one of ten new trustees of Ferrum Junior College installed during the annual fall Convocation, Oct. 27, for seven-year terms.

Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. was guest speaker for ground breaking ceremonies for Ferrum's new Stanley Library, which honors former Gov. and Mrs. Thomas B. Stanley, who contributed $200,000 toward its construction.

The Rev. Dr. Bryant was nominated by the Board of Missions, and confirmed at the Virginia Annual Conference of the Methodist Church held last June in the Beach Borough. He is minister at Virginia Beach Methodist Church.

Wear White For Night

The Tidewater Automobile Association is urging pedestrians, and children particularly, to be especially carful during the month of November when walking at night.

"This time of year can be very dangerous to drivers and pedestrians alike," stated Frank W. Cox, a director of the club. "Twilight begins to fall at a time when many children are returning home from club meetings and visits to friends.

Many tired drivers are heading home from work and are perhaps less alert than normally. Add these ingredients to the problem of reduced twilight visibility and you have the basis for the high numbers of night-time accidents which occur at this time of year."

He emphasized that many of these accidents can be avoided if pedestrians would take the simple precaution of wearing white after sunset. He urged parents to make sure children put on at least one white article of clothing before leaving the house to play after sunset.

'Odd Couple' Opens

An outstanding comedy by Neil Simon is the current bill of fare at Wedgewood Dinner Theatre in Toano. "The Odd Couple" is probably the author's best play to date. It is clever, funny and generally bright, without the full dependence upon sex so notable in most comedies of today.

The Wedgewood production is more than just acceptable, but lacks the consistency and smoothness we expect of the professional company there.

The plot centers around Oscar Madison, high-paid sports-writer divorced after more than a decade of marriage. He lives alone in clutter and dirt in his absolutely irresponsible way just having a ball. This is just fine with him even though he is far behind in his alimony payments. And it's also fine with "the old gang" of poker players who meet there every Friday night to get away from it all and enjoy Oscar's bachelor existence.

Then Felix Unger's wife of 12 years throws him out. Felix, charter member of the "gang," is fastidious, full of allergies, neuroses and a complete cleanliness nut. But Oscar feels sorry for him in his time of trouble. He allows Felix to move in with him in the eight-room apartment.

Director Leroy McFarland has put together a generally fast-moving production, but tends to overdirect causing some overplay.

Roby Brown has some nice moments of underplay, but too often resorts to yelling to get his ire across. Ron Reid also has some nice moments when playing it straight, but when mugging or reaching into the high registers of his voice loses much of the effectiveness of the role.

Nice supporting roles as the poker players are turned in by Frank Staroba, Robert Hutchinson and Ralph Hoar. The remaining poker player, portrayed by Paul Iddings is overdone.

The Pigeon sisters are ably portrayed by Sherri Reid and Ginger Montague. They handle the giggly sexpot roles well, and Miss Montague shows that she can handle beautifully the accent and her new type of role.

Paul Iddings' set is effective, but the painted walls simply do not look like a $240-a month New York apartment. Even with obvious flaws the production is worthy of note and deserves to be seen and appreciated.

While you are planning a glorious 20–30 day EUROPEAN HOLIDAY as a participating member in...

Club Internationale

You don't believe it? That's understandable. Thousands of others didn't believe it either, before they joined. Like you, they asked, "How can I have a 20 to 30 day European vacation plus two ten-day bonus vacations . . . just by putting away a dollar a day?

This is the secret. CLUB INTERNATIONALE is a national vacation club with a huge combined purchasing power that can effect sufficient savings to provide the European "Bonus Vacation" plus 2 red-carpet "bonus vacations" for the price of the European vacation alone.

Can I choose my bonus trips? Yes. Throughout the year, the Club schedules trips with a wide variety of itineraries and destinations. Select your bonus trips from such exciting places as Bermuda, Jamaica, Canada, Mexico or the Caribbean.

What's the cost? Annual dues are $30 for an individual, $35 for a married couple. Savings Plan Participation is $6.40 per week for 3 years, for a total of $995 per person. At the end of the third year, this entitles you to a fabulous European vacation — 20 days by air, 30 by ship. Plus two bonus 10-day vacations. (8-day trips also available.) Take one at the end of the first year, another at the end of the second. In other words, you get a foreign vacation each year for three years by saving less than a dollar a day!

Your money is safe. You send your payments directly to the Club Account maintained by a bank that services your chapter; from there the funds, as provided in the By-laws of the Club, are transferred to the Club Vacation Savings Account maintained with a major national bank. Members' savings are backed by a fidelity bond.

Any more benefits? Certainly. You needn't wait for vacation time to start enjoying yourself. Join in gay parties, gala holiday outings, dances, gourmet dinners, even foreign language instruction to prepare you for your trips abroad. You'll share a wide variety of social and cultural activities. Your complimentary subscription to the "International Vacationer" will keep you on top of happenings in your Chapter and others around the country.

Check us out! It's easy! CLUB INTERNATIONALE has been praised in The Congressional Record of The United States (reprints sent upon request.) Newspapers have featured us. Ask your friends. Probably one of them is already a member and saving for a vacation right now!

We're Satisfied

Another political campaign for local and state offices in Virginia Beach is nearing the finish line. By next Tuesday night, the voters will have exercised their right to choose those who will represent them in the future.

We cannot help but draw a contrast between the campaigning thus far in our community and in the neighboring City of Norfolk.

While party politics in that city have been somewhat chaotic, the Democratic party in Virginia Beach seems to have things well under control.

The local government at City Hall is the closest to the people. And cooperation with the state and federal governments to properly serve the majority of the people in our community has been evident for some time to those who know Virginia Beach.

It should be remembered that next Tuesday's general election, which has stirred little voter interest, is concerned with local and state questions - not national matters. The national election will be next year.

A general lack of excitement in the local campaign apparently results from the hot Democratic primary held in July, when Virginia Beach voters turned out in large numbers to nominate those carrying the party's banner in the present campaign.

Their Republican opponents, nominated by a select group, have attempted to woo the voters with a re-hash of primary campaign issues. Fortunately, there has been very little name-calling.

Perhaps this is because of the progress which the Democratic administration at City Hall has made, while being careful to not over-tax the people who have to pay the cost of government in the long run.

And surprisingly, the progress has been made despite problems which a fast-growing urban area usually experiences.

There are new public utilities, highways, schools, parks and playgrounds, health and welfare services and more on the way, judging from plans being considered by City Council.

And cooperation with other cities in the area, as well as the state and federal governments when proper, continues unabated.

If for no other reason than pride in our growing city with a sound and forward-looking government, we endorse without reservations all of the Democratic nominees.

They are:

Edward T. Caton III, William H. Hodges and Willard J. Moody for the State Senate.

Kenneth N. Whitehurst Jr. and B. R. Middleton for the House of Delegates.

John V. Fentress for Clerk of Circuit Court.

John E. Marr for City Sergeant.

Andre Evans for Commonwealth's Attorney.

Ivan D. Mapp for Commissioner of the Revenue.

V. Alfred Etheridge for City Treasurer.

When the voters make their decisions next Tuesday, we are confident they will express satisfaction with the present local government, and its plans for the future.

Right to Work Law

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

We are absolutely astounded by published reports which show that State Senator Henry Howell has swallowed the phony arguments of the union moguls and is now calling for repeal of the state's Right to Work law.

Senator Howell, in effect, is saying he favors compulsory union membership...whether it comes in the form of a union shop or an agency fee contract. By opposing the Virginia Right to Work law, which guarantees Virginians the right to join or not to join a private organization without losing their job, he is saying in the most blatant way, "I, State Senator Henry Howell, favor forcing working people in this commonwealth into a union ...regardless of how they feel about it. They should have no choice in the matter."

His position is not only incorrect, but in direct opposition to the views an overwhelming number of the residents of Virginia and the United States prefer. He is also isolated from the state leadership as well - Senators Byrd and Spong, Governor Godwin and former governor Harrison have all endorsed the principle of voluntarism as expressed in Virginia's Right to Work law.

By the way, that same story refers to the "so-called" Virginia Right to Work law; that's like calling the so-called senator a so-called defender of the individual rights of all of his constituents.

Thanks

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

Chapter 20, Women's Auxiliary of the Disabled American Veterans, recently organized at the Beach, wants to thank the SUN for its coverage of the Charity Bazaar at Pembroke Mall. Our booth was most successful, and we women appreciate the courtesy shown our members when they come to your office.

Praise for Police

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

"Every respectable citizen of America has been stunned by the disrespectful attitude of some of our people, toward our State and local police.

The performance of duty, by our State and local police force represents our only immediate guarantee of personal security and serenity.

Much screening is done in selecting individuals worthy and capable of performing police duties thoroughly. They are trained and supervised by leaders of character and dignity. Rightfully, there is no hesitation on the part of these leaders, to dismiss from the service any officer unfit to serve our people. None of us would want to live in a community without our law enforcement agencies.

We all would do well to ask ourselves this question: What would it take, as a salary and fringe benefits, to persuade me to don a police uniform and then perform the duties with dedication and determination?

To express my own personal feelings, it would go like this: Never has a good police officer's pay been commensurate with the services he renders. Our police deserve more recognition and they should get it.

Real Solution

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

There has been much said about world problems, racial disorder, juvenile delinquency, and crime; yet no one has any real solution. It seems to me that to much emphasis is being placed on the materialistic as the potential cure and not enough on the idealistic side of the coin.

This country was founded on God, Love, Faith in the Supreme being and fellowman and, as old fashioned as it may seem to the so-called younger generation, I still believe that if the world is to be saved from its-self, we must genuinely come back to these basics.

If the communication media would spend just 10% of the total time alloted on television and radio and 10% of the space in the printed media, dedicated to selling these ideals and take away from selling vice (near nude advertisements, alcoholics, crime shows, easy money enticements, etc.) we might at least slow down the mass self destruction that we are presently headed for.

Impact Funds

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

I am very happy that the Virginia Beach school superintendent (Frank W. Cox) and the head of the School Board (J.W. Buffington) have expressed their concern over the lost federal impact funds. All our local and state office holders and prospective office holders seem concerned, too. Now, with all this high-falootin' power, it would seem that we could get back our lost funds. The only trouble is that we still lose fifty cents on the dollar of that money which is rightfully ours. The state will continue to usurp these funds as long as you, the local citizens, let them. Yes, you are guilty through inaction.

It seems increasingly clear that the only course of action is for each and every citizen to write each and every state senator and representative. Inform these politicians that, if they refuse to return 100 per cent of the federal impact funds to the areas where they belong, we (the citizens) will stop the funds. After the next legislative session (early 1968), if 100 per cent of the funds aren't returned, stop the funds by returning the federal impact survey cards blank. There is no law that says the cards have to be filled out when returned.

Money and votes talk to politicians. The only way the legislative body will listen to Tidewater and Northern Virginia is a threat to their security, either direct or indirect. Therefore, I urge all citizens to write each and every senator and representative and inform them of our displeasure at the loss of these funds. By the way, this effects every citizen of Tidewater and Northern Virginia, in that, for every dollar of federal impact funds lost you, the taxpayer, have to make it up locally.

William W. Carr

(Editor's note: State legislators representing all of the people of greater Virginia Beach today are State Sen. William P. Kellam, Del. E. T. Caton III, Del. Willard H. Moody, State Sen. William H. Hodges and Del. Pressley B. White. The legislative terms of Kellam and White end at the beginning of 1968.)

Parker, a graduate of the School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University and the George Washington University Law School, is a member of the Saints & Sinners, Princess Anne Ruritan, Virginia Beach Elks, Fraternal Order of Police Associates and the Men's Democratic Club, as well as local, state and national bar and trial lawyer associations.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Officer C.W. Cover, attached to the Beach Borough Police Precinct, last week was looking over the newly elevated floor in the garage of his home when he heard strange noises coming from the garage. Investigation showed the family's puppy "Wimper" had crawled under the floor through an outer wall opening, and was sealed inside when the blocks were replaced. Cover crawled under the home from the opposite end, and brought "Wimper" to safety. He said "Wimper" lived up to his name during his imprisonment.

After much planning, L.T. Duvall, attached to the Beach shore patrol, was all set for a long weekend hunting deer. His leave papers were approved, supplies were in, and Duvall was thinking about the "big buck" he was going to down. His wife, however had other ideas. He had to cancel his trip for the arrival of the couple's baby daughter. His wife, Patricia, and daughter Michele are doing fine.

A course in advanced first aid is being given at the Knotts Island fire station. Classes are being attended by men of the volunteer fire units of Knotts Island and Creeds in Pungo Borough. James Carroll of Creeds is acting as instructor.

Alvin Rodgers says his fellow Justices of the Peace are making good progress during their training in the new J.P. system recently placed into operation. Two new men were named J.P.'s under the system. They are Kelly Rice, working out of the 2nd police precinct, and Ray Giddens, who is working a general relief shift.

While the men of the 2nd Police Precinct are proud of their "good luck charm", they insist on it staying in the office of Capt. R.C. Davis, Precinct C.O. The "charm" is an artificial potted plant about four feet tall. No matter where Davis attempts to place the plant in the precinct building, the men carry it back into his office.

Future Stadium Planned For Aragona-Pembroke

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--The Aragona-Pembroke Little League, with help from a cemetary owner, is planning a future $10,000 stadium smack in the middle of Aragona Village so 500 youngsters will have a regular place to play ball.

The site of the stadium has been leased to the league for five years by Charles C. Kirkpatrick, president of Rosewood Memorial Park Cemetery off North Witch Duck Road and Princess Anne Memorial Park Cemetery off Great Neck Road in Lynnhaven Borough.

The wooded site for the Little League ball park is just north of Witch Duck Road and west of Aragona Boulevard.

Members of the Aragona-Pembroke committee working on "Operation Home," the name of a fund raising drive for the new baseball stadium, are Richard Phelps, Councilman Lawrence Marshall, Pat Knarr, Joe Miller, Lou Assaid, Mrs. Priscilla Beede, Fred Gauthier, Louis Broy and Jake Hardison.

VIRGINIA BEACH SUN
Thursday, November 2, 1967

John Fentress takes notes at the Woman's Democratic Club of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne luncheon last Friday while club president, Mrs. Francis Geiger, watches the speaker. Most of the Democratic candidates for office in the November election spoke briefly at the meeting.

Autumn Events Fill Week

The only thing missing for a traditional Halloween party Saturday night was a full moon. The Virginia Beach Jaycees had the party at the Gay Vacationer. Everyone had to be in costume to be admitted.

The "hippies" were cool in their costumes, but the rabbits and cave men must have been fairly hot in the close quarters. All had to keep their masks on for the first hour.

From the looks of the costumes, this was definitely the "year of the hippies." In fact, the Jaycees were dressed in everything except the traditional Halloween skeletons, witches, etc. There was one "Great Pumpkin," though.

On other occasions during the week the ladies of the Woman's Democratic Club entertained the Democratic candidates, and the Men of Galilee Episcopal Church took over the cooking and cleaning up to serve oysters to their ladies.

The Men of Galilee Episcopal Church turned the tables on the ladies and did all the work at the church's second annual oyster roast in honor of the women and their guests. Among those enjoying oysters were Buck Walsh, serving, Maury Jackson, president of the Men of Galilee, Doug Huggard, Barbara Jackson and Ann Beasley.

Bob Flannigan, at six feet seven inches, was probably one of the tallest (and hottest) Harvey's in history.

Family Struck By Bare Facts

My husband is not a barber--at least not one judging from the results on our three-year old son.

Maybe he'll set a new style. At least it's different. The last time prices were raised at our local barber shop, the Man of the House decided it was senseless to spend that much money to trim a little boy who rarely goes out in public anyhow. So, having a pair of poodle clippers handy, he set to work.

Our son was his usual cooperative self and not much wigglier than usual. Dear husband picked the kitchen for the shearing...somehow he forgot to put down newspapers on the floor first.

Our son now resembles a disaster area. From the looks, I don't know if growing out would be an improvement or not. The top looks like early John F. Kennedy Jr...bowl style that is. But the bottom is shaved. There's no tapering in between.

And the sideburns! Or maybe I should say lack of sideburns.

His hair line ends just even with the tops of his ears. You almost have to see it to belive it.

But at least Son doesn't mind...even though his sisters do laugh at him.

This was bad enough, but you should see the poodle! He looks like a skinned rat---with a lop-sided top knot. Husband kept trying to even up the poor creature. He evened him up to nothing. The dog will have to wear a sweater this winter in self-defense.

In Public School

Visiting Teachers Do Everything But Teach

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Visiting teachers are not teachers for homebound students.

Their basic job, according to Bruce McGuire, director of elementary administration, is to act as a liaison between the home and the school in problems relating to excessive absence or truancy, indigent pupils, special needs such as related to emotional problems, etc.

Their job is relatively new to the Virginia Beach public school system. Last year there were two of them, Mrs. Catherine Dozier, who coordinates the program, and Mrs. Maxine Bugg. Two more were added this fall, Miss Betty Bracey and Mrs. Doris Knox. All are qualified to work with both elementary and secondary students.

Two of them are paid by the federal 89-10 operating budget under the "bridging the gap" program and the other two out of the public school budget, although all four work directly in the public school system.

"It takes a particular type of person for this job," said McGuire, "one with sympathy and empathy for the problems."

"It's hard to work on a schedule," said Mrs. Dozier. "It has to be flexible." Although regular visits to schools are planned, emergency calls from principals are considered first.

Miss Bracey, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Dozier and Mrs. Bugg in a rare moment when they were all together.

Mrs. Dozier used a ficticious boy with behavior problems as an example. First the classroom teacher reports her problems to the principal. Then the principal calls the visiting teachers' office at Princess Anne Court House. (They share a temporary building behind the School Administration Building with several supervisors.)

A visit to the school is made by the visiting teacher. "We like to observe the child in the classroom, on the playground or in the cafeteria to get a better feeling for the situation," said Mrs. Dozier. This is followed by a visit to the home to talk with the parents.

"Parents usually want to help us," Mrs. Dozier said. "They are usually aware of problems and are helpless and hopeless, just waiting for someone to take the initial step.

"In the first home visit we are often a sounding board and listen to complaints about everything in general." She said that many times the child's problem may stem from a family situation rather than the child himself.

Usually more than one home visit is required to make a referral. This may result in a referral to a public agency such as the Mental Hygiene Clinic, the Public Health Department or, in extreme cases, the juvenile court as a last resort.

"It's no secret we have a lack of community resources," Mrs. Dozier said, as the others nodded in agreement. "What we have are cooperative, but they can only go so far. We are limited by cost and distance.

"More and more people are asking 'Where do I turn now?"

Other aspects of their job include securing home bound instruction for children as needed, getting sight saving materials (books in large type) for legally-blind or sight-handicapped children, working with children who have adjustment problems, encouraging families to contact agencies for help and working with welfare officials.

"A great deal of time at the beginning of school is spent on indigent children whose families can't afford text books for them," Mrs. Dozier said. "The Welfare Department gives us a list of families they know of, and school officials give us others."

As McGuire summed it up, "I don't know what we'd do without them."

She Should Know

Men Like 'Plain' Cooking

Mrs. Gilliam in her third home--the church kitchen.

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Margaret (Mrs. Charles) Gilliam is a modest woman who disclaims any credit for being an outstanding cook, but there are those who know her (and have eaten her food) who would disagree with this.

"I'm not a gourmet cook," she states flatly, "I just cook plain food, and that's what men like." She's in charge of men's suppers at Galilee Episcopal Church.

"I took the job because nobody else would do it, and I didn't mind doing it. It's not hard work for me."

She was one of the mainstays behind the "Loaves and Fishes" cookbook put out by the women of Galilee, and now is busily involved in plans for the Galilee bazaar of which she is co-chairman with her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Kitchin. The bazaar will be Nov. 15.

"I don't see how any woman can stand not being busy. I always have plenty to do," Mrs. Gilliam said.

When she is home on Goodspeed Road, it is for only seven months a year. During the summer months she helps her mother operate the Sea Hawk Motel (including the restaurant). "If you didn't love people, you couldn't do hotel work," she commented.

As if she didn't have enough to keep her occupied, she has a daughter, 22, in college, a son, 17, in high school and another daughter, 13, in junior high.

A North Carolinian, Mrs. Gilliam cooks, "mostly Southern food." Following are several of her favorite recipes.

SHRIMP GUMBO

2-4 lb. shrimp for 12 (5 lb. for 16 or 18)
pinch of red pepper
onion, green pepper and garlic, sauteed
2 no. 2 cans of tomatoes
2 cans tomato paste
1 can tomato puree
1 tsp. sugar
1 pinch soda

Mix and cook together (except for the shrimp) slowly 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Cook shrimp, starting with cold water, and boil about 2 min. with 1 T. salt. Add to sauce the last half hour. Serve over rice.

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Sift together:
1 c. flour
3/4 c. sugar
1 1/2 T. cocoa
2 tsp. baking powder
3/4 tsp. salt
Add to above:
1/2 c. milk
2 T. melted butter
1 tsp. vanilla
Pour into greased 8 x 8 inch square pan. Make a thin syrup from and following ingredients and boil 5 min.
1/2 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. white sugar
1 c. hot water
2 T. cocoa
Pour above over batter. Don't stir. Bake 30 min. at 350 F. While baking, the syrup sinks to the bottom to thicken. Serve warm, upside down with whip cream or ice cream.

BANANA BREAD

1 c. sugar
1/2 c. butter
3 mashed bananas
2 eggs
1/2 teas. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 c. chopped nuts
Cream butter, sugar, bananas and eggs. Sift other dry ingredients and add to above. Fold in nuts. Bake in small (greased and floured) loaf pan at 300 F. for 45 min. to an hour.

Beach Hosts District G.C. Meeting

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--More than 30 representatives of about 25 Virginia Beach garden clubs attended the fall meeting of the Tidewater District, Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs, last Thursday at the Lake Wright Motel.

Mrs. W.H. McHenry of Town and Country Garden Club in Virginia Beach gave the welcome to the nearly 200 women who attended the meeting of which Virginia Beach is host every two years.

Mrs. Charles T. Benjamin of Richmond, state federation president, was a guest at the meeting and reported on the National Federation of Garden Clubs, headquarters building, which recently was completed in St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. E.F. Rudiger of Norfolk, anti-litterbug chairman, asked individual clubs in the federation to sponsor anti-litterbug poster contests in schools near them.

The federation also voted to endorse building a regional how come Mutual Federal has money to lend?

We've been called conservative.

Maybe we are.

Conservative, that is, if you mean that we are very careful about the kind of loans we make with our shareholders' money. Right now we have money available for first mortgage loans on selected, improved property in our area. Our lending policies haven't changed. We're still making the kind of loans that benefit both borrower and lender.

So — next time somebody says "They just aren't lending anymore," ask them "Have you tried Mutual Federal?"

Navy Wives' Club Notes

By Mary Wright

Mrs. Patricia Counts has more to be happy about these days than just having been elected vice president of the National Association of Navy Wives' Clubs.

Her oldest son James, 19, is home on 30 days' leave after a year's tour of Navy duty in Vietnam. Also home at their Honeygrove Road address is the family's father, Master C.P.O. James Carl Counts, on leave from his Grand Turk, West Indies, duty station to see his son.

Mrs. Counts was elected to the clubs' national board at their annual convention two weeks ago at Patuxent River, Md. She will be working closely, at least in spirit, with the association's president, who lives on the west coast.

"I will be in charge of several national committees," she said. "The research and education committee, for example. And the avtivities committee." Every year, that committee presents an award to the wives' club which has accumulated the most points for community service, Mrs. Counts explained. The point system includes such projects as "blood donations, fund drives, Navy Relief work --anything that benefits and promotes the community."

In January, Mrs. Counts will attend the Navy-Marine Council meeting in Washington, D.C.

The Counts have four other children besides James. They range in age from the second son, 18, who enters Old Dominion College in January, to a five-year-old still at home with Mrs. Counts.

WINE-TASTING

Wine-tasting and the Holy Land will be two topics on the agenda of the Officers' Wives' Club at Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base during the coming weeks.

A schedule of monthly luncheons will be initiated Nov. 8 with "Magic In Your Glass." The luncheon will be at the Base Officers' Club. Wives attending the luncheon have been asked to bring clothes and money to buy milk for TARC, the Tidewater Association for Retarded Children. Award pins will be presented to Navy Relief workers with 100 or more work hours to their credit.

On Nov. 29, members of the Wives' Club lecture series will learn more about the Holy Land.

Organized classes and social activities running the gamut from Oriental flower-arranging and oil painting to gymnastics and bird-watching began in September for the club's 1,200 members.

Mrs. James S. Spielman, activities chairman, said most of the lessons will terminate in early or mid-November, but will be renewed in January if interest is great enough.

CPO WIVES, LITTLE CREEK

Mrs. Samuel H. McCarroll, president of the Naval Amphibious Base Chief Petty Officers' Wives' Club, reports that her group has been collecting canned goods for the past six weeks which will go into Thanksgiving baskets. The baskets will be distributed through the base chapiain's office.

The CPO Wives' Club is a supporter of TARC and the Catholic St. Mary's Home for children.

Two weeks ago the club held its annual "Welcome Aboard" coffee for new wives. Held at the CPO Club, the coffee was planned by Mrs. L. Geller, with Mrs. G.A. Pippin and Mrs. D. Broadwater's assistance.

Mrs. McCarroll said a Christmas dinner-dance will be held at the CPO club Dec. 16 for the wives and their husbands. Chairman for the Christmas party is Mrs. Lucille Church.

A CHANGE OF COMMAND

A hail and farewell dinner recently topped off change of command ceremonies at NAS Oceana.

Cmdr. B.A. Weisheit relieved Cmdr. E.T. Wooldridge as commanding officer of Fighter Squadron 84.

During the dinner at the NAS Officers' Club, Cmdr. B.A. Weisheit - on behalf of the VF-84 squadron--presented departing Cmdr. Wooldridge with a silver cigarette box engraved with the names of the squadron officers. Cmdr. Weisheit then presented Lt. and Mrs. Peter G. Gilleece with a silver chafing dish from the squadron.

Special guests at the dinner were the squadron's new executive officer, Cmdr. Glen Lennox, and Kenneth L. Shugart and Mrs. Shugart. He is commander of Carrier Air Wing Seven.

Cmdr. Wooldridge, who lives in Bay Colony, has been assigned to Commander Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet, at Norfolk.

FAAWTC OFFICERS' WIVES

Officers' wives at the Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center, Dam Neck, were to have a coffee today at the home of Mrs. Joan Sipes, wife of Cmdr. Lester H. Sipes.

According to Mrs. William Braun, president of the Dam Neck Officers' Wives' Club, the group will be wrapping gifts for service men as a special service during the Christmas season.

Knights Are After the Wildcats

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--The Kellam High Knights, with a winning season record for the first time, venture into Chesapeake this Friday night to tangle with the Great Bridge Wildcats.

Right now, both teams have identical season records--five wins in seven starts. And both clubs have been beaten by the Princess Anne Cavaliers.

As Wildcat fans at Great Bridge are talking victory, Coach Charlie Caldwell of Kellam is preparing his team for their toughest out-of-the-city game this year.

While Great Bridge was beating Deep Creek 25 to 14 at a "homecoming" last Friday, the Kellam Knights were whipping the Granby Comets 7 to 0, at a Kellam homecoming.

Kathy Sigmon won the "queen" honors, and fullback Mike Brown won the football game with a one-yard plunge in the first quarter, Bob Carson quarterbacked most of the game.

Some other Knights who have been standouts thus far in the season--David Pace, Ernie Brown, Dooley Bissell, David Trax, Alan Clements, Mike Futrell and John Grady.

Falcons Have Winning Team

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--When football fans say that Frank W. Cox High has a losing football team, they are only half right.

While the varsity Falcons have had a dismal season up to now, the Cox jayvee team coached by Stuart Holland, has come up with a winning record.

The Falcon junior varsity whipped a visiting Smith High jayvee team 25 to 20 last week, giving it a 3-1-2 record. And last week's game ended the season for the junior varsity.

Some of the jayvees will be in the varsity lineup by the time the Falcons play host to the Granby High Comets of Norfolk this Friday night at Cox High's stadium.

Wayne Weirich and Nick Randazzo scored for the Falcon varsity last week. Playing top ball on the jayvee squad this year have been such boys as Alan Williams, Buddy Byrd, Phil Wallace, Victor Bailey, Bill Adkins, Butch Hartmog, Jack McElveen, Mike Ashburn and Eddie Whitaker.

Marlins and Cavaliers Meet

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--It will be a "home" game for the winless Marlins of Bayside High, but they will tangle with the high-riding Princess Anne High Cavaliers at Princess Anne High's stadium this Friday night at 8 p.m.

Coach John Grady of the Cavaliers might use some boys from Donald Van Benschoten's junior varsity team in the game, expected by some to be easy for the unbeaten Cavaliers.

The Cavalier junior varsity, which won four of its six games and tied another (the last win 7 to 0 over Norview's jayvees last week), had an early game scheduled this week--on Wednesday against the Bayside High jayvees. The Cavalier junior varsity stars include David Haxter, Jerry Ables and Greg Olsen as possible players for the varsity game against Bayside Friday.

In last Friday's Cavalier varsity win over the Cradock Admirals, John Kiefer and Bruce Runyon pounced on a fumble in the end zone after Kiefer had intercepted a pass to score one TD; Mickey Byrd blocked a Cradock punt and went for a touchdown; Pete Carpenter ran for three TD's and Bob German kicked three extra points.

The Bayside Marlins' varsity team last week managed to score twice against a tough Norview High squad, although losing 14 to 39. As Mike Mansfield starred for Norview, Ray Emerson scored early for the Marlins with a 90-yard kick-off return, and a Gardner-to-Austin pass accounted for the other TD.

Bayside's junior varsity, coached by Joe Lee Cox, had won one game, tied two and lost two. Coxmentioned Tom Chipok, Bill Petrie, Marty Parrish, Bill Rudd, David Growth, Ricky Colson and Dennis Pauley as mainstays of the squad.

Mark Rosenthal Heads Class

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--Mark Rosenthal, a 1967 graduate of Princess Anne High and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenthal, has been elected president of Virginia Wesleyan College's second freshman class.

Other officers elected recently were Isabel Watkins of Lynchburg, vice president; Gwenn Pulley of Ivor, secretary; and Harvey Shapiro of Norfolk, treasurer.

Miss Watkins attended E.C. Glass High, Miss Pulley attended Southampton High, and Shapiro attended Norview High.

Virginia Wesleyan, which has 155 students in its regular academic program and 112 taking evening courses, will graduate its first class in 1969. It opened a year ago on a campus just off Baker Road near Lake Wright Motor Lodge.

Miss Barbara Deming, a sophomore at Virginia Wesleyan, has been elected secretary of the sophomore class. She is a graduate of Frank W. Cox High and is the daughter of Matthew H. Deming.

'Turkey Time' Is Near

The quail hunting season opens in western Virginia on Nov. 6, and rabbits and grouse also will be fair and legal game in that part of Virginia until Jan. 31.

Quail, grouse and rabbit hunting, however, is not legal in Virginia Beach's rural areas until Nov. 20, the same time the hunting season opens for quail and rabbits on Virginia's Eastern Shore.

Also opening Monday is the turkey hunting season, but only in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. It opens Nov. 20 in some other parts of the state. As for fall turkey hunting in Virginia Beach--it's against the law, except for housewives getting ready for Thanksgiving.

1967-68 Turkey Seasons and Limits

November 6 - December 16 -- Two of either sex per license year

November 20- December 2 -- Two of either sex per license year

November 20 -December 2-- Two gobblers per license year

November 20 - January 31 --Two gobblers per license year

Not open for fall turkey shooting

NO MORE THAN ONE TURKEY MAY BE TAKEN IN ANY ONE DAY.

1st Colonial Is Ready for Southampton

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--The First Colonial High Patriots, with a winning football record to date, face a visiting Southampton High team at First Colonial's stadium at 8 p.m. Friday.

Frank Webster's varsity Patriots beat Denbigh, Va., 18 to 0 last week for the fifth win in seven games. Les Whitehurne Don Bradley, and Bob Wareing led the offense.

Some others who have been outstanding thus far are Jimbo Kitchin, John Grimstead, Winslow Stillman, David Gawrys, Clinton Graves and Carlton Rader.

Braves Meet Patriots; Seahawks at Home

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH--The Kempsville High Braves, sporting an even 3-1-3 record after last week's 13 to 0 win over the Bayside High junior varsity, is scheduled to play the First Colonial Patriot juniors at 7:30 p.m. today at Kempsville.

Tracy Moon, coach of the Brave team of 9th and 10 graders, has been building a ball club for next season and two more games to go after this week--Lake Taylor of Norfolk on Nov. 7 and Norfolk Academy on Nov. 10.

Among the stalwarts on the Braves thus far this season have been Frank Ratliff, Chris Sanderson, Arty Menge, Dwight Mitchum, Larry Diaz, Mike Shea (brother of Charlie Shea of last year's Princess Anne Cavaliers), Rick Scarper, Kent Little, Joey Moore and Rex Springston.

Jerry Loar's First Colonial jayvees, who won their first game of the season last week by beating Norfolk Catholic 26 to 12, end their season with this Thursday's game.

Loar listed fullback Steve Nichols, quarterbacks Mike Branick and Tommy Atkinson, and defensive players Dennis Smith and Billy Litchfield as junior varsity standouts this year.

Willie Braye's Seahawks at Virginia Beach Junior High in the Beach Borough lost to Norfolk Academy 20 to 6 last week. The Seahawks have a Friday afternoon game this week (at 4 p.m.) in their home stadium against the 8th and 9th grade players of Bayside High.

Braye, with a winning record thus far (3-1-1), has Clint Bradshaw, Welton Cowell, Ray Whitaker, Edward Flanagan, Bruce Washington, Butch Palmer and Bill Whesdos as key players.

The Seahawks end the season with their game Friday.

UK Tigers Face Norcom

Joshua Darden's Union Kempsville Tigers face a tough challenge in their home stadium this Friday night in powerful Norcom High of Portsmouth.

A Tiger victory over Booker-T of Suffolk by a 45 to 0 score last week gave the Union Kempsville squad a win it needed.

But Darden's defensive team will have to be tougher than the offense to win game number five for the season. Richard Johnson, Bryant Nelson, Jesse Davis, Houston Bailey and Lavoy, Uzzie, and Holloman starred for the Tigers in last week's win.

And when they play at home Friday night against the Norcom eleven, the UK fans will be there.

Commonwealth's Attorney

Over 40 Years as a Trial Lawyer

The Commonwealth's Attorney is the State's Attorney, or the Prosecuting Attorney, representing you, the people, and the interests of the State and Community in maintaining law and order, and in prosecuting, in the name of the State those accused or indicted for crime.

You have seen the glamorous Perry Mason lawyers who never loses a case for the defense because the person charged with crime is always found to be innocent at the last moment of trial. The Commonwealth's Attorney should have investigators to determine whether an innocent person is being charged before placing him to the expense and disgrace of a public trial.

I pledge myself to prosecute only those I believe to be guilty and to protect the innocent from persecution REGARDLESS OF RACE OR POLITICAL PARTY.

As to myself and my qualifications, I was born in Norfolk, graduated from Maury High School, and when I left for the University of Virginia, I was the highest active ranking Boy Scout in the Norfolk area. I attended William and Mary College and from there went to Georgetown University Law School, where I received my law degree in 1926.

While attending Georgetown, I worked in the Department of Commerce under Herbert Hoover, who was then Secretary of Commerce. The following year I worked in the newly established Federal Bureau of Investigation under J. Edgar Hoover. Calvin Coolidge was then President of the United States.

I am senior partner in a Norfolk and a Richmond law firm.

For years my practice has consisted mostly of prosecuting cases for injured persons. I am National Chairman of the Appeals Committee of the American Trial Lawyers Association, a 25,000 member group. My committee of 62 of the leading trial lawyers of America, helps other lawyers in the appeals courts, State and Federal, and, the United States Supreme Court on questions of national importance.

I have written articles which have been published in nationally circulated publications, the latest last year on Duties and Liabilities of Travel Agents originally published in Trial Magazine, and republished in The Travel Agents Magazine and the Justerian Law Journal.

On my desk now is a request from a law book publisher that I write a book on the Law of Damages.
I respectfully submit my case to you.
I am proud to be on the Republican ticket. We solicit you vote and your influence.

Beach Fans Boost Oyster Bowl

The sale of tickets for the annual Oyster Bowl football game, which matches Duke University's team against the U.S. Naval Academy team on Saturday, has been "greater in Virginia Beach" than in some other area cities on a proportional basis, according to Shriners here.

Ticket sales here and in other Hampton Roads cities by early this week left few seats available, if all who bought tickets attend the annual event, which has as its theme: "Strong Legs Run That the Weak May Walk."

Financial proceeds from the game each year benfit Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. This year's game is scheduled for 1:45 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11, at Foreman Field.

Thomas F. Seay, a prominent mid-west realtor and top officer of the world's 851,000 Shriners, is expected to attend the football game after paying an official visit to Khedive Temple, of which a large number of Virginia Beach residents are members.

H. Bruce Green, grand master of Virginia Masons, also will be among dignitaries in the area this weekend for various Oyster Bowl events.

As imperial potentate of Shriners, he is chairman of the board of directors of the 22 hospitals located throughout North America.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch and other Virginia Beach residents have aided the Oyster Bowl charity events each year for the benefit of crippled children. Dr. M.H. Legum, who lives here, is in line to succeed the present Khedive potentate, S. Edward Coggin, Jr., next year.

Members of Zulekia Court No. 35, Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America, is selling souvenir programs for the Oyster Bowl game.

A number of Virginia Beach women of various ages also are active in behalf of the Shriners' hospitals and other Shrine charities.

This year's Oyster Bowl game on Veterans Day is expected to be one of the major attractions in the area on the coming weekend, particularly for the thousands of football fans in Virginia Beach's seven boroughs.

To Our Subscribers

Virginia Beach is one of the fastest growing cities in the Old Dominion. To greet our new neighbors and acquaint them with the only newspaper published in this city, the Publisher of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN has, for the past several months, mailed free copies to their residences. The response has been most gratifying, with paid subscriptions more than doubling.

The practice of "free sampling" will be discontinued, effective with this issue.

If you have a friend or neighbor who wishes to become a VIRGINIA BEACH SUN subscriber, please have them call our Circulation Department (428-2401) in order that we can determine if their neighborhood is being served by mail or carrier boy.

The Publisher of the SUN also would like to inform its readers that this paper is now available at most news stands and drug stores in the greater Virginia Beach area.

'68 Models Shine In Auto Show At Pembroke Mall

The latest in new automobiles available at Virginia Beach dealers are on display this week at Pembroke Mall Shopping Center, where flashy 1968 models are attracting crowds.

Bill Thompson, chairman of the annual show sponsored by the Virginia Beach Automobile Dealers Association, said all nine dealers here are represented in the huge show.

It began Wednesday and will continue through Sunday at the shopping center on Virginia Beach Boulevard at Independence Boulevard in Bayside Borough.

The local automobile dealers, with 1968 models of all styles on display, are Thompson Royal Dodge, Inc.; Beach Ford, Inc.; Brooks Shorter Motor Co., Inc.; Alphin Motors, Inc.; Everett-Jordan Motor Co.; Meekins Pontiac Corp., and Malbon Motor Co.

Among the cars are Buick, Opel, Chevrolet, Dodge, Ford, Mercedes-Benz, Datsun, Mercury, Plymouth, Pontiac, Rambler and Jeep.

There also are on exhibit the GT Mark I, a specially built racing car; an expensive sedan, various cut-away exhibits of engines, chasis and frames, overhead cam engine, and a complete car cut-away; four-speed transmissions and brake and power safety.

Over 100 prizes are being given away in drawings.

Democratic candidates in Virginia Beach piled up impressive vote totals in winning all state legislative and constitutional offices in Tuesday's general election. Republicans failed to win in any of the city's precincts.

Unofficial returns, expected to be certified by an official vote canvass at Circuit Court today, showed about 13,000 residents went to their voting places in the election, indicating relatively little interest after last July's Democratic primary.

The three Democratic candidates for 3rd Senatorial District senate seats, Edward T. Caton III, William H. Hodges and Willard J. Moody won over a lone independent challenger, George R. Walker, almost 5 to 1.

Caton, a local man, led the voting in Virginia Beach with 10,709; Hodges of Chesapeake received 10,563 votes and Moody of Portsmouth received 10,138 here. Walker received 2,407.

In two House of Delegates races where there was Republican opposition, Kenneth N. Whitehurst Jr. led the Democratic win with 9,620, and B. R. Middleton received 8,818. The Republicans' Henry F. Clarke received 3,372 votes, and John A. Field III picked up 3,026.

Court Clerk John V. Fentress easily won re-election about 3 to 1 over his GOP opponent, David R. Smithson, by 9,616 to 3,330.

City Sergeant John E Marr, opposed by a Republican and an unaligned candidate, won by nearly a 3 to 1 margin.

Marr received 8,976 votes, Republican Charles E. Richardson got 2,964, and Joseph J. Dreano received 588.

Andre Evans, Democratic candidate for commonwealth's attorney to succeed Robert L. Simpson, Jr., whipped his GOP oppenent, Israel Steingold, by just under a 3 to 1 margin--9,069 votes to 3,258.

Fentress, elected on the Administration Team in last July's primary, led in the number of votes received in constitutional offices where there was opposition.

Whitehurst led in the voting among the Democratic winners for the House of Delegates.

In general, however, the vote counts for all winning candidates were nearly equal, as a result of harmony in the party here.

City Treasurer V. Alfred Etheridge, unopposed, received 11,347 votes; and Revenue Commissioner Ivan D. Mapp, also unopposed, received 10,884.

All of those elected Tuesday will be either beginning new terms of office, or starting their first ones at the beginning of the year.

A study of precinct returns showed the Democrats captured precincts where local Republicans had showed some strength in the suburbs in the 1966 election, when U.S. Senators William B. Spong Jr. and Harry F. Byrd Jr. were elected; and in 1965, when Gov. Mills E. Godwin won in Virginia Beach.

Owen B. Pickett, chairman of the City Democratic Committee, said he was "very happy at the outcome" of Tuesday's voting, although he would like to have seen "more of our supporters turn out" to vote.

The Republicans' Smithson told a VIRGINIA BEACH SUN reporter that "the showing was not too bad" for the GOP, "but I am disappointed."

Local Jaycees Win At 'Flag Football'

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--The Virginia Beach Jaycees, in a warm-up contest for Jaycee regional competition in "flag football", recently whipped the Norfolk Junior Chamber of Commerce 40 to 6.

The "challenge game" was played on the Princess Anne High football field last Sunday afternoon.

(The Norfolk Junior Chamber of Commerce has retained that name, although most other junior chambers shortened the name to Jaycees two years ago.)

Members of the Virginia Beach team, which plans to participate in a regional contest Nov. 18 at the Norfolk Academy football field, are Don Kern, Jim Rusk, Don DeSarro, Robert Stanton, Herman McLeod, Sidney Barnes, George Desgain, David Fuller, Bill Hudgins, Jack Jennings, Jack Garnett, Ray Hall, Jim Ferebee, Bonney Strawhand, Phil Wade and Tuck Finley. Harvey Shiflett is coach.

Willcox New Prexy?

BEACH BOROUGH--Thomas H. Willcox Jr., a partner in the law firm of Willcox, Savage, Lawrence, Dickson & Spindle, which has a branch office here, may be the next president of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce.

Willcox has been nominated to succeed John R. Sears in the position. Other officers nominated for 1968 are C.E. Thurston, Jr., of C.E. Thurston & Sons, Inc., 1st vice president; Dr. William C. Andrews, obstetrician and gynecologist, 2nd vice president, and R. Braxton Hill, with Waller and Woodhouse, certified public accountants, treasurer.

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--State and city highway officials have eased traffic congestion in the London Bridge area here by opening new pavement at the future interchange for the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway at the fork of Virginia Beach Boulevard and Laskin Road.

Motorists traveling east on the boulevard, and bound for the Oceana business area or the south part of the Beach Borough, will continue using two right lanes on new concrete pavement as they have for several weeks.

Vehicles traveling west from the Oceana business area can now use two new westbound lanes on the boulevard, merging with traffic coming off Laskin Road onto the boulevard near the traffic signal at Great Neck Road, London Bridge.

Motorists traveling east on Virginia Beach Boulevard who want to get onto Laskin Road can bear to the right after passing through the London Bridge business area and use an overpass which carries vehicular traffic over the main lanes of the boulevard.

This traffic, bound for the Hilltop area and the north Beach Borough area via Laskin Road, enters Laskin at a new traffic signal. Now closed are what were temporary eastbound lanes.

Johnson said the new pavements opened last weekend are permanent arrangements for traffic control and will be used in the same way after the expressway opens later this year. When the interchange is completed as part of the expressway (Virginia Highway 44), it will be Exit No. 6 in the expressway system.

Beach Vote Continues

Scores of VIRGINIA BEACH SUN readers have sent in their answers, during the past week, on the question of the local right to vote on whiskey sales. The "Yes" votes continue to lead by a considerable margin.

The results of the poll are being tabulated, and the results will be announced exclusively in the SUN in a future edition.

While a great majority of the votes for the poll are coming from Virginia Beach residents, several are coming from readers outside of the city. They are being tabulated separately.

On Board

Beach C. of C. Has 10 New Directors

Members of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce recently elected 10 new members to the chamber's board of directors for three years beginning Jan. 1 of 1968.

They were elected automatically when there were no other persons nominated after a chamber nominations committee presented a slate of officers for consideration.

The new directors are:

Edward R. Amburn, a Virginia National Bank executive; Frank L. Fentress, a food market executive; Charles W. Gardner, a motel operator; Richard D. Guy, an attorney; Walter J. Leveridge, president of a chemical company; James H. Midgett, industrial executive; Clenton W. Shanks, a utility executive; B.M. Stanton, business executive; Fred B. Strickland, motel operator, and Mrs. Lucy F. Trafton, business woman.

Those directors and others presently serving on the board will elect chamber officers at a meeting later this year. R. Bradshaw Pulley is chamber president now.

The other members of the board of directors include Wallace T. Clarke, A.B. Crews, George H. Davis, R.L. DeHart, W.J. Dekker, W. Clark Fleming, Charles H. Forbes, Herbert A. Holt Jr., Richard F. Kline, John A. Maddox, D. Murray Malbon, John W. McCombs, George T. Mullen, Frederick J. Napolitano, Adam Orgera, Michael C. Savvides, Robert M. Stanton, Dr. James N. Williams, Col. J. K. Hostetler (US Army Ret.) and Edward P. Brogan.

Frank W. Kellam Sr. is chamber vice president; James Kontopanos is treasurer and Mrs. Trafton is secretary to the board. Albin R. Mailhes is chamber executive vice president.

At a recent planning session for a Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce membership drive, scheduled in late November, were Albin R. Mailhes, Roger M. Scott, Mrs. Laura Lambe, L. A. Sancilio (chairman), Robert Whitley, Horace A. Cistola and Barbara R. Leitman. (SUN Staff Photo)

How About It?

The 1968 General Assemby of Virginia is expected to consider legislation proposed to give voters in each city and county the righ to decide whether they want whiskey sold by the drink, under specific controls, within their own community.

Since the question has been debated in greater Virginia Beach's seven boroughs for years, the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN is conducting a "straw poll" on the question. Clip the coupon below, write "yes" or "no" and mail as directed. One per reader, please, with signatures optional.

Should voters in each community have the right to decide how whiskey is sold within their community? _____

Mail to SUN poll, Post Office Box 687, Virginia Beach, Va. 23451.

Local PTA Council Meets Nov. 15

BEACH BOROUGH--The Virginia Beach Council Branch of PTA's, with 24 member schools in the city's seven boroughs, will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. at W.T. Cooke Elementary School.

The Child & Family Service of Norfolk will present a Play for Living, the "Green Blackboard," directed by Liz Sills of Virginia Beach. The play's theme is that having children enter the first grade of school before the legal age of entrance can bring inappropriate and premature pressures on some children.

Many of the weeds that are constantly with us year after year can be controlled by an application of herbicide during the period ending November 30.

Some of the weeds that can be controlled with an application of 2,4-D at this time are: buttercup, false dandelion, chickweed, dandelion, mustards, pepperweed, and plantain.

This chemical can often be bought in combination with fertilizer. There are other herbicides that will do the required job, also, such as dicamba.

When using herbicides, be sure that it is not applied to (or near) desired ornamental plants. This will damage and sometimes kill these plants.

Also, be sure to follow directions and precautions very closely when using these chemicals.

Beach Eagles Observe Freedom Week

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, Virginia Beach Aerie No. 3204, is observing "Freedom Week" as part of national observance of Freedom Month designated by resolution of the Grand Aerie Convention in Kansas City, Mo., in July.

Bernard J. Kern, president of the local Eagles, asked that city residents fly their American flags each day this week. He said this week of Nov. 5 to 11 marks the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevick Revolution in Russia and the beginning of Communism. The Fraternal Order of Eagles is a member of the All American Conference to Combat Communism, which stresses a Know Your America Week this month.

Robert Pierce and Ray Hellman are co-chairman for Freedom Month activities in Virginia Beach.

PUNGO BOROUGH--The Women's Society of Christian Service at Charity Methodist Church held its annual supper and bazaar last Saturday, Nov. 4, in the social hall, according to Mrs. Maude P. Harrison.

Fugate: Highway Policy Is 'Economical'

RICHMOND, VA.--The state government's policy of retaining local law firms in various communities to legally represent the government in highway land matters is saving the state's taxpayers money, according to Douglas B. Fugate, commissioner of the Virginia Highway Department.

This is the gist of a report which Fugate recently made to Gov. Mills E. Godwin, and which other newspapers interpreted in different ways.

Fugate said officials in five of Virginia's neighboring states were contacted in person, and Virginia officials obtained information by phone and mail from six other state governments "which I feel represent a cross-section of the country."

He said the survey revealed that the supervision of the legal services was handled either by the Highway Department or the Attorney General in those other stages, and the numbers of attorneys on the payrolls of those states ranged from a low of 10 to a high of 125.

"As you know, the State of Virginia has two full-time staff attorneys to supervise the acquisition of right of way," Fugate wrote. "Eight of the eleven states contacted used private fee attorneys in addition to staff attorneys for acquisition of right of way, and in four of the neighboring states, there are employed local fee attorneys in each county on a basis similar to that employed in Virginia."

Based on information obtained, Fugate wrote that legal costs to the various states ranged from a low of 2.59 per cent of total right of way costs to a high of 7.11 per cent.

The percentage of legal costs to Virginia for the same period of time was 2.39 per cent of total right of way costs, he wrote.

He wrote that at the time of his report, Virginia had 98 attorneys throughout the state designated by the Attorney General to handle the Department's legal work in connection with right of way acquisition.

"For the year ending June 30, 1967, these attorneys represented the (Highway) Department in handling 7,052 right of way transactions with a total acquisition cost of $28,161,534.44," Fugate wrote. "Utility relocation and other costs brought total right of way expenditures to $37,772,283.90, but the attorneys participated in the land transactions only."

He wrote that the attorney, or their law firms, were paid $871,271.79 for services in connection with the acquisition of right of way, or an average of $8,890 to each firm, or $123 per transaction.

"Since about twenty per cent of these transactions were time consuming court cases, this average fee per transaction appears very reasonable indeed," Fugate wrote.

He said it appears to him that the State of Virginia's present policy of "utilizing a small staff of attorneys and private local attorneys to acquire its right of way is the most economical method." "This opinion is based on the fact that most of our neighboring states which employ larger staffs of attorneys still utilize local attorneys in the same manner that the State of Virginia employs these attorneys."

Parker Heads V.B. Realtors

Bailey Parker will be installed as president of the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors in January, succeeding Scott Taylor in the position.

The board at a recent luncheon meeting at The Cavalier hotel, also elected the following to serve with Parker next year:

Alford William (Bill) Wells, vice president; Bert Bissett, secretary; Herbert Cooper, treasurer, and Scott Brooks, two-year director. Other directors now are Kenny Jard, Jerry Verdon and Harry Evans.

Scott Taylor also will begin a two-year term as director when the new officers are installed Jan. 19, 1968 at a dinner at The Cavalier.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Officer C.E. Stinson, of the 3rd Police Precinct, recently praised the cooperation of members of Boy Scout Troop No. 440.

Spotting smoke coming from a house on Newtown Road, Stinson called for fire fighting equipment, which arrived as a crowd gathered. Stinson said the Boy Scouts came and began assisting fire fighters and directing traffic. The scouters were identified as Frank George, Willie George, Mike McDaniels, Condon Meeks, Bruce Miller, and their advisor, Howard George.

Members of the Seatack Volunteer fire and rescue unit are attending weekly classes on methods of fighting various kinds of fires. Training Director Paul Hughes said classes are being held each Thursday night at the station. Hughes said Sidney Cornick, Jr., recently earned the highest score for the evening.

Police Sgt. Norman Morse and officer Frank Scarborough are like others in the Virginia Beach Police Division who like the great outdoors. They and other men at the 2nd Precinct have been putting the final touches on their duck blinds and generally getting ready for the duck season when it opens here Nov. 20.

A recent trip to New York City by Capt. R.C. Davis, 2nd Precinct C.O., and Capt. W.J. Moore, Jr., 3rd Precinct C.O., showed how advanced the Virginia Beach Police Division is.

When they were in New York, Davis and Moore were told how desk sergeants in that city's precincts are being seated behind counters so they are eye-to-eye with people on the other side of the counters.

Davis and Moore said, "we already have this." The New Yorkers then showed photographs of a new radio communications center planned for several precincts.

Davis and Moore, with a gleam in their eye said, "we already have this, too." It was put in use in mid-October.

A challenge has been issued by men of the Ocean Park volunteer fire and rescue unit. Bryan Glover says the unit has the highest percentage of non-smokers of any fire and rescue unit in the city. Glover says any unit which wants to try and prove the statement wrong should contact the Ocean Park station.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Virginia Beach Fire Council will be next Monday night at the Davis Corner fire station.

Graham White, fire council secretary, says one of the topics to be discussed is plans for opening the new Windsor Woods fire station, located on west Plaza Trail. The new station is expected to be ready for use about the first of December, for men of the Princess Anne Plaza volunteer fire and rescue unit.

Sgt. Daniel Creelman, Jr., attached to the Bayside Police Precinct, is one of the most avid golfers in the city. While Creelman won't tell his usual score for 18 holes, he claims he can take on any golfer in the division. (Wonder what his golf handicap is?)

Beach AAUW Meets Wed. At Chapel

The November meeting of the Virginia Beach Chapter of the American Association of University Women will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 15 at eight p.m., at the Eastern Shore Chapel.

The subject of the program will be "Changing Values Affect Art and Music". It has been prepared and will be presented by Mrs. Joseph Armbruster, Mrs. Murray Malbon, Mrs. Ronald Michelson, and Mrs. Joseph Sadler.

This same program will be presented in Richmond on Nov. 18 as a part of the Eastern District Workshop of AAUW. Mrs. James G. Kellam and Mrs. Charles Lovitt will also attend the workshop in Richmond.

Mrs. Joseph Sadler, president of the local branch, was to represent the group at the Miller and Rhoads Women's Forum in Richmond on the ninth of November.

Young Families Don't Buy Memorial Property . . . OR DO THEY?

"You bet they do! Mine did! When the representative from Princess Anne Memorial Park explained it to us, we didn't have to be sold"...we bought promptly and for very sound reasons.

"I don't want my wife, or me either for that matter, to make decisions where our cemeters property should be, ALL ALONE. This is a choice we make TOGETHER.

"I want to protect our savings and insurance from the ever increasing rise in cemetery land costs. The representative showed us how in the last 10 years, alone this type of property has in some instances doubled in price. That's another reason I bought now.

"We have seen, first hand, the cruel burdens on a family when it has neglected to plan in advance. Among other things, much of the sudden financial costs that hit them could have been avoided. Now, I am paying just a few dollars a month and at today's prices. I know that what I leave my family will remain intact.

"What do you think was the clincher that led us to select Princess Anne Memorial Park ...We found it to be the loviest in the Tidewater area and the costs were the same or less compared to the others we examined...and that Betty and I could both agree, now, together, where we wanted our Memorial Property.

"With a trust fund established by Princess Anne Memorial Park, perpetual care is guaranteed to keep it beautiful for always.

"If you ask me, and I know you didn't, I still say take care of it right now because that's really taking care of your family."

A Stronger Faith for All

Reports from Virginia Beach City Hall on the number of building permits issued through the month of October this year leave no doubt that construction in our city of greater Virginia Beach continues on the rise.

It also is interesting to note that, while permits for residential construction continue on the increase, those for commercial buildings also have been rising in recent months.

For example, the dollar values listed on permits issued by the city government for private commercial construction during October alone was near $1 million. At the same time, values listed for residential construction topped $4.5 million, helping boost the value figure for this year to near $43 million.

Obviously, rising prices for materials, labor and services necessary in the building industry are reflected in the value figures. But the number of permits issued by the local government also is above last year's level. The figure for the period of January through October this year was 2,679, compared to only 2,350 for the same 10 months of 1966.

It is heartening to many in our growing community to hear or read of such good news, particularly at a time when men of wisdom, courage, hope and faith are finding ways to settle differences here, as well as in the state, nation and world.

There are legal disagreements in our community today which would tend to slow progress in greater Virginia Beach. It is up to the courts to decide the legal merits of such things as property ownership, but reasonable men are finding ways to compromise for the time being so progress can continue.

It also may be timely to note that the election on Tuesday of this week, when Democratic candidates swept to easy victories in our community to disappoint local Republicans, indicated most of the voters are satisfied.

While the relatively low turnout of voters indicated a certain amount of apathy in the views of some, it indicates to us that most of the city's residents are satisfied with the present city administration and Democratic leadership.

Perhaps it is due in no small part to the progress which has been and is being made in making our community a better place in which to live and pursue happiness, with our friends and neighbors.

This, together with the cooperation evident on all sides and that particularly good news on construction permits show that hope and faith in our community are stronger than ever.

A small girl watched quietly as students of Cox High and Princess Anne High had a patriotic march on Atlantic Avenue last Saturday. Here they march past the Norwegian Lady Statue, where American and Norwegian Flags fly at 25th Street on the oceanfront.

letters to the editor

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

Having [illegible] Beach since the early [illegible], I have cherished this quote: "The progress record on any human life paints a clear picture of its heredity and environment."

This quote spells out clearly how far each of us project ourselves into the future. One of mankind's most cowardly habits is the one that perpetuates his attempt to blame another for his own failures and weaknesses. The goals we set up and the ones we reach are our own choosing and accomplishments.

Projecting our own image into the lives of the future generations is an unavoidable, challenging assignment, divinely awarded. To do the job well, we must stimulate for good, emulate the best, and encourage for growth.

If anyone thinks they can measure up to this assignment, try it out. You'll get the biggest surprise of your life, and you will expand characterwise, beyond belief. It's worth a try. Believe it.

Ed. L. Applegate

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

This is a tribute to the memory of Dr. Robert Woodhouse who ministered to mankind so many years. My daughter owes her life to him as I'm sure do thousands of others.

I think God wanted a Saint in earth, He sent Dr. Woodhouse.

'A City of Young Families'

(Editor's Note: The Sun last week published Chapter 1 of "Master Plan Report Number 7," prepared by the City Planning Commission and the City School Board for consideration by Virginia Beach City Council as a community facilities and education plan. Here is Chapter II.)

"A profile of school enrollments can best be generated by the consideration of two factors: (1) The [illegible] Total School Enrollment [illegible] Survival Rates of School Enrollments.

"These two factors have been studied and analyzed separately.

"The [illegible] grade charts should be referred to in order to clarify the observations made. These computations are found in Appendix III and IV.

"Appendix III shows that in 1966 the percentage of enrollment [illegible] from 10.05 in the first grade to 8.00 in the 6th grade, with 8.76 per cent of the students in the 7th, 8.83 per cent in the 8th and [illegible] 9th grade. Appendix IV is a line [illegible] for each grade through the years [illegible].

"These figures were compiled by using the total school enrollment for the years 1959 through 1966 and computing for each year the percentage of total enrollment contained in each grade 1 through 12.

"It will be noted that the percentages decrease steadily as the grades increase except for a slight relative rise in the eighth grade due to feed-in from parochial and private schools into the public school system.

"This gradual decrease is normal in most school systems due to out-migrations of older families and, to a very small degree, to drop-outs. Also, the decrease may be influenced to some extent by the constant movement of the military population in our City. Approximately 47 per cent of total school enrollment in the City is Federally connected. The young military families with pre-school and elementary school age children are constantly replacing the older families, thus providing a constant feed-in into the school system far in excess of the birth rate. Another way of stating this phenomenon is that there are more jobs for the young/junior rank military personnel than for the older/senior ranks; thus a relative out-migration of seniors and an in-migration of juniors results.

"The next observation to be made by examining these figures is that through the last eight years there has been negligible change in the grade distribution. It may thus be assumed that this distribution will continue to characterize the school system for the period of this

"The remarks and observations below can be more easily followed by noting the [illegible] and grade charts showing school enrollment survival rates in Appendixes V and VI.

"Survival rates of school enrollments were computed for the year 1959 through 1966. The first grade rates are generated by dividing the total enrollment per grade for the year by the total births during the year 6 years prior (the feed-in to first grade). For example the first grade survival rate for the year 1959 results from dividing nineteen hundred eight five persons (1959 1st grade enrollment) by 2028 (total births in 1953). The results in a rate of 97.87 per cent, an indication of very small mortality and out-migration.

"It is of great importance at this time to focus attention on the very significant increase in the survival rate from 1961 to 1965. The rate increased from 100.2 per cent in 1961 to 158.63 per cent in 1965. This increase indicates the beginning of the era (as far as school enrollment is concerned) of great in-migration of families with young children into Virginia Beach. This happening coincides with the completion and sell-out of the large housing developments in the City during 1958 and 1959, Aragona Village having the greatest impact. Since 1959 there has been a steady total increase in large housing developments in the City which have, in increasing numbers, attracted young families to the City. Therefore, for the foreseeable future, a very high survival rate into the first grade can be expected.

"The survival rates for grades 2 through 12 were computed as a percentage of the grade proceeding to the next higher grade for a given year. For example, a survival rate of 92.59 per cent was generated in 1959 by dividing 1838 persons (enrollment in second grade) by 1985 (enrollment in first grade).

"Survival rates thus computed indicate a fairly stable progression from grade to grade and show, as did the grade distribution tables preceding, a small attrition from the lower to the higher grades. Two exceptions to this statement should be pointed out. The input of parochial and private schools cause a rise in the survival rate in the eighth grade; and in 1960 the fluctuation in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades was caused by Norfolk's annexation in 1959 of a portion of Princess Anne County. For purpose of this plan, however, these exceptions may be ignored.

New, lower phone rates for interstate calls became effective Nov. 1, in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company system.

A simple guide to the new Long Distance rates.

From 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. you can call anywhere in the United States for a dollar or less, for the first three minutes, station to station. (Excluding Alaska and Hawaii).

WEEKENDS

Anytime on weekends you get the very lowest Long Distance rates. Anytime from 7 p.m. Friday to 7 a.m. Monday.

75¢

Anytime between midnight and 7 in the morning, you can call anywhere in the United States for 75¢ or less for the first three minutes. But only if you dial direct. It's sort of a "night people" special.

50¢

There's no change in the Long Distance rates within Virginia. It's still 50¢ or less for the first three minutes station to station after 8 p.m., and all day Sunday. And that's still a bargain.

Think Big--Like His and Her Camels

Have you started your Christmas shopping yet?

You should have, or at least most of the local stores seem to think so. Several toy lands were open before the last Halloween mask was removed from the premises.

One store in the nation has won a reputation for its "way out" Christmas catalogue and gift wrappings. That, as all Texans and many others know, is Neiman-Marcus, whose main store is in Dallas but who recently opened a Christmas store in New York.

Among the "different" items in this year's catalogue are a matched pair of "his and her" camels--for inspecting oil wells maybe? For the antique bugs, the store offers antique English jockey scales. After you get them, where would you put them?

The store also has a street-length cocktail dress fashioned of Brazilian jaguar--a la cave woman, that is.

For the gourmet, the store has a duck press from France (under $200) or perhaps a mortar and pestle for preparing your own spices. Do-it-yourself fans may purchase an antique milk pail. (Hurry, the store only has three.)

Is your husband a sports fan who doesn't like to get up from the tv during a sports event? N-M has an 18 ounce size beer mug.

For the man or woman who has everything, there is a diamond and emerald encrusted handle for an umbrella or walking stick. (It's under $2,000.)

If you really want to splurge, you can buy a diamond and agate trimmed candy dish or cigarette case for less than $13,000. (That is not a typographical mistake.)

How about a grapefruit tree--Texas grown, that is?

There's even an inflatable, life-size figure of a man to sit alongside the solo woman driver at night to discourage attackers.

Another handy item is a fingertip ring--gold and jeweled--to camouflage a broken nail. Now if they would just come up with something for dish pan hands.

For tennis lovers you can purchase a sequinned tennis sweater--for night games no doubt. There's a pair of satin pants to match.

Then for the girl who has everything there is a 24 karat gold spun wig. We won't even mention price, but about three years' salary would cover it.

The kiddies aren't forgotten, either. For instance, there's a sleeping bag for toddlers with matching pajamas. Or you might buy Junior a strong box with a built-in alarm to warn him when Daddy is "borrowing."

A really thoughtful gift for any young tv viewer is a pewter tankard with a glass bottom so the children can have uninterrupted watching while drinking their milk.

Something we haven't seen before in men's fashions is the dinner shirt--worn outside the pants without a jacket. It's pleated like a regular formal shirt.

For the extra lazy (or extra fat) hubby, you can buy a 26-inch long shoe horn for shoeing without bending.

There's a portable drink mixer, operated by two flash light batteries. Then to sober up, get an expresso coffee maker. It looks sort of like a still with six spigots.

If you still haven't decided on a present, try a gift certificate to the N-M spa for a week--for losing or gaining weight and general beautifying. (Remember Lucy?)

Barbara Byrd, Jim Ewing, Charlene Norman and Needham Cheely were among Virginia Beach teenagers enjoying soft drinks at a Virginia Beach Cotillion Ball last Saturday at the Cavalier Beach & Cabana Club.

Proud of a display of artificial flowers at the Thoroughgood Garden Club's bazaar last Saturday were Mrs. A.H. Culpepper, bazaar chairman; Mrs. Taylor Gray, club president; Mrs. M.F. McAfee, Mrs. F.A. Manning, Mrs. H.M. Jordan and Mrs. C.L. Owens. (Photo by C. Phelps)

Symbolic Meal Opens Service For World Community Day

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--A simple lunch of soup and unbroken bread opened the World Community Day program sponsored by the Virginia Beach Council of Church Women United last Friday at Old Donation Episcopal Church.

The meal was eaten as a symbol of the starvation and suffering in two thirds of the world today.

More than 100 women representing 34 churches in Virginia Beach attended the annual service of prayer. Baby layettes were brought for overseas relief and blankets for Seatack Community Center.

Mrs. Jesse Jones, a teacher at Kellam High School, lead the worship service on "Who Shall Separate Us?", the theme used throughout the world for World Community Day. Mrs. L.W. Chase was overall chairman.

Churches represented at the service, which is held in a different church each year, were First Baptist, Piney Grove Baptist, Mt. Olive Baptist, Rehobath Baptist, Bayside Congregational Christian, Lynnhaven Colony United Church of Christ, Salem Methodist, Beach Grove Methodist, Lekies Methodist, Friends Meeting House, Good Shepherd Lutheran and Our Savior Lutheran.

Also First Presbyterian, Bayside Presbyterian, Christ Presbyterian, Pembroke Manor United Church of Christ, Star of the Sea Catholic, United Church of Christ, Diamond Springs Christian Disciples, Eastern Shore Episcopal, Galilee Episcopal, Old Donation Episcopal, Foundry Methodist, Community Methodist, Baylake Methodist, Francis Asbury Methodist, Thalia Methodist, First Baptist of Lynnhaven, Charity Methodist and St. Nicholas Catholic.

Seventh Annual

Follies to Benefit Many

The arrival of their director and the yearly Cast Party got preparations for the seventh annual Cabaret Follies presented by the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club well under way last weekend.

The follies, scheduled this year for Nov. 17 & 18 at the Virginia Beach Civic Center from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., are the club's money-raising project for the benefit of Camp Civitan and the open heart surgery laboratory at Kings Daughters Childrens Hospital in Norfolk.

Director for this year's follies is Dave Wagamen of the Jerome H. Cargill agency in New York which again is producing the show. Music will be by Al Runaldue. For the uninformed, the cabaret follies is a nightclub-type presentation with woman's clubbers as waitresses, floor show, etc., after a brief, but intensive, training program from a professional agency.

Mrs. George L. Dekker is general chairman with Mrs. V. K. Almond and Mrs. M.A. Niegro as co-chairmen. Other chairmen include Mrs. James C. Mounie, tickets; Mrs. R.K. Michelson, reservations; Mrs. Daniel DeHart, decorations; Mrs. E.S. Wheeler II, talent; Mrs. Andre Evans, cast party; Mrs. William K. Jenking, costumes; Mrs. W.H. Lyons Jr., acknowledgements; Mrs. A.L. Grimes Jr., publicity; Mrs. John I. Bowman, patrons; Mrs. Robert Christian, program, and Mrs. A.S. Gallup, raffle.

Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Mounie (340-4064) or at the Alexander-Beegle store on Laskin Road.

Mayor Frank Dusch presents Mrs. Bowman with the first patron's check for the 1967 cabaret follies.

By Mary Wright

Recognition pins for a combined total of 7,700 Navy Relief work hours have been awarded to 10 members of the Officers' Wives' Club at the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek.

Following a luncheon at the base Officers' Club, Rear Admiral David F. Welch made the presentations to:

Mrs. E.H. Mackel, Mrs. N.C. Sandifer, Mrs. R. A. Hopper, Mrs. R.M. Rhodes, and Mrs. K. C. Kingsbury, all for 100 hours' work; Mrs. C.K. Duncan (wife of Admiral Duncan, former Commander Amphibious Force, Atlantic Fleet) and Mrs. D. R. Barber, both for 600 hours' work; Mrs. S.J. Cooper, 1,000 hours' work; Mrs. J.H. Landers and Mrs. H.M. Litchfield, both for 2,500 hours' work.

The 2,500-hours awards are among the first to be presented in Tidewater.

The luncheon also served as the collection point for clothing and donations that will be sent to the Riddick-Weaver Center for low-income children in Portsmouth. The Center provides help for several hundred pre-school and elementary school children.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. C.E. Bell and the wives of Amphibious Group 4 officers. Mrs. Bell is the wife of Rear Admiral Bell, commander of Amphibious Group 4.

Wine-tasting was the theme of the luncheon. F.G. Gamke, a representative of Great Western Wine Company, was guest speaker.

OCEANA NAS

A Max Factor representative using a live model from the audience for a cosmetic demonstration will be a special feature at the Oceana Wives' Club luncheon, Nov. 15, at the Naval Air Station Officers' Club.

Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. Anne Morgan, Mrs. Dawn Felthousen and Mrs. Pat Nystedt.

As a service project during the holiday season, Oceana wives will gift-wrap purchases from the base exchange free of charge for enlisted men, according to Mrs. Vicki Corbitt, Wives' Club president and the wife of Lt. Cmdr. James R. Corbitt.

The 19th Hole, NAS Oceana's golf shack, was the scene for a Halloween-costume party, Oct. 27. The wives not only provided themselves and their husbands with costumes, but also produced a "home-made" band of egg-beaters, spoons, combs, penny whistles, pot lids and one guitar.

Lt. Cmdr. James R. Corbitt, who came as a flower child, and Lt. (J.G.) Paul Reynolds, who appeared as Dirty Pierre of the North Woods, tied for the best-costume award. The party included square-dancing, apple-bobbing and other appropriately spooky games.

AT DAM NECK

A coffee at the home of Mrs. Joan Sipes, Alanton Drive, was held for the Dam Neck Officers' Wives' Club, Nov. 2

Mrs. Sipes, wife of Cmdr. Lester Sipes, was assisted by wives from three departments of the Fleet Computer Programing Center, including Mrs. S. Chambers and Mrs. Robert Van Kirk.

Christmas festivities for the wives and their husbands will be initiated Dec. 1 with a semi-formal party in the Sea Room at the Dam Neck Officers' Club. The evening will begin at 8 p.m. with champagne and a buffet dinner, followed by dancing and the exchange of gifts.

Hostesses for the dinner-dance will be Mrs. M. White, the chaplain's wife; Mrs. H. Boyles; Mrs. R.D. Rodgers; Mrs. C. Multer; Mrs. T. Santuae and Mrs. C. McDowell.

Officers' Wives at the Guided Missile School, Dam Neck, will hold their monthly social meeting Nov. 15.

Mrs. Georgie Bunte, Mrs. Debbie Nahra, Mrs. Selma Daigneult and Mrs. Frankie Harney will hostess the luncheon, beginning at 1:30 at the Ocean Hearth Restaurant.

On Nov. 21, a one-day bloodmobile will be in operation at the base for donations to the Red Cross. Volunteer help--from general office work to the more technical chores--will be supplied by the wives.

Vivacious Evangelist Visits VirginiaWesleyan Campus

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--"Whose Fool Are You?" challenged Mrs. Eleanor Seale Whitney at the beginning of her talk to Virginia Wesleyan students last Friday during an assembly program.

"Many fools say God is dead," said the attractive and vivacious Mrs. Whitney. "My God is living. I spoke to Him this morning."

Mrs. Whitney was in the Tidewater area for several days, beginning with a "Leadership Prayer Luncheon" on Nov. 1 at the Golden Triangle. Guests included about 100 women from Virginia Beach. Mrs. John Birsch of Cedar Lane was chairman of the luncheon.

Mrs. Whitney, former wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, is now an evangelist. She spoke at Wesleyan in her capacity as an associate adviser to the Campus Crusade for Christ.

"A fool has no joy in living," she said. "A fool lives in darkness. There are two kinds of people in the world--those who ignore Christ and those who devote their lives to Christ and are called fools by others."

Mrs. Whitney said that until 10 years ago (she was converted by Billy Graham then) she looked like a Christian and went through the motions but never surrendered herself to God. "I used God, but He was never able to use me.

"So many college kids aim at nothing in their lives--and succeed. So many are typified by their cocksure uncertainty. They're as phony as a $3 bill.

"Whatever you decide to do with your lives, be a man or woman God can use," she advised as she left to catch a plane for New York where she is facing surgery for the third time this year.

Mrs. Whitney greets students at Wesleyan as President Lambuth M. Clarke looks on.

Miss Crutchfield

Capt. and Mrs. Robert Reynolds Crutchfield of Annandale, Va., formerly of Virginia Beach, announce the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Ann, to Lt. Edward Aberle Ruckner, Jr., USN.

Lt. Ruckner is the son of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Edward Aberle Ruckner of Washington, D.C.

Miss Crutchfield, a graduate of Virginia Beach High School and Marjorie Webster Junior College, is social director at Marjorie Webster.

Lt. Ruckner, a graduate of Kent School and the U.S Naval Academy, is attached to the USS Putnam in Norfolk.

A Fashion Affair

by Olga Edwards

Little by little we are beginning to see more women take on the new look. This is as it should be.

Legs make a definite statement, and cannot be missed--particularly if they are well shaped.

The knee sock is definitely going to be seen worn with street clothes. Of course this, will not go over too well with everyone. The progressively dressed young ladies certainly will be seen wearing them.

Fishnet hose are the smart, new "IN" thing. The small design is very attractive, especially in colors such as black, dark brown and navy. The lighter colors, I feel, are very nice for the young people. This type of hosiery is only for mini skirts or a fashionable length skirt. Never wear them unless your skirt length is mid-knee or shorter. You can buy these hose in the panty type, which you will find very comfortable and especially good for the short mini-skirts.

Knitted fabrics will gain even greater momentum in sportswear with significance placed on colors. This material is always smart looking and can be both dressy or informal. They also are ideal for traveling.

In evening wear you will be seeing a lot of cocktail satins, glitter, velvet and crochets. Satins are going to be quite popular in bright shades: hot pinks and flame orange. They will be shirt style with cuff links and huge pockets often seen with wide or chain belts. The cuff links, of course, are jeweled and large. Other satins will be sleeveless or have trumpet sleeves. Lengths in evening wear will be both long and short. I feel that this year is going to be outstanding for evening wear--sequins, wool crepes, satins and beaded gowns. Evening coats will be brocades and wool material.

The Naivette Shop has some of the prettiest evening bags I have seen. The shapes are very new, no longer the pouch type that we have been using for so long. Lunch box with little handles in silver and gold, octagon shape with gold or silver chain to hold them with. These are covered with rhinestones. Everything will sparkle and glitter not only for evening but everyday wear. (Earrings, large finger rings and beautiful cuff links.)

Monogramming has become a complete must in everyone's wardrobe either on a sweater, dress, blouse or lingerie. Rose Hall has some of the prettiest monogrammed lingerie. The material is of satin and taffeta and comes in assorted colors. To me personalized lingerie would be an ideal gift for any woman whether it be wife, daughter or mother.

The latest in hair styles is short with curls on top of the head. This will be a style easily kept neat and especially with a good permanent for body.

Save Boxes for Rainy Days

Save those shoeboxes.

There's no limit to how children can use them.

The shoebox is a big help for school projects, for instance. A youngster sets the box on its side, facing him, and inside it can create a historical scene. He draws a background in the interior with crayon. In the foreground go props and figures ---dimestore toys work well and so do cut-outs and sketches.

Is he studying jungle life? He draws thick foliage in the box. In the foreground go small jungle animals, and perhaps a watering hole made with pocket mirror and green clay. Is his subject the Stone Age? He colors the inside of the box like a cave. A central fire on the floor can be made with small twigs and red and gold tissue paper. Paper figures can be taped around the fire, busy making spears or pounding skins. The Lewis and Clark expedition calls for a mountain-and-forest background toy canoes and other props. Or the shoebox can show the world of Marco Polo, Columbus or Magellan.

"Shoebox projects help a child learn to research," points out H.M. Benstead, Jr., editorial director of Whitman Publishing Company, Racine, Wis. "Often the work is required by a teacher. Then the child gets curious about costumes, weapons, ways of transportation. He wants to look things up. Many low-cost children's books cover history events and are a good supplement to school materials and library books."

Rainy days can also see shoeboxes used in many forms. Little girls can decorate shoebox rooms and combine them into a dollhouse. Boys can turn shoeboxes into service stations.

You may have to shoo them away from this work when bedtime comes.

Knight-Patriot Clash Is Eastern District Key

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--A victory by the Kellam High Knights over the First Colonial Patriots in high school football Friday night could tighten the fight for No. 2 position in the new Eastern District.

But a win by the Maury High Commodores over the Norview Pilots the same night would be needed to boost Kellam's football fortunes. The Kellam-First Colonial game is at Kellam's stadium, and the Maury-Norview game is at Norview.

In District play thus far, Charlie Caldwell's Knights have a 3-2 record (same as the season record) after a 26 to 13 win over Great Bridge last Friday. Frank Webster's Patriots have a 4-2 record in the District (Norfolk and Virginia Beach), because last Friday's 35 to 6 win over Southampton didn't count in District competition. Neither did a sixth Patriot win this year, over Denbigh.

Norview's Pilots, beaten by Princess Anne's Cavaliers (No. 1 in the District and going for regional and state honors), have a 3-1 District record. The Pilots are favored over the Maury Commodores (5-2 in the District) in Friday night's game, and Maury Coach Jerry Sazio's boys don't like it.

A combination of a Kellam High and a Maury High win would put the Knights and the Pilots in a 7-2 tie for number two spot in the District. The time for both games in 8 p.m.

Mike Futrell, Bob Carson, Dooley Bizzell, David Pace, Alan Clements and Mike Brown figured heavily in last Friday's win for the Knights.

Frank Webster's Patriots, sparked in last Friday's win by three-touchdown Don Bradley, also had Les Whitehorn and Bob Wareing scoring TD's. While those three and Ray Bishop, Clinton Graves and Carlton Rader are among offensive leaders for the Patriots, Jumbo Kitchin and Winslow Stillman have been leading the defense.

While this Friday's game at Kellam High is the last for the Knights, the Patriots have o go next week against Oscar Smith

Alan Clements (44), one of the outstanding players for the Kellam High Knights, outran the Great Bridge Wildcat defender on this play last Friday.

Don Bradley (22) of the First Colonial Patriots stayed ahead of the would-be Southampton tackler to romp 67 yards for a touchdown last Friday.

The Norcom team outweighed and outplayed the Union Kempsville Tigers last Friday, but this photograph was taken as the Tigers' Jesse Davis scored the first of two UK touchdowns, boosting the teams morale despite a 43 to 13 loss.

UK Tries for No. 5

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH--The Union Kempsville Tigers, who managed to score twice against a powerful Norcom High football team last week, will be out to make it a break-even record this Friday night in a game with Crestwood High of Chesapeake.

Joshua Darden's Tigers, who had dependable quarterback Houston Bailey and halfback Jesse Davis doing the scoring last week, travel to Crestwood for the last game of the season.

With a 4-5 record after the 43 to 13 loss to Norcom's big team last week, the Tiger squad will be out to try and even it at 5-5. Charles Harvin, Clyde Siler and Robert Setzer have been assisting Darden in coaching this year.

Davis' touchdown last Friday, followed by an extra-point run, shook Norcom just before the first half ended.

Seahawks Win; Knight Jayvees Tops

BEACH BOROUGH--The Virginia Beach Jr. High football team coached by Willie L. Brave has finished with a winning season--four wins, one loss and one tie.

The Seahawks, in junior varsity play, won their fourth game by beating 8th and 9th graders from Bayside High in a home game last week 19 to 6.

Kempsville High, the other local school playing only jayvee ball, has two more games to go after winning four, losing three and tieing one thus far. The Braves, coached by Tracy L. Moon, beat the First Colonial jayvees 13 to 6 last week.

Donald Van Benschoten's junior varsity club at Princess Anne finished its season last week with a 34 to 0 win over Bayside's junior varsity, giving the Cavalier juniors a 5-1-1 record.

The Kellam High junior varsity has the best record in the city, 6-1-1. Roy Ammons jayvees battled to a 0-0 tie with Norview last week.

Jerry Loar's First Colonial juniors finished the season with a 1-7 record, and Joe Lee Cox's jayvees at Bayside finished 1-3-2.

Falcons Face Cavalier Test

The Cavaliers' Mickey Byrd (60) came up with the football in this scramble after a blocked Bayside punt in the end zone, scoring the last of three touchdowns in Princess Anne's 19 to 0 win over the Marlins last Friday. Wayne Caudill (92) was in on the play and Paul Ziegler (86) signaled the TD the same time as the referee.

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--The Princess Anne Cavaliers, riding high in state high school football rankings (No. 1), play host to the hapless Falcons of Cox High at Princess Anne's stadium here Friday night.

Unbeaten in ning games this season and 14 games in two years, the Cavaliers have cinched a berth in the regional championship, scheduled for Dec. 1, with the Hampton High Crabbers as the probable opponent.

Bob German quarterbacked John Grady's Cavaliers to a 19-0 win over the Versprille-coached Bayside Marlins last week, although fog wet the football and the grass, making both slippery.

Mickey Byrd scored a TD by snagging a blocked kick in the Marlin end zone, after Tom Counter had scored once more on a German pass, and John Kiefer had added another touchdown to his string. German kicked an extra point.

The Bayside Marlins, finishing the season with a single win in nine games (the opener over Cox High Sept. 8), put up a tough defense against the Cavallers.

The SUN last week listed the Cavalier roster. Here is the Bayside team, in addition to stars Ray Emerson, Ken Reightler, Mark Laubach, Gary Parisi, Jackie Boone and Butch Gardner:

Paul Elswick, Joe Daversa, Jack Freeman, Jim Carmack, Robert Jones, Matt Danlels, Jinx Myers.

Jim Higgins, Lynn Haskins, Jim McClurg, Dave Austin, Doug Porter, Blnky Reese, Marty Deafenbaugh.

Ratio Boost Doesn't Mean Tax Increase, Officials Say

A City Council vote this week to increase the real estate assessment ratio, from about 36 per cent to 60 per cent of "fair market value," will not change local realty tax bills, according to city officials.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said the purpose of the action by City Council on Monday was to enable the city to legally borrow more money through the sale of municipal bonds.

He said there will not be any change in the city's rates for real estate taxes in the seven boroughs until City Council considers the city government's budget for the next fiscal year, which starts July 1 of 1968.

William W. Connell, recently appointed city real estate assessor, is working out a plan to equalize taxes on real estate here. He has not yet announced specific details.

By changing the ratio of assessment on land and improvements, the city government can stay well within the legal limit set by state law and continue issuing city bonds to finance highway, recreation, sewer, water, public school and other improvements.

The amount of city taxes an individual property owner pays on land depends on the value assessed at the ratio of fair market value, after the actual tax rate set by City Council is applied.

A reassesment of land in the city can cause a person's tax bill to go up, or remain the same. And in some cases, the amount of tax is not changed.

In other action at Monday's meeting, City Council:

*Adopted a resolution commending 8-year-old Bobby Joe Smith Jr. of Chickasaw Road for saving the life of a 4-year-old girl who fell into a canal. (The boy was praised for his "courage,' presence of mind and unselfishness.")

*Authorized the Carolina Coach Co. (Trailways) to run experimental bus service on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway (Virginia Highway 44), after it opens next month.

*Heard Hatchett report that the city is studying the possibility of extending sanitary sewer service to Bayville Farms.

*Took under advisement a proposed resolution asking that City Council approve the idea of "voluntary" action on fair housing. So-called "panic selling" has not happened here because of good race relations.

*Approved plans and specifications, submitted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, for maintenance dredging in the Lynnhaven Inlet channel. (The Army Engineers will let a contract for the work.)

*Authorized Hatchett to make a study of the city's policy on developers making water and sewer line connections with new transmission mains installed here in recent years.

*Received a report, from the Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission, that the sewer interceptor line on Shore Drive, between the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel and Shelton Road, has been completed and cost the city less than City Council had anticipated.

*Appointed Edward H. Renn of Cavalier Park to represent Virginia Beach on Southeastern Virginia committee, proposed by the state government to combat air pollution.

*Awarded a $127,953 contract to Ames & Webb, Inc., for the construction of four traffic lanes on Providence Road, from Interstate 64 west to Indian River Road. There are now two lanes there.

Lt. Commander Hebert Bolles, a Navy chaplain, was the main speaker last Saturday at a Veteran's Day ceremony at Rosewood Memorial Cemetery in Bayside Borough. Bolles, who won a bronze star for gallantry in the Viet Nam war, said the reason the United States is fighting the North Vietnamese is to buy a nation time to stand on its own two feet.

Beach Man Speaks at ODC About 'Mentally Disturbed'

BEACH BOROUGH--Dr. James N. Williams, director of the Atlantic Mental Hygiene Center on Atlantic Avenue, is among speakers for the fifth annual open program of the Virginia Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children on Nov. 18 at Old Dominion College.

"Resources for the Emotionally Disturbed Child in Virginia" will be the subject of the meeting, according to Henry C. Magee, president of the newly-organized Tidewater Chapter of VAEDC.

Other speakers include Dr. Haim G. Ginott, Dr. Douglas F. Powers, Dr. John Mullaney, Mrs. Margaret Hudson, Dr. Ruth Harrell and Edward G. Necco. Mrs. Josephine Peters Killinger of the Norfolk public school system is coordinator for the program Nov. 18.

92 Percent Write 'Yes' In SUN Whiskey Poll

When the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN ended its poll on the question of the right to vote on how whiskey is sold within their community, 92 per cent of the persons who answered the poll said "Yes" The other 8 per cent said "No."

One of the last votes to arrive by mail on Monday of this week said "Yes", with this added comment: "But 'No' for Sale of Whiskey in Virginia Beach."

This was an apparent reference to the time when voters might be asked to approve whiskey-by-the-drink sales here. The question expected to be considered by the Virginia General Assembly early next year is whether voters in each community should have the right to decide how whiskey is sold.

The specific question asked in the SUN poll was basically that one.

Which city is on top is clear in the background sign on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway's administration building, south of Thalia and west of Windsor Woods. In the foreground are concrete dividers for lanes at the "mainline toll barrier," which has metal and glass automatic collection booths (left). Cars bound for Norfolk will have to pay 25 cents if they go through the toll lanes shown here. The new highway is scheduled to open December 1.

Official Vote Confirms Demo. Win

An official canvass of returns from the general election last Tuesday, Nov. 7, has confirmed the sweeping Democratic victory reported in last Thursday's issue of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN.

Reports from the state courts of record here and in Chesapeake and Portsmouth also showed State Sen. William H. Hodges of Chesapeake led in the number of votes received for election to State Senate seats in the 3rd Senatorial District.

He received 21,103 votes in Virginia Beach, Portsmouth and Chesapeake. The other Democratic victors for the state senate, Edward T. Caton III of Virginia Beach, and Willard J. Moody of Portsmouth, received 20,594 votes and 21,087 votes, respectively.

A non-aligned independent, George R. Walker, received 5,379 votes in the three cities, with the lowest number in his home city of Portsmouth.

Candidates running for office only in Virginia Beach and the total votes they received were:

House of Delegates--Kenneth N. Whitehurst Jr., Administration Democrat, 9,511; B. R. Middleton, United Democrat, 8,801; Henry F. Clarke, Republican, 3,372; and John A. Field III, Republican, 3,022.

Clerk of Circuit Court--John V. Fentress, Administration Democrat, 9,605; and David R. Smithson, Republican, 3,237.

Commonwealth's Attorney--Andre Evans, United Democrat, 9,072; and Israel Steingold, Republican, 3,255.

City Sergeant--John E. Marr, Democrat, 8,966; Charles E. Richardson, Republican, 2,965; and Joseph Dreano, non-aligned independent, 586.

City Treasurer V.A. Ethridge, unopposed in the election, received 11,332 votes; and Revenue Commissioner Ivan D. Mapp, also unopposed, received 10,870, according to the official canvass by election commissioners.

The latest in 1968 model cars from Chrysler, General Motors, Ford and American Motors factories were featured at the show. William Thompson was show chairman, and H.A. Holt Jr. and J. Roy Alphin were on the show committee.

Virginia Beach dealers represented were Alphin Motors, Inc.; Beach Ford, Inc.; Brooks-Shorter Motor Co., Inc.; Everett-Jordan Motor Co.; Malbon Motor Co., Inc.; Meekins Pontiac Corp.; R.K. Chevrolet, Inc, and Thompson-Royal Dodge, Inc.

Miss Cynthia Hershberger, reigning Virginia Beach Junior Miss, drew the ticket from a wire drum for the winner of a Chevy Jr., a child's car powered by a gasoline engine. The winner was J.D. Felton of Adam Keeling Road, Virginia Beach.

Computer Helps To Pick 'Junior Miss'

The Electronic Computer Programming Institute of Tidewater (ECPI) will present a scholarship at the Virginia Beach Junior Miss pageant, scheduled for November 25 at Princess Anne High School.

This will be in addition to the scholarship to be presented by R. K. Chevrolet, Inc., major local sponsor of the pageant in cooperation with the Bayside-Princess Anne Jaycees.

The ECPIT scholarship will be for a course in data processing and computer programming.

Finalists for local Junior Miss competition have been given a programming aptitude test, and the five girls with the highest scores will be asked to submit a short essay to determine the final winner. A committee of three will select the winner, based on the essay.

The ECPI school system is comprised of 93 schools nationwide, and the one in this area has been in operation almost two years.

J.L. Kitchin Appointed As School Rep.

'Coxwain' Earns All-American

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--An All-American honor rating has been awarded to the COXSWAIN, a local school newspaper published by and for students at Frank W. Cox High School.

The honor rating is from the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA) and is for the newspaper during the 1966-67 school year, when Miss Jane Richardson was editor. She also was a correspondent for the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN during the year and is presently a freshman at Longwood College.

Editor of the COXSWAIN this year is Miss Lou Skinner. Miss Dean Repass is staff advisor on the school faculty.

"We, the students at Cox, are proud of the commendation and wish to inform others of the achievement," Miss Skinner said of the All-American rating.

The honor rating for the COXSWAIN was in the 77th All American Newspaper Critical Service of the NSPA.

More than 1,000 student newspapers published at high schools all over the nation are judged in the annual competition.

The All-American rating represents superior accomplishment and is reserved for top publications.

Entries are judged in all areas of production, from coverage through writing and makeup. NSPA headquarters is at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis.

It's Crepe Myrtle For City Flower

PR, ANNE BOROUGH--Virginia Beach City Council has approved the idea of adopting the Crepe Myrtle as the official flower of Virginia Beach.

Council took the action at a public meeting Monday, after the idea was advanced by the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs, Inc., and the Virginia Beach Beautification Commission, Inc., and endorsed by Elgie L. Easter, city horticulturist, and Fred Heutte, who conceived the idea of the Botanical Gardens in neighboring Norfolk.

Members of City Council present at the meeting and voting in favor of designating the large shrub as Virginia Beach's official flower were Mayor Frank A. Dusch, Vice Mayor Robert B. Cromwell Jr., and Councilmen Lawrence Marshall, Albert L. Bonney Sr., George R. Ferrell, Kenneth N. Whiteburst Sr., Earl N. Tebault, D. Murray Malbon, John W. McCombs and J. Curtis Payne.

The Crepe Myrtle, spelled "Crape" by some persons, is scientifically classified as in the botanical family of Lythraceae (loosestrife), genus Lagerstroemia and species indica.

Some of the trees flower in the summer and others in the early autumn, with colors including delicate pink, lavender or purple and white. They are prominent on upper Granby Street in Norfolk and on Ballentine Boulevard there.

Various clubs here, with the aid of the city government and the Virginia Beach Beautification Commission have planted Crepe Myrtle along such prominent Virginia Beach streets as Laskin Road, First Colonial Road and Independence Boulevard.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Members of Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) Lodge No. 8 here have elected Sgt. Harry S. Seager Jr. as president, Sgt. Daniel Creelman Jr. as vice president; J. M. Hughes as secretary, Sgt. B.L. Rogers as treasurer; R. F. Lippert as guard; C.C. Pace as conductor, Lt. F.S. Krahenbill, trustee, and M. Ealy, chaplain.

The new FOP will be installed next month at a Fraternal Order of Police banquet, and their new terms will begin Jan. 1, 1968.

The line of duty of a police officer follows many paths, as was clearly illustrated one day last week. Officer J.J. Sciortino returned to the Bayside Borough police precinct with a little girl about three years of age who undoubtedly was lost. She was quite content with her "escort."

Sciortino had spent considerable time patrolling the Birchwood Gardens subdivision with the girl, in hopes of locating her home. His charge took delight in pointing to any home which caught her eye, saying it was her residence.

To add to the difficulty of locating the girl's home, she would just smile at Sciortino whenever he asked her name.

James Saunders, a game warden at the Back Bay regional headquarters, says he believes this hunting season is better than last year, with a few more hunters taking to the woods and fields. Saunders said a few geese were taken in the fields.

Lt. C.D. Hathaway, attached to the 1st Police Precinct at Princess Anne Court House, graduating this week from the Southern Police Institute class recently completed at the University of Louisville School of Law, at Louisville, Ky. Hathaway was elected First Vice President of the class. Attended by police officers from throughout the United States, the school included courses in police management and administration.

Men of the Kempsville volunteer fire department have elected officers for the new year. They are Eldon Swartzentruber, chief; R.L. Smith, 1st asst. chief; G. White, 2nd asst. chief; S. Bauxbaum, 3rd asst. chief; W. Wells, 1st capt.; E. Brinkley, 2nd capt.; J. Perry, 3rd capt.; G. Wetherington, president; L.M. Culpepper, vice pres.; K. Mathews, sec.; J. Brinkley, treas.; and P. Hershberger, chaplain. Elected to the board of directors were R.L. Smith, D. Humphries, G. R. White, and J. Miskill. Each officer was elected for one year, except Chief Swartzentruber, whose term of office is for two years.

Lt. Floyd S. Krahenbill, attached to the Beach Borough Precinct, is now attending a Police Supervisors' School at Virginia State Police Headquarters in Richmond. Sponsored by the Virginia Chiefs of Police Association, the course was the first of its kind offered in Virginia. Krahenbill was the only police officer from Virginia Beach able to attend the school, because of the large number of requests for admission from throughout the state.

That's what attorneys hear when they advise their clients to be sure to provide – in advance – a place of interment, for themselves and for their families. Muscular Dystrophy Fund Drive Launched at Beach

William P. Kellam, local campaign chairman of the "March Against Muscular Dystrophy," today launched the annual drive in this community by being the first volunteer to ring a doorbell in his neighborhoor.

He announced that approximately a million volunteers in 2,000 communities throughout the U.S. are participating in this year's house-to-house campaign for three days.

"These dedicated volunteers", Mr. Kellam said, "can be identified by the Jerry Lewis badge they wear. We hope people will respond warmly to their efforts."

The campaign chairman pointed out that the diseases with which MDAA is concerned are grim and tragic. The most serious of them, muscular dystrophy, is one of the great scourges of childhood. Within a few years, the stricken youngster goes from braces, to wheelchair, to bed - and he is so weakened that it often takes only an ordinary cold to snuff out his young life.

Mr. Kellam released a statement from the association's honorary chairman, Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, who spoke of "the irreplaceable role of MDAA", and added: "I genuinely hope that all Americans will join us in a campaign that embraces so much of the future well-being of our land."

The drive also has the endorsement of AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has urged his affiliated unions to give it their full support.

A non-profit national voluntary health agency, MDAA maintains a nationwide network of clinics and provides, through its affiliated chapters, a wide variety of patient services to victims of dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases.

MDAA also supports a comprehensive research program both in the United States and abroad. It built and maintains, the institute for Muscle Disease in New York City, the only center in the world devoted exclusively to study of the neuromuscular diseases.

Consultants Visit School

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Miss Rosalie J. Slater and Miss Verna Hall, special consultants to the faculty of the King's Grant Christian Day School, visited the area this week to conduct a workshop and speak to the Parent-Teacher Fellowship at Grace Baptist Church in Norfolk.

Miss Slater and Miss Hall are from the Foundation for American Christian Education in Anaheim, Calif. They are co-authors of "The Christian History of the Constitution," and have spent years researching the nation's Christian heritage.

King's Grant Christian Day School recently opened a new office and school for grades 7 through 9 on Virginia Beach Boulevard east of Davis Corner, Ellen T. Richards, assistant principal, said.

The school is conducting a fund-raising drive for a new building in Virginia Beach so it can move from Norfolk, where it has classes for kindergarten through grade 6 at Grace Baptist Church.

The King's Grant Christian Day School has announced the following students have made the honor roll for the first nine weeks of school. This means that they have made no grade lower than a "B" on their report cards.

First grade, Jesse Matthew Williams, Jr.; second grade, Mariam Bone, Paul Dean, Janet Meekins, Gary Ridgeway, Martin Roy, Amy Stafford and Patty Tolson; third grade, Harold E. Richards, III.; fourth grade, Angela Gattshall, Bridgette Kelly, Mark Love, Kathy Meekins and Jody Stewart; fifth grade, Marta Garthwaite, Jeffery Halsey, Michael Olenik, Peggi Ellen Richards and Sherry Ridgeway; sixth grade, Cindy Johnson; seventh grade, Deborah Garthwaite and eighth grade, Donnia Slate, Janice White and Joyce Stewart.

Safety Signs Need Space

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--The city government of Virginia Beach has some "Protect Our Children" signs available to be erected beside streets near schools, but has a problem with where to erect them.

Reeves E. Johnson, city safety director, said the signs would be helpful in promoting safety on the city's streets, but they will have to be erected on private property.

He said they cannot be legally put on public property beside the streets, and he would like to know of anyone who will consent to allowing the signs to be put on private property beside streets near schools.

The signs were given to the city government by the Loyal Order of Moose headquarters in Mooseheart, Ill. City Council has approved erection of the signs in the city.

Beach Helps UCF Top Goal

The Virginia Beach Medical Society topped its goal by getting 112.7 per cent of its quota in the recent United Communities Fund drive for most of Virginia Beach, part of Chesapeake and Norfolk.

The local medical society's campaign was headed by Dr. James P. Charlton,

C.E. "Pete" Thurston, who has a home in Virginia Beach, was campaign chairman for the overall drive which ended in victory for the 29th straight year by obtaining more than $2 million in contributions and pledges for next year's charity work.

The Virginia Beach public schools also made their quota, with Robert Stenzhorn as chairman. As the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN reported earlier, the first UCF unit to make its goal was the small business unit for the Beach Borough. Earl Slattum and Randy Randolph headed that campaign, with aid from Michael Savvides, William Dekker and H. O. Erhard.

Other Virginia Beach residents also contributed time and effort to the fund drive's success.

'Blitz' Is Coming In Late November

A somewhat mysterious 'Blitz' is being planned by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce to boost the City of Virginia Beach.

The 'Blitz' will involve all of the seven boroughs in the city, and civilian "captains" are being named to organize the campaign, scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 29.

Among charitable groups from Virginia Beach participating in last Saturday's Oyster Bowl Parade in Norfolk was this marching unit of Bethel No. 42, International Order of Job's Daughters, Kempsville Borough.

How about you? Aren't you tired of the midnight fumble when the phone rings? Aren't you a little bored with banging your knee on the end-table in the dark? You really don't have to put up with that. You could be enjoying a bedroom extension phone with its own soft night light right beside the bed. It's more than a convenience. It means extra comfort...extra security. Does Style Contribute to Trash?

There was comment recently in an out-of-town newspaper about Virginia Beach being the "trashiest" city among cities south of Hampton Roads.

Well, everyone knows that where there are people, there is some trash somewhere. But it usually is a problem in older cities.

We hope the reference to Virginia Beach in the Norfolk newspaper was not a slam at our city of clean and healthful living. We hope it was a case of quick interpretation of statistics, on the tons of trash and garbage collected in relation to the number of people who are residents of our community's seven boroughs.

The tonnage published was quite high, and an investigation by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN determined that someone other than the city government official quoted in the newspaper story had used different sets of standards when comparing our city with the others.

But even if there is a lot of trash, garbage and other waste to be collected in the suburbs, and in business, industrial and agricultural areas of the city, there probably are good reasons for it.

Some we can think of at the moment are:

Thousands of visitors from many communities, states and countries visit Virginia Beach each summer to enjoy living and leisure. Unfortunately, some are litterbugs.

In general, year-round residents have a relatively higher income than those in some neighboring cities, so they can afford to throw out what is old and buy what is new to "live it up" with style.

New homes and apartments are being built and occupied, particularly in Bayside, Kempsville and Lynnhaven boroughs. This means there are plenty of empty boxes, cartons or crates to be hauled to the city dump after new appliances, glass, furniture and other furnishings or equipment are taken from the containers.

This is a city of progress and constant change for the better. And if anyone wants to argue about it, he will find some of our commuters, country 'squires,' local 'rebels' proud high school 'gladiators', and some 'executive' types ready to say with fury and a lion's roar:

'There's no place like Virginia Beach, so don't call it trashy."

Any motorist who drives the hundreds of miles of streets and highways, where sign manufacturers are winning in a fight to beautify the city, will agree that things are looking up...up...up.

Which Will You Buy?

Thanksgiving Day as a holiday is only a week from today. And when most families in our community are enjoying the blessings of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, many of those in Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Hampton and Newport News will be going to, or returning from traditional Thanksgiving Day football games.

It may be unfortunate, or it may not, that the No. 1 high school football team in the state of Virginia--our city's Princess Anne High Cavaliers--will not be playing football next Thursday. Leastwise, that was the word in Cavalierland when the SUN press rolled.

Norview (No. 2 in the Eastern District) will be playing Great Bridge(?), beaten earlier by both the Princess Anne and Kellam High football teams, on Nov. 23. Hampton's Crabbers (No. 2 in the Southeastern Region) will be playing the Newport News Typhoons (?). Churchland's Truckers (No. 1 in the Southeastern District) will be playing the Wilson Presidents(?). And Maury's Commodores will take on the Granby Comets in an always-unpredictable game in Norfolk.

So why not a 'turkey day' football game in Virginia Beach? Some say high school football on Thanksgiving interferes with family life. Others say it contributes to family life, since football here in this gridiron season of 1967 was enjoyed by Mums, Dads, and the children.

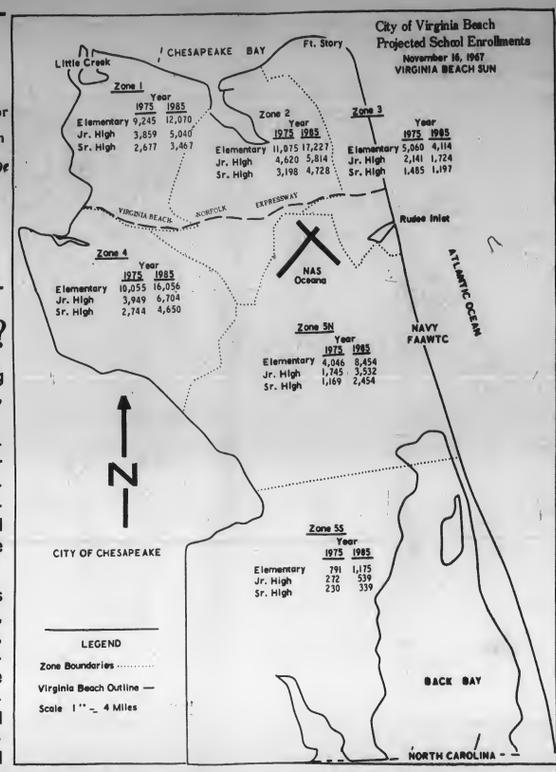
A lot of them went to the Oyster Bowl game last weekend, too, when much to Navy's regret, the Duke Blue Devils outran the Middies with help from Army rooters.

While on the subject of who likes which football team, we suppose it's fair to note that a certain sportswriter in Norfolk reportedly lost almost every bet on which team would be tops in this area.

The Cavaliers, the Knights and the Patriots--each with supporters on the SUN's staff--turned out to be the top teams in our city. Maybe we just like winners who like us.

Now the question is: Which will you buy for Thanksgiving--dinner with the family, a football game, or both? Whatever the answer, don't forget to say 'thanks' for our pleasant and happy city which some call "the first resort." It's also home, and home is as sweet as the faith, hope and charity of living on earth, where we have the courage, integrity and fortitude to do what we should.

Which will you buy for a happier Thanksgiving?



Beach Public Schools

Over 100,000 Students by 1985

PROJECTIONS - SCHOOL ENROLLMENT PATTERNS 1975 and 1985

"The preceding two chapters established grade distribution, survival trends, and total population projections. This chapter will establish the ratio between population and school enrollment, and compute 1975 and 1985 enrollments for the city and for individual education zones.

"From 1959 through 1966, school enrollment has been compared to population. Enrollment figures represent actual reported numbers. Population estimates from 1961 through 1966 have been generated by extrapolating numbers of dwelling units per year from building permits reported and multiplying this number by the average number of persons per dwelling unit. The number of persons per dwelling unit in Virginia Beach is 3.68 (4.00 persons per unit with an 8% overall vacancy rate). This 3.68 overall rate generated locally compares favorably with the 3.7 rate computed by the Bureau of Population and Economic Research at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

"The following table shows the ratio of school enrollment to population from 1959 through 1966.

RATIOS - POPULATION vs. SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

Year	Population	Enrollment	%
1959	80,000	17037	21.29
1960	85,218	19616	23.01
1961	N.A.	–	–
1962	119,236	26164	21.94
1963	127,509	29333	23.00
1964	140,947	32780	23.04
1965	153,028	34800	22.74
1966	160,000	36589	22.86
8 Year Av.			22.55

"As can be seen, the variation over the eight year period was negligible; therefore, the average ratio of 22.55 percent of the population will be used to project total school enrollment.

"In Chapter One the estimated total population for 1975 was 320,000 and for 1985 it was 460,000. The total anticipated school enrollment can then be computed as follows:

Year	Est. Pop.	Factor	Anticl. Enroll.
1985	460,000	22.55	103,730

"The fold out map on the next page shows, by number, the planning districts that have been established for the city. The boundaries of these planning districts were established where possible, by using natural boundaries, waterways and roadways (both existing and proposed) and generally include one or more subdivisions.

letters to the editor

On Working Together

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

The Norfolk newspapers have represented to the public that they have an obligation and duty to print matters of public interest. Does this include the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?

The report on the front page of the second section on November 8, 1967, of the Ledger Star is another shocking attempt at dividing the people of the City of Virginia Beach--but all of their efforts shall be in vain as the citizens of Virginia Beach shall forever stand together and protect each and every citizen within her boundaries. This writer has been to the Democratic Headquarters on the eve of many elections and seldom has Mr. Sidney Kellam made an appearance. He did not even appear the night his own brother was elected in a hot primary where he supported Kellam-Hodges and Spong.

Why can't the Norfolk newspapers look for the truth and try to unite our area efforts rather than tear at the very hearts of each community by attempting to destroy the efforts of such leaders as Sidney Kellam and others who at the very time of this reference, this great civic minded man was giving his service to his community and needed not to politic further.

For their information and as they can see from the record, the people at Virginia Beach have the highest respect for both Mr. Sidney Kellam and Mr. V.A. (Jack) Etheridge, and any criticism of either of these men is a direct criticism of the City of Virginia Beach. Because both these men contribute so much to our City, it causes the hearts of our citizens to leap with joy to see these two men enjoying themselves together and working together for the welfare and benefit of the City of Virginia Beach.

For their information, Mr. Sidney Kellam is as much trusted, revered and respected by our citizens as ever, and we thank God for having the privilege of our association with him and their newspapers could do much to help bring together the total community efforts for the benefit of our area. And if they, with all their power, would make one-one hundredth of the effort to work together and weld our community together for the benefit of all the people as Mr. Etheridge and Mr. Kellam strive so to do, then they would contribute at least some share in the efforts that these two men, with many thousands of others, to the unity which must be ours--Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake and Virginia Beach.

Invited

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN welcomes letters to the editor. All will be printed when space permits. Each letter must be signed and include address of the writer, but only the name will be published. Letters are invited on all subjects. Mail them to Virginia Beach Sun, P. O. Box 657, Virginia Beach, Va., 23451.

The Norfolk newspapers, in this writer's opinion, do more to destroy this potential unity than does all the world around us. Why can't they wake up and represent our total area as a newspaper--for the public interest--the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Garland M. Layton

Innovations Gain National Attention

The Virginia Beach public school system has gained such national prominence for innovations in the field of electrical heating and air conditioning that a group from the Little Rock and Hot Springs, Ark. areas came here to look at the school buildings.

"We are planning to build an all-electrical school in Arkansas," said Lee Cassidy, Superintendent of Schools in Magnet Cove, Ark., a medium-sized community in the central part of that state.

"There are very few schools in Arkansas that now even heat by electricity," he said.

Cassidy, armed with a camera and a searching eye, joined School Board members from his area, consulting engineers, architects, and representatives from Arkansas Power and Light Company in making a whirlwind tour of some of Virginia Beach's newest school buildings.

The group arrived by plane one afternoon and left the next. While here, they attended a dinner and a luncheon in their honor; visited First Colonial, Frank W. Cox and Bayside High Schools and Holland and Hermitage elementary schools, and toured various boroughs in the city to admire the scenery.

Although the visiting dignitaries were basically interested in school lighting, heating, air conditioning and architecture, they found time to learn about the instructional programs.

It was pointed out to them by E.E. Brickell, assistant superintendent of Virginia Beach public schools, that our schools are built to "fit the construction to the instruction." Brickell addressed the visitors at a dinner. He also accompanied them on their tour, as did Supt. Frank W. Cox, M. P. Strickler, and other officials of Virginia Beach public schools.

Cassidy said: "I am impressed with the progress here. The school administration is meeting the problems, especially the rapid growth problem, forthrightly."

The trip was arranged by Virginia Electric and Power Company in cooperation with Arkansas Power and Light.

Bob Brennan, a local Vepco official, was with the group to explain all of the technological advances in Virginia Beach public school electrical systems. He explained the hookup the schools have for educational television.

Cox told the group that he was delighted with their visit and that he was happy they could see first-hand the quality of the school buildings and instructional facilities built at such low cost. "Your visit is a compliment to the school system," he told the visitors from Arkansas.

Floyd E. Kellam Jr., an attorney, former Naval officer and a native of this city, has been elected to the Virginia Beach board of First & Merchants National Bank, it was announced by J. Phillips Coleman, chairman, and Robert L. Gordon Jr., president of the bank.

Edward H. Church, officer in charge of First & Merchants operations in Virginia Beach, said the addition of young Kellam to the board will further strengthen efforts to promote business for the Virginia Beach area. Kellam Jr. is a graduate of Duke University's law school, is active in various civic and charitable clubs in the city and is a member of the Virginia Beach, Norfolk-Portsmouth, Virginia and American bar associations.

'Health Resort' Planned by Mall

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--A new International Health Club and Silhouette Figure-Form "health resort" is planned near the Pembroke Mall Shopping Center on Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Harry L. Bartlett, president of International Health Spa, Inc., said the new health place will be similar to one now on Granby Street at Wards Corner in Norfolk. Robert H. Potter is vice president.

A building already is under construction in a small shopping area west of Pembroke for the new business, which will feature a Roman, or Grecian type of whirlpool.

Bartlett, who has operated the Silhouette Figure Form International business located in Norfolk since 1959, said the whirlpool is for relaxation. Charter memberships will be available soon for the separate clubs for men and women here.

He said the tentative opening date is in late January of next year, and the "health resort" will be open three days each week for women, and three different days each week for men.

Bartlett said he plans to put a trailer on the site soon to sell charter memberships.

The "Spa" approach to fitness, health and beauty is to rejuvenate men of all ages, much like the Romans did with the natural therapy of water and heat, according to literature on the "Spa" whirlpool.

Some prominent physicians say that physical activity is just as necessary to life as food, air and water, and exercise through life is the best formula for avoiding a heart attack.

Everyone knows there are many ways to employ savings profitably. Why then should you choose a passbook savings account at our association in preference to some other avenue of investment. The answer is flexibility . . . and simplicity!

Let's examine the many advantages of the passbook account.

1. With passbook savings you add or withdraw funds as you please...earnings may be retained in the account to compound.
2. The money in your account is free from speculative risk and the unpredictable ups and downs of the stock market.
3. You always know your balance at a glance and can easily tabulate what your savings have earned...or the sum needed to complete your goal.
4. No huge minimum balance is required to qualify for the generous rate we pay on passbook savings.
5. There are no unusual restrictions to cause you inconvenience upon withdrawal.
6. You need not lock up savings for an extended period of time to earn a good rate of return.
7. There is no certificate requiring safekeeping.
8. Passbook savings earn our current rate; whereas many certificates of deposit pay you less than the advertised yield if you redeem them prior to the term stated on the certificate.

These are the reasons why most savers make a passbook savings account their first choice for profitable employment of family cash reserves. If your aims are the same, then a passbook-handy savings account at our association should be your choice, too.

Oyster Bowl Has Its Day

That was some game Saturday, we ALWAYS win!

There was a long, long trail of buses winding from Princess Anne Country Club and Bay Harbor Club Saturday toward the Oyster Bowl game in Norfolk.

The day was beautiful. The crowd was enthusiastic. . . an all together perfect day for the Oyster Bowl. The only major problem was the women who had to make last minute wardrobe changes due to the unusually warm weather.

Many of the football fans were from out of town. The Oyster Bowl has become an annual trip to Virginia Beach for some of them. To add icing to the cake was the round of parties all the local clubs had following the game.

All set for the game wearing a birthday present, a gray, wide-wale corduroy coat, was Mrs. Jerry C. South of Virginia Beach with some out of town Navy fans, Mrs. Garnett Clark and Mrs. Theodore Torgerson of Annapolis, Md., and Mrs. Jerry South Jr. of Hampton.

CAROLYN'S COLUMN

By Carolyn McAllen

Hustle Your Bustle And Clean the Closets

There's an old saying that you shouldn't throw anything away because it may come in handy sometime. I'm about convinced this is true with women's fashions.

I'm now getting compliments on a wide-collared suit I bought on sale in 1956. The only adjustment has been in the hem line.

If I had just saved all the "chemise" dresses I had that were so popular in 1955 to 1957. They bore a remarkable resemblance to today's "shifts." Unfortunately I didn't think they would ever come back in style, so . . .

Of course now almost anyone can be in fashion just by taking up her hem a little. But what happens a few years from now when hems drop? It's a lot easier to take them up without leaving a mark than to let them down--especially with the no press fabrics.

What "new look" will the fashion designers turn up with next? Rumor has it that skirts will get even shorter. I suspect that's wishful thinking on the part of men.

I wonder if they've considered reviving the bustle? They went over big at one time. And just think of the demand. That's one item I bet very few women have stored in their attics.

And mini-skirts aren't that different from "flapper" skirts from the 1920's. The flapper skirts also required colored and textured stockings.

My leotards are in fashion again. Only trouble is that the elastic has rotted out of the waist. They have been updated, though. The new leotards are seamless so you don't have to walk on the seam down the middle of your foot.

Which reminds me, why do the mesh stockings have mesh feet? If you have the same painful problem I do, try wearing "footies" underneath. They help considerably.

Now if the full ballerina skirts would just come back in style. Then I'd have some use for the starched petticoats I have stored in the top of a closet.

Even hula hoops came back. . . .

Club Council Adopts Crepe Myrtle

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH--Plans for a spring flower show to be held at the Cavalier Cabana Club next March 9 to 11 were announced at the November meeting of the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs which met at Thalia Methodist Church.

The theme of the show will be "A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever," announced Mrs. M. J. Schwartz, flower show chairman.

The local CGC officially adopted the crepe myrtle as its flower and will encourage each member garden club to plant 100 crepe myrties a year along city property. Mrs. C.L. Hershberger, council president, suggested that one crepe myrtle be planted for each club member too.

"Norfolk has the Azalea Festival. We must look toward the day when we can have a crepe myrtle festival," said Mrs. Hershberger.

City work crews will plant the trees along city property after they are purchased. Mrs. E.A. Hoffmeister is chairman of the project.

The council was planning to draw up a resolution to present to the City Council for the adoption of the crepe myrtle as the official city flower.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett spoke briefly at the meeting saying, "On behalf of the city, I want to thank you all.

"Crepe Myrtles bloom when most of our visitors are here. I must commend and compliment the garden clubs on the part they've played in the development of our city."

Mrs. A.H. Culpepper, past council president, pointed out that the garden clubs have already planted Laskin Road, Oceana Boulevard and First Colonial Road with crepe myrtles.

Joe Viner of the Beautification Commission also attended the meeting.

Mrs. A.H. Gallagher, chairman of the HANDS program, reported she had already sent the plans of 17 clubs to Atlanta. She said the deadline for entering next year has been changed to May 31, 1968.

Beautification of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach has been held up temporarily because of new hospital construction, Mrs. G.L. Tilbrook, hospital beautification chairman, reported.

Rehearsing one of the numbers for the seventh annual Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club Follies, this year entitled "Calendar Capers," are Kay Niegro, Pat Bartee and Diane Wyles. One act will feature a club member hanging by her feet 10 feet in the air. The "Capers" will be Nov. 17 and 18 at the Civic Center. Mrs. James C. Mounie is in charge of tickets. Proceeds will go to Camp Civitan and the heart unit at Kings Daughters Childrens Hospital.

Mrs. Wallace gives William his prize. Other winners are, seated, Nancy and Kate. At left is Audrey with Robin Gilbert at right. Missing is Robin Patreck.

Poetry Contest Draws 225

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Winners in the city libraries' first poetry contest held in conjunction with Children's Book Week were named last week.

First prizes, presented by Mrs. M.F. Wallace, president of the Bayside Junior Woman's Club, were poetry books. They were won by William Henson for the Windsor Woods branch, Kate Boykin for the 22nd Street branch and Nancy Dickinson for the Bayside Library.

Mrs. Margaret Beda, city librarian, gave poetry books to the second prize winners, who were Audrey Rales, Bayside; Robin Gilbert, 22nd Street, and Robin Patreck, Windsor Woods.

Judges for the contest were Frank Collier, English teacher at Princess Anne High School, and Miss Mary Stallings, Princess Anne librarian. There were more than 225 entries from children in the first through the sixth grades.

Winning poems were:

"The Kind of Books"

The kind of book that is exciting
The kind of book that is delighting
That to me is a magic book
The kind of book that makes me look.

Take off with books
With magic books
Take off in a world of your own
Take off in your ship without a sound
Take off to the moon with a leap and a bound
Take off into wonderful outer space.
Which has more books than the whole HUMAN RACE!

Take off with books and You'll get there soon.
Go back - way back

Go to a mountain
That you can climb.
Go down - way down
Under the sea.
Take off with books
And you'll be free.

Nancy Dickinson

"Take Off With Books"

Take off with a book,
Don't be a schnook.
Have a yearning for learning?
Get a book!

You can stick it in your pocket,
Or shoot it like a rocket!
Can't find a rhyme for /w/?
Don't let it trouble you.
Come on! Take a trip
Don't be a drip.
Get a book!

Meet a Busy Woman

Mrs. Gotwald sews when not cooking.

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Preparations for the Scott Memorial Methodist Church bazaar, scheduled Nov. 18, are uppermost in the mind and activities of Mrs. Edward Gotwald, of S. Wolfsnare Drive.

As if being in charge of the dinner was not enough, Mrs. Gotwald has been busy making jam and preserves, and sewing lampshades, little girls' dresses, skirts and toys. She's also working on permanent flower arrangements.

At their bazaar last year, the church served more than 700 dinners. They had the added handicap of having new kitchen equipment installed just the day before. This year's menu will feature a chicken salad cold plate for lunch and a choice of oysters, turkey and Smithfield ham for supper, which also includes three vegetables and homemade rolls.

"Everyone in the church takes part in the bazaar," said Mrs. Gotwald. "It really creates fellowship."

She said the men have been especially busy making wood items for the Williamsburg Shop. Among items to be featured will be candle plaques, doll cradles and cribs, chopping blocks, spoon racks and letter holders.

Mrs. Gotwald was recommended by her fellow church members as being a good cook. Following are three recipes she selected to share with the public.

TURKEY VEGETABLE TOSS

1 1/2 C. diced turkey
1 C. cooked drained peas (canned or frozen)
1 C. coarsely diced celery
3 hard cooked eggs sliced
1/2 C. quartered olives
1 C. cooked seashell macaroni
1/2 C. salad dressing
3 tsp. lemon juice (more if tartness is desired) salt & pepper
dash of thyme

Combine turkey, vegetables, egg slices, olives and macaroni in large bowl. Blend salad dressing with lemon juice and seasonings. Drizzle dressing over salad ingredients and toss lightly. Chill thoroughly and serve on bed of lettuce.

(1-6 oz. can white tuna may be substituted for turkey.)

RUM BALLS

1 C. pecans cut fine
1 tsp. cocoa
3 jiggers rum
2 Tbsp. corn syrup
1 lb. vanilla wafers crushed fine

Mix all well in large bowl. Form into small balls and roll in confectioners sugar. Store in refrigerator 3 days before serving.

CHOCOLATE POUND CAKE

1/2 C. Crisco
1/2 lb. butter or margarine (2 sticks)
3 C. white sugar
3 C. sifted flour
1/2 C. cocoa
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 C. milk
5 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla (2 tsp. if more flavoring is desired.)

Cream shortening with sugar, add one egg at the time beating well. Add flour, beat well. Add cocoa, beat well. Combine milk and baking powder, add to mixture and beat well. Finally add salt and vanilla and continue beating until smooth and creamy. Bake in 10 inch tube pan at 325-350° for one hour and 15 minutes--or until test shows it is done. Cool one hour before removing from pan. Delicious plain or frosted. Lemon butter frosting is especially good.

A Fashion Affair

by Olga Edwards

Hold on to your hats! It's no longer in the future - it's here. Women have been freed to live a more fruitful and active life. Her clothes have naturally taken the same trend. Her heels are low, her skirt lengths are high. She is ready for the action.

On my visit to Florence Wilson's Inc., I found the colour is grey. . . the trend is the co-ordinated coat and dress for street, cocktails and formal wear.

The accent is the jewelled neckline, the cut is high lined, definite new fullness flowing from the youthful bodice. The coat follows the same contour of the dress-only accentuated. Fabrics are everything from crease resistant bengaline to soft clinging wool and silk crepes. If I wrote about nothing else but these ensembles I could never completely capture for you the unusual beauty of them. You will have to see them for yourself. If you are planning festive holidays then by all means do so.

Geoffrey Beene and Teal Traina have designed scarves guaranteed to create a different look and pep up any dress. The designs and colors are so very new and bright. These scarves would make a perfect Christmas gift.

Other Christmas suggestions at Florence Wilson's include perfumed matches which are cute enough for a powder room or bread and butter presents. There are a variety of pin cushions - divine for dressing table or bureau ornament. For children there are silver Humpty Dumpty, owl, and clown banks.

Pantsuits are becoming very popular. . . you can pick a pantsuit, if its A THIS YEAR PANTSUIT . . . the jacket longer and hacking-shaped . . . or with a trenchcoat that wraps and ties . . . or a mini-coat like a tunic, over the pants. Of course if you are thinking about a pantsuit please remember everyone does not have the figure for them. To me, anyone who does not have a slender figure whether she is tall or short should never wear a pantsuit. In buying this outfit be sure the pants are very low on the foot for outdoors.

The shift has definitely taken on a different look with new chain belts. This style belt has become a necessary part to shifts. I am sure the men will appreciate the fact that the shift has added the belt. Most men felt that the shift added nothing to the woman's shape. I am sure it did not but man were they comfortable.

Halloween Party Becomes Bazaar

Starting Early

Getting down the dishes for Saturday's bazaar are Mrs. J.A. Richardson and Mrs. Drew. Featured on the menu will be oysters roasted by the men while the ladies handle the inside cooking. Even the teenagers in the church will be helping.

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--What began more than 30 years ago as a Halloween party soon blossomed into a full-fledged bazaar for Old Donation Episcopal Church on N. Witchduck Road.

This year's annual oyster roast and bazaar will be on Saturday, Nov. 18 with booths opening at 11 a.m. Lunch at 12 will feature oysters roasted and raw, Smithfield ham sandwiches, apple pie and coffee.

Booths will include pickles and preserves, baked goods (no mixes used), dried plants and flowers, vegetables from neighboring farms, needlework, handiwork and Christmas items including wreaths and decorations.

Mrs. Henry A. Hedley, chairman of the Women of the Church, is general chairman; Mrs. Donald W. Drew is luncheon chairman and Mrs. W. Nagel is bazaar chairman.

A number of members of the Amphibious Force Officers' Wives Club received pins at a Nov. 8 luncheon in recognition of the hours they served with Navy Relief. R. Adm. David F. Welch, Commander Amphibious Training Command, Atlantic, presented the awards. Seated are Mrs. J.H. Litchfield, 2,500 hours; Mrs. Loyd M. Mustin; Admiral Welch; Mrs. C.K. Duncan, 600 hours, and Mrs. J.H. Landers, 2,500 hours. Standing are Mrs. D.R. Barker, 600 hours; Mrs. R.M. Rhodes, 100 hours; Mrs. R.A. Hopper, 100 hours; Mrs. N.C. Sandifer, 100 hours; Mrs. S.G. Cooper, 1,000 hours; Mrs. K. C. Kingsbury, 100 hours, and Mrs. E.H. Mackel, 100 hours.

Thanksgiving Comes Early

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--The Ocean Park Woman's Club changed the date of Thanksgiving --at least for themselves.

Their Thanksgiving luncheon was served at the clubhouse on Nov. 8. Their thanks took the form of gifts for Eastern State Hospital patients. This was the idea of Mrs. Joe Hiller, welfare chairman.

Gratitude took form in another way also by the sale of baskets, rugs and other articles made by the blind veterans in Kecoughton Hospital. This sale is held each November so the veterans will have the proceeds in time for Christmas shopping. Mrs. Calvin Davis was luncheon chairman.

Need a Pantry?

No place for a pantry? Take another look. Most canned vegetables, soups, sauces and bottled seasonings need no more than a four-inch depth.

That amount of space might be found behind the back door, alongside the refrigerator, in a hallway or even down a stairwell. Check around--you may be surprised at the usable space you'll find.

College Capers

Miss Preston

Miss Merle Page Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Page Preston of Linkhorn Drive, has been selected as the one freshman attendant to the Homecoming Queen at the College of William and Mary.

Her parents plan to attend the Homecoming ceremonies Nov. 18 at the college.

Miss Preston is a graduate of First Colonial High School where she was Colonial Ball Queen in 1966.

Miss Eleanore Carole Shelton of East Sparrow Road, Kempsville Borough, is among area students named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Three Virginia Beach students at Virginia Wesleyan College are members of the College Glee Club, which is under the direction of Richard E. Barnes. They are Susan Gracey of Bosh Quarter, Gail Sedel of Curlew Drive and Delores Thimides of 24th Street.

Miss Catharine D. Meredith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Meredith of Southside Road, has the female lead in the play, "Idiot's Delight" which opens Nov. 16 and runs through Nov. 18 at Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va., where she is a sophomore.

Navy Wives' Club Notes

By Mary Wright

Four NAS Oceana officers' wives are busy preparing for both a reunion with their husbands and holiday in Europe.

Mrs. Alexander R. Burt leaves Tidewater today, Nov. 16, for Malta, where she will join her husband, Cdr. Burt, when his ship, the U.S. aircraft carrier FDR, docks there tomorrow.

The Burts will be separated for a week at the end of November while Cdr. Burt sails to Marseilles with the FDR and Mrs. Burt travels overland on the Ural Railroad to the French port. They will meet at Marseilles on Dec. 4.

Four days later, Cdr. Huntington Hardisty will relieve Cdr. Burt of command of the VF-32 squadron at Marseilles. After the change of command, the Burts will tour Barcelona, Parma and Paris before flying home to Virginia for Christmas with their three daughters.

Mrs. James F. Van Namee and Mrs. John E. Clark, whose husbands are VF-32 pilots, fly to Nice Dec. 21 and will join their husbands at Cannes, where the FDR will be docked for Christmas. Mrs. Van Namee will remain in France, until the FDR's nine-months' cruise ends in the spring.

In January, Mrs. Donald L. McCrory, wife of another VF-32 pilot, will fly to France to join her husband.

According to Mrs. Burt, a new policy of the FDR allows 20 per cent of the officers (six men) and enlisted men (40) to return home for 10 to 13 day's Christmas leave.

Mrs. Hardisty, whose husband is now executive officer of VF-32, held a farewell party for Mrs. Burt Saturday night at the Hardisty's Ashley Drive home in Alanton.

• • • • • • • • • •

The fourth annual Intruder Ball will be held Dec. 14 at Oceana's Officers' Club, beginning at 7 p.m. All officers and their wives who are involved with the jet attack plane A-6 Intruder will be guests at the ball.

Mrs. Arthur Barrie, wife of the commander of the VA-42 training squadron, and other VA-42 wives are in charge of the party.

The formal dinner-dance will occupy all the rooms of the Officers' Club. Each room will be decorated on a Christmas theme, using primarily green and gold, by one of the four attack plane squadrons at Oceana.

• • • • • • • • • •

VA-42 squadron held a dinner-dance Nov. 3 at the Oceana Officers' Club to say farewell to three families leaving the squadron: the Don Lenardis, the Pat Burkes and the John Bells. Each husband was presented with a squadron plaque and a beer mug.

At a luncheon, Nov. 8, at the White Heron Motel, VA-42 wives presented Mrs. Lenardi and Mrs. Burke with silver water pitchers, and Mrs. Bell with a silver cake plate.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Dale Purdy, Mrs. Gerald Beisel, Mrs. James Dabson and Mrs. William Edwards.

AT LITTLE CREEK

The Amphibious Force Officers' Wives Club will sponsor a silver sale tomorrow, Nov. 17, at the Little Creek Officers' Club from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. The sale will be presented by the G. & W. Brokerage Co. with selection of silver and wood articles on sale. Coffee will be served and door prizes awarded.

Officers, wives and their guests are invited.

LUNCHEONS

There were luncheons yesterday for both the Guided Missile School Officers' Wives Club at Dam Neck and the Oceana Officers' Wives Club.

The Dam Neck luncheon, at the Ocean Hearth Restaurant, featured a baker from the Giant Open Air Market at Portsmouth, who instructed the wives in cake-decorating.

Wives attending the luncheon at the Oceana Officers' Club were shown a cosmetic demonstration by a Max Factor representative.

Enlisted Wives Announce Plans

Dam Neck Navy Wives Clubs of America #207 will honor Mrs. Edward Russell, past national president, by presenting her with a life time membership today, Nov. 16 at 10 a.m. in the Special Services Building, Dam Neck.

Mrs. Russell served as NWCA National President from October 1963 thru October 1965 and was able to guide the organization to many gains. She lives in Virginia Beach.

Following the presentation, members and guests will have a white elephant bingo with refreshments served by Mrs. Edward Plyler, president, and Mrs. John Beard, vice-president.

Princess Anne NWCA #143 was to have a short business meeting followed by a wrapped white elephant sale today, Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel, NAS Oceana. Contact Mrs. Carl Plavidal, president, for transportation or information.

Davis-Ellis NWCA #241 of Little Creek Amphibious Base held their regular monthly business meeting on Nov. 14th. Members are making preparations to send boxes to our servicemen stationed in Viet Nam. Mrs. James Benson may be contacted for more information about this club.

How about dessert on the Princess Anne #143 or Dam Neck #207 groups? Both clubs will be holding base sales aboard their respective bases on Nov. 17.

Tax Levy On Boats Is $29,380

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--There is money in boats in Virginia Beach, and there are plenty of them, according to city government tax records.

The number of boats assessed for taxes this year in Virginia Beach is 2,865, and most of them are registered in the six boroughs which were in former Princess Anne County.

Only 132 were in the Beach Borough, according to officials. The other 2,733 were assessed in Lynnhaven, Bayside, Kempsville, Princess Anne, Blackwater and Pungo boroughs.

City taxes levied on the boats totaled $1,293 in the Beach Borough, and $28,087 in the others, an overall total of $29,380.

Revenue Commissioner Ivan D. Mapp said men in his office found some boats in the city which were not registered with the state government. The deadline for payment of personal property taxes on the boats is Dec. 5, same deadline as for payment of 1967 real estate taxes and city government taxes on automobiles.

City Council recently increased the assessment ratio on boats from 10 to 20 per cent for tax purposes. The tax rate remains at $6 per $100 of assessed value.

The number of boats in the Beach Borough area is expected to increase when the construction of jetties under way at Rudee Inlet is completed next spring.

The city government and Rudee Inlet Authority are developing the inlet area as a sports fishing center.

'Midnight Mystery' Is Lecture Subject

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--"Dreams--Your Midnight Mystery" is the topic for a lecture to be presented at the Sunday Forum at 3:30 p.m. November 19 at the Association for Research and Enlightenment headquarters (A.R.E.) at 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

Fred Lathers of Newport News, an engineer with the Newport News Ship Building and Dry Dock Company, will be the lecturer, according to a spokesman for the A.R.E. Lathers is a graduate of North Carolina State College.

Lathers lives in Newport News, the A.R.E. spokesman said.

Teacher of Year Never Gives Up on Teenagers

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--A man with 44 years of teaching experience, E.E. Cox, says he has "learned never to give up on a boy" who needs help.

Cox has just been named as "Virginia Beach Teacher of the Year" for the 1967-68 school year. His name will be submitted for the statewide contest. Mrs. Anna Margaret Rhodes of Virginia Beach won in state competition last year.

Cox has been chairman of the social studies department at Princess Anne High School here since 1954. Besides teaching three history classes a day, he helps in the guidance department and is sponsor of the Student Council and the Student Cooperative Association.

His comparatively youthful spirit belies his age. At 68, he is talking about retiring in two years and "doing a little writing."

He has taught in Virginia Beach 18 years. Before that he taught in Augusta County, Va. for 18 years.

A native of Henry County, Va., he became principal of a three-room school when he was 19, so he could earn money to return to the College of William and Mary.

Of teenagers today, he commented: "They're a little more sophisticated and precocious than before, but there's not really much change. Today's youngsters are exposed to more of the world sooner."

"The qualities that make for good moral stability and character are still there," he added.

"Boys and girls today want to be a part of the solution of the various situations into which they are thrown--not the problem," Cox said. "All they need for ultimate fulfillment is someone who really cares."

Cox has a 16-year-old son who is a high school junior. For 27 years, the local teacher of the year was a regular supply pastor in the Methodist church. One of the organizers of Thalia Methodist Church, he was its regular minister for three years.

Cox also has taught College of William and Mary extension courses in this area.

He describes a good teacher as "one who has an interest in the student as such. A good teacher has the ability to bring out the finest."

Miss Louise Luxford, director of personnel for Virginia Beach public schools, was chairman of the committee that selected Cox. Other committee members were Mrs. Grace Harrell, elementary supervisor; Phillip E. Meekins, assistant director of personnel, and Frank Taylor, secondary supervisor.

NEW FREEDOM SHARES

What are they? Who may buy them?

Americans have put their savings to work for freedom through U. S. Savings Bonds for many years. New Freedom Shares do the same job . . . plus. Read how.

Freedom Shares are U. S. Savings Notes. They pay a higher return than Savings Bonds, 4.74% when held to maturity. And they mature in just four-and-a-half years.

For regular Bond buyers only

These new Freedom Shares—which are not redeemable for the first year—are offered on a one-for-one basis with E Bonds, but only to people who belong to the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank.

There are four denominations of Freedom Shares, each of which may be paired with a Series E Bond of the same or larger denomination, as a "package."

Sign up

Tell your supervisor or the Payroll Department where you work (or any officer where you bank) that you'd like to join a Bond purchase plan. Decide how much you'll save . . . whether you want Freedom Shares as well as Bonds . . . and just sign the authorization card.

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with the Treasury Department and The Advertising Council.

Barbara (Bobbie) Chuilli, reigning Miss Virginia Beach, rehearses with Lt. (jg) Michael S. Stroup of the Naval Amphibious Base here for the Virginia Beach Little Theater's production of "Five Finger Exercise," which will open Dec. 1 at the Courtyard Playhouse on Virginia Beach Boulevard. Admission will be $2.50, except for $1.25 for students and servicemen. For reservations call 428-8500.

Shortages Hurt Builders

Most homebuilders believe manpower is the most important factor in the formula for home building, according to L. A. Sancilio, president of the Tidewater Association of Home Builders.

Sancilio, who along with other 1968 TAHB officers will be installed by U.S. Rep. Thomas N. Downing on Friday of this week at the Lafayette Yacht Club, said "materials" and "money" also are correct answers to the question of what is the most important factor in home building.

"Whereas manufacturers are producing plenty of building materials and most mortgage lenders now have funds for financing new home purchases," he said, "the nation's supply of such skilled craftsmen as carpenters drops lower and lower with each passing year."

He said the National Association of Home Builders, and other private groups as well as government, have been having conferences on the growing shortage of manpower for construction.

He said in a news release to the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN that most of the builders "have reached the same conclusion on the major cause of the shortage: Building craftsmen continue to retire from active work at the usual rate, but young men are not replacing them in the numbers they formerly did."

Sancilio said the home building industry offers young Americans, with an aptitude for handling tools, some of the best-paying and most time-honored job opportunities available. He said the TAHB office and members of the association can tell interested young people about careers in the industry.

Rumsey II, a former commanding officer at NAS Oceana here, is chief of staff at Commander Fleet Air Norfolk. Summer-flowering shrubs and evergreens may be pruned during the fall and winter. Those flowering shrubs and rose bushes that had vigorous growth this past summer may be pruned back to prevent winter damage from wind, ice, and snow. A final pruning should be done in the spring prior to next year's growth. When pruning this fall, do not prune spring-flowering shrubs because you will cut off what will be next spring's flowers. Light pruning of needled, or narrow-leaf evergreens and broadleaf evergreens can be done now to check growth of the trees or shrubs. Many persons delay that evergreen pruning until December, so they can use the clippings for indoor and outdoor decorations. Drastic evergreen pruning should be done next spring, as usual.

Beautification Interests 4-Hers

A majority of the 4-H Club members are taking an active part in some phase of community beautification in Virginia Beach.

They are conducting club and individual projects throughout the city in helping to make the community a better and more beautiful place to live. Besides the individual home beautification projects where the pride and responsibility for beautification must start, the clubs have been very active in community activities.

The Blackwater Club has been one of the most active clubs in the area in community beautification. The club planted over 500 pine seedlings thoughout the Creeds and Blackwater areas for beautification and conservation in these areas.

During the summer and fall, they purchased and painted 10 trash barrels which were placed at intersections and public grounds. They made and gave out to the residents in their areas over 200 car litter bags and distributed 200 anti-litter letters asking people to help to make their community a better place to live.

The Avalon Hills Club concentrated on community improvement by keeping the entrance island in good order by trimming and cutting grass and shrubbery and general upkeep of the area.

The Bayside Club planted shrubbery in local church lawns in their community. These are only three of the city 4-H Clubs, but all of the clubs have done their share in "Make the Best Better" in the area of community beautification.

First Colonial's Patriots End Grid Season Friday

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH—The Patriot football team at First Colonial High School here will end its regular 1967 season this Friday with a game against Oscar F. Smith High in the South Norfolk section of Chesapeake.

Frank H. Webster's Patriot team, which started the football season a week later than other local high school teams, will travel to Chesapeake for the game at Smith's stadium.

The First Colonial team thus far has won 6 games and lost 3, the last one to the Kellam High Knights last Friday by a score of 20 to 0.

At the same time, Princess Anne High's Cavalier team No. 1 was winning its 15th straight game in two seasons to remain unbeaten this year. The Cavaliers downed the Falcons of Cox High by a 46 to 0 score.

John Kiefer, Robert German, Richard Byrd, Tom Counter, and Pete Carpenter figured in the scoring, as did David Haxter, Wayne Godley and Carl Diehl. (Haxter and Diehl were among junior varsity players who entered the game in the third quarter.)

The Falcons' high scorer, Wayne Weirich, was stymied by the Princess Anne defense, led by Ed Love, Wayne Caudill, Paul Ziegler, Steve Sakis, Mickey Byrd, Robert Gerloff and Carpenter.

The Union Kempsville High football team, coached by Joshua Darden, put up a tough fight in trying to win against Crestwood High last week, as Houston Bailey and Jesse Davis scored touchdowns.

In the Kellam High Knight football game against First Colonial last week, Bob Carson, passed to David Pace for one touchdown, Mike Futrell ran for a touchdown, and Mike Tucker made an extra point.

Now that the regular 1967 football season has ended for the Knights, here is the rest of the roster of players, coached by Charlie Caldwell:

Dooley Bizzell, Bill Campbell Sonny Strange, David Trax, Bill Dailey, Linwood Jethro, Tom Jones, Gary Reynolds, Ron Thompson, Jeff Lundy, Dennis Maceda, Jerry Earls, Roy Birdsong, Scott Hallead, John Hines, Ernie Brown, David Land, Ed Godwin, John Sachon, Jim Blas, Roger Roberts, Tony Davis, Barry Bland, Rocky Freeman, Chuck Connelly, Bobby Hitchcock, Robin Hogue, Alan Clements, Mike Brown, Steve Hines, Derrick White, Mitch Hammonds, Field Selby, Bob Shealy, Steve Thompson, Jack Andrews, Doug Davis, Joe Selby, John Grady, Bill Henley and Scott Hallead.

The regular-season record for the Knights after last Friday's game was 7 wins and 2 losses, the best record the school has ever had.

The Princess Anne Cavaliers' defense proved to much for the Cox High Falcons' Wayne Weirich (40), shown being tackled here as Nick Randazzo (11) led this play in last Friday's football game, which the Cavaliers won 46 to 0. Paul Ziegler is making the tackle, as Robert Gerloff, Ed Love, Richard Byrd and other Princess Anne players close in. (Phelps Photo)

The First Colonial High Patriots had trouble stopping Bob Carson of the Kellam Knights, but in this play last Friday, the Patriots were all over Carson, with Clinton Graves there first. Carson passed to David Pace for one TD, Mike Futrell passed to David Trax for another, and Futrell ran for the third TD as the Knights won 20 to 0. (SUN staff photo)

'Halftown' Returns To Beach

Brunswick star Chief Halftown, also a popular Philadelphia TV star, is making a return visit to Brunswick Plaza Bowl Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 21 and 22. Mrs. Eloise Gumm, Manager of Plaza Bowl, said the Chief will be in town to conduct bowling "pow wows" with the young bowlers of Virginia Beach. He has traveled thousands of miles in helping thousands of younsters learn to enjoy the fun of bowling.

The Chief started bowling in the army during World War II and has averaged near 200 in league competition. In 1958, he was a member of the Walker-McDermott squad that captured the Philadelphia team title.

Halftown is a direct descendant of the chief who signed the Seneca peace treaty with the U.S. in 1794. He still receives a token grant of calico and money from the government each year under terms of the agreement.

He conducts children's shows on Philadelphia TV. A few years ago, he originated a junior bowling tournament with televised finals. The event attracted more than 8,000 youngsters between 8 and 16 years of age.

As a member of the Brunswick Advisory Staff of Champions, he is one of the nation's big league stars who promote bowling with special personal appearances throughout the country.

First Colony Telephone Company's new Georgian-style headquarters building complements the colonial architectural design of city office buildings at the Virginia Beach Municipal Center.

Phone Company Builds Replica of 'Governor's Palace' for Headquarters

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Virginia Beach can soon claim its own "Governor's Palace" in the firm of the new First Colony Telephone Company building almost completed on Princess Anne Road near the Virginia Beach Municipal Center.

The headquarters building for the company, which has a franchise to serve patrons in Princess Anne and Pungo boroughs, as well as other parts of the city, was patterned after the "Governor's Palace" at Williamsburg, Va.

Just like at the historic Georgian-style building there, the First Colony "palace" will have a formal garden in the rear of the building.

When the people enter the First Colony building, they are carried back to memories of earlier days. The offices and general public areas are decorated in early American style, including the furniture, lighting, and fixtures.

In the foyer, the walls have been decorated with mirrors, flanked by crystal candle holders, and there are pictures depicting scenes of various events in the history of the nation.

The present day "phone booth" at First Colony's building is to one side of the foyer, and walls in the phone region are lined in soft, red velvet, creating an air of comfort and relaxation.

Moving through the offices of the new structure, one finds warm-toned draperies, pictures of scenes from history, crystal candle holders and lighting by crystal candelabra, suspended from the ceiling.

A tour of the grounds of the telephone office building brings people in contact with the more restful theme of the early days in this country's beginning. Exterior lighting is with early American light posts in the drive way region, and lamps attached to the building at all entrance ways.

Steve Halverson, project manager for First Colony, told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN that the building was designed by architect Joel Vicars of Wise, Va. The general contractor is Leroy Boschen of Ashland.

According to Halverson, a formal opening of the new building is planned for January of 1968, with a new exchange to be placed in operation the same month. Equipment is being installed for the change-over next year.

"We have begun to replace the old phones in the Princess Anne area, with about 400 replacements completed thus far" he recently said. "We anticipate replacement of all the sets by the end of this year."

3 Faiths Join for Service

BEACH BOROUGH--Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Jewish clergymen will participate in an interfaith Community Service at 10:00 a. m. Thanksgiving Day at the First Presbyterian Church here. This will be the second such service sponsored by the Beach Borough Ministers Group.

Warren Williams, pastor of St. Mark's A.M.E. Church; and the Rev. John S. Lyles, pastor of the host church. The First Presbyterian Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Don W. Korte, will provide special music.

The church, located at Pacific Ave. and 36th St., has a spacious parking lot on Pacific Ave., just north of 36th. Nurseries for pre-school children will be open.

Darden Assists Petty In New Utility Post

James G. Darden, a former city councilman here, has been appointed assistant director of the Virginia Beach Public Utilities Department.

Darden began his new job on November 1, according to A. Worth Petty, director of public utilities, who announced the appointment.

Darden was chairman of the former Princess Anne County Water and Sanitation Authority and worked closely with the Hampton Roads Sanitation District commisssion in helping Virginia Beach obtain sewer interceptor lines across the suburban areas.

He chose not to seek re-election in 1966, after years of service on the former Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, and then Virginia Beach City Council after the 1963 merger of the six-borough county and what is now the Beach Borough.

Mrs. Mary B. Mather, media specialist, straightens some of the many books that were on display during the 17th annual book display at the Virginia Beach Schools Media Center last week. The display was to introduce new books to librarians, teachers and parents. Books for secondary schools will be on display in March.

A 'Borrow Pit' for A City Stadium?

One of those often-criticized holes in the ground called "borrow pits" might be an economical answer to the City of Virginia Beach getting a major sports stadium in the next few years.

Impossible? City Councilman Lawrence E. Marshall, who is on a committee named by Virginia Beach City Council to study the need for a stadium for various sports, said it may be "far out," but the idea is worth exploring.

Marshall told the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN that he plans to talk to some qualified engineers to see if the idea might work. It was suggested by another city official, whom he did not identify.

The possibility of putting a stadium in a gulch, ravine or on the side of a hill is not new.

But putting one in an existing borrow pit poses a lot of questions. Some of them: What would the drainage problem be? Where would cars park? What type of material would be needed for the seating?

On the city committee with Marshall are Councilman Albert Lee Bonney Sr., and Assistant City Manager Roger M. Scott.

While making it clear that the idea is only at the explorative stage, Marshall said that if it were economically feasible, a stadium in a borrow pit could be used for multiple purposes.

"If it were, say 50 or 75 acres in size, an automobile racing track and an arena also could be put at the same location," he said.

Marshall said, he hopes to look at an existing stadium soon in Memphis Tenn., which he has heard about. He also said members of the committee are gathering data on various kinds of stadiums and arenas.

Commenting that the city's borrow-pit ordinance requires that sloping sides be provided after highway builders finish getting material from the pits, Marshall said the ratio of slope (three to one feet) could be about right for seatings, like that a number of amphitheaters or football "bowls" have.

With a stadium and other events in a depressed section of the earth's surface, sound or noise would be deflected upward, Marshall suggested.

For an automobile race track, such as one in Charlotte, N.C. and other cities, the stadium could have one end open to allow for expansion of the auto track.

Marshall said he has written for information on a "new kind" of pre-stressed wood which reportedly has economical aspects, or is below the costs of some other building materials.

It also has been suggested that a large sports stadium could ultimately be used for annual Thanksgiving services, plus other attractions or events of great interest.

On another proposal being studied by the city government here, the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN learned that a committee has sent a letter of inquiry to U.S. Army officials at Ft. Eustis, Va., about a proposal to build an airport for small, private planes near the west edge of Fort Story.

Members of that committee are R. Bradshaw Pulley, James P. Sadler, Albin R. Mailhes and J.H. Reinburg.

Whether there has been any progress on another long-range matter, a proposed regional airport for commercial passenger carriers requiring long runways, was a matter of speculation in the area early this week.

One "highly reliable" source said, however, that the City of Chesapeake is working on plans for an air transportation terminal with enough land to allow for eventual expansion into an airfield of international, or world stature.

Knowledgeable sources in the aircraft and tourist industry have said the U.S. Government may soon allocate grants-in-aid to develop Patrick Henry Airport in the Newport News and Hampton areas. Norfolk Municipal Airport is reportedly inadequate for new passenger planes ordered by commercial carriers which use the airport at high cost.

'Airmen of Note' Plan Concert At Civic Center November 28

BEACH BOROUGH--The United States Air Force Dance Orchestra, called the "Airmen of Note", will present a free concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 28, at Virginia Beach Civic Center here.

The world-renowned orchestra's visit to Virginia Beach is sponsored by Radio Station WVAB (1550 k.c.), the city's local radio station.

Chief Warrant Officer Bob Bunton, personable leader of the Air Force orchestra, is considered one of the most talented jazz arrangers in military music. He has been band leader since 1953, and earlier was leader of the European jazz-dance orchestra, the U.S. Air Force-Europe "Ambassadors," as well as musical units in Minnesota, Missouri, Japan, Virginia and California.

The "Airmen of Note" have been acclaimed by music critics and musicians alike as "one of the best musical organizations in the big band field," and the orchestra has shared the band stand at times with the orchestras of Count Basie, Woody Herman, Ray McKinley, Ralph Flanagan, Skitch Henderson, Buddy Morrow, Myer Davis and Lester Lanin.

The Air Force orchestra has made three tours overseas which included almost all European countries, parts of Africa and Greenland.

They have appeared on various television networks in this nation and overseas and have made numerous records, including some with such popular singers as Carmen MacRae June Christy, Jon Hendricks, Nancy Wilson and Matt Munro.

The orchestra has roots which go all of the way back to 1942 and the late Major Glenn Miller's pioneering efforts with Air Force dance music. It was his idea to give the troops the music they wanted to hear.

Holiday Trash Pick Up Set

The collection of trash and refuse in the City of Virginia Beach on Thanksgiving Day will be on a normal schedule, according to Cecil P. Land, superintendent of sanitation.

Trash and refuse collection will be in those residential areas where trucks normally pick up garbage on Thursday of each week.

Beach Has More 'Legitimate' Births

There apparently is a higher rate of "legitimate," or in-wedlock births in Virginia Beach than in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Chesapeake, according to a report from the Virginia Department of Health.

A recently published report from the department on the percentages of "illegitimate" births during 1966, was analyzed by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN to see how the four cities compared on legitimate births.

The rate for Virginia Beach was 93 per cent for each 100 live births, compared with only 86.4 per cent in Norfolk, 90.1 per cent in Chesapeake and 82.8 per cent in Portsmouth, which had the highest "illegitimate" rate.

The analysis also showed:

*The Virginia Beach rate was the only one of those for the four cities which was higher than the State of Virginia rate, which was 91.1, or the same as for Chesapeake.

*On the illegitimate side of the report, Virginia Beach and Chesapeake had equal numbers and the lowest among the four cities,--each with 184. Virginia Beach has a larger population than Chesapeake and Portsmouth.

*Norfolk led in the number of illegitimate births (896), and Portsmouth was second, with 376.

Crosswhite Urges Care in Mailing

BEACH BOROUGH--Postmaster J. T. Crosswhite, Jr., today urged the citizens of Virginia Beach to be sure and use the correct address on letters and packages they are mailing to servicemen overseas.

He said each overseas military address should include the serviceman's grade or rank, full name and service, or serial number; the complete name of his military unit; the overseas post office (New York, N.Y.; San Francisco, Calif.; or Seattle, Wash.), and the APO or FPO number (usually 5 digits or numbers).

Christmas mail volume going overseas is expected to increase up to 30 per cent above last year's level, and every precaution should be taken by friends and relatives to address their letters and packages properly, the local postmaster said.

To the surprise of many, the months of October and November are excellent times to control many weeds that annually appear in Tidewater lawns. Buttercup, cat's ear (false dandelion), both common and mouse-eared chickweed, and white clover can be controlled now. Others that can be controlled at this time are dandelion, mustards, pepperweed, plantain, and wild strawberry.

A chemical called dicamba must be used to control some of the more difficult weeds such as chickweed, white clover, and wild strawberry. Others given can be controlled by an application of 2, 4-D.

When using weed killers, be sure to follow explicitly the directions and precautions given on the container. Most ornamental plants are susceptible to these herbicides, and can be injured or killed when they are applied too close to them, or if the herbicide is allowed to drift onto them.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Sgt. Harry S. Seager, Jr., attached to the 1st Police Precinct, Beach Borough, has answered the recent challenge of a golf match from Sgt. Daniel Creelman, Jr., of the 3rd Precinct, Bayside Borough. Seager said, "Men of the 1st Precinct patrol challenge anyone at the 3rd Precinct, especially Sgt. Creelman, to a golf match, at any time or any place."

Night work for Justices of the Peace can produce varied human dramas. For example, H. Bates Reese recently had an overflow of customers brought to the Bayside Borough precinct for sundry infractions of the law.

When Reese attempted to set bond for one gentleman, brought to the station under the influence of "John Barley Corn," it became quite evident he would be unable to raise the requir-ed fee.

Another person, who had run afoul of the law, promptly took up other's cause, . By passing the hat among those brought to the station, he raised the required amount of bond.

Chief C. M. Davis, of the Little Creek NAB fire station, says more toys are still being sought for distribution to underprivileged children at Christmas. New, or repairable toys, will be accepted and may be left at any fire station in Virginia Beach. The toys will be taken to the Little Creek fire station for repair.

Officer C.J.Rogers, attached to the Bayside Police Precinct, returning from a deer hunting trip into the woods of Vermont, gave his fellow train passengers some food for thought.

Rogers said he had packed venison sandwiches for his trip home. As he unwrapped them, the aroma spread to his fellow passengers. They asked Rogers where they could obtain similiar refreshment.

With a good-humored chuckle, Rogers replied: "Check with the conductor when he comes through. I'm sure he'll be able to serve you."

Among hunters in the Virginia Beach Police Division who took to blinds on the opening day of the duck season last Saturday were Capt. R.C.Davis, 2nd Precinct C.O.; Capt. W.J. (Bucky) Moore, Jr., 3rd Precinct C.O., .and Moore's son, Joey.

Moore said the trio returned from the Back Bay area with the legal limit. Officer F.R. Scarboro, attached to the 2nd Precinct, spent the opening day of the season as a guide for other duck hunters.

Va. Wesleyan Receives Grant

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--Virginia Wesleyan College has received a grant of $2,500.00 from the Sears, Roebuck Company Foundation.

The check for this amount was presented recently to President Lambuth M. Clarke by James Gara, Tidewater District Manager of Sears.

"We just took out insurance on our insurance. We bought our family plot at ."

"All of a sudden we found out how important it is to buy cemetery property ahead of time...from the family of our neighbor down the street. Our neighbor who made the mistake of waiting too long.

"There is enough sorrow at a time like this without adding needless extra distress. And when the cost must be met all at once, the financial drain can be considerable. We want to be sure our savings and insurance money are used for living expenses - not for final arrangements.

"The surprising thing about it, though, is how easy and pleasant it was to buy at Princess Anne Memorial Park. You've never seen a place that looks less like a cemetery. No ripple of water. It is the kind of place even the youngsters understand - the kind of place you know you will always feel comfortable about visiting."

The One Purchase Every Family Must Make

Perhaps you feel you're too young to think about a memorial plot now. Most people do; it is only human to think "there's plenty of time for that." But consider the advantages of buying in advance of need. You and your family can discuss your preferences sensibly, unemotionally - together. You pay less than you inevitably will later on, and can budget your payments - without "extras." Permanent care is included in the price of every plot. You enjoy a good selection at a beautiful centrally-located Princess Anne Memorial Park. And you eliminate needless risks to your family's security and your own peace of mind.

Proper planning is something you owe your family. Why put it off? Mail the coupon today for full information.

Make It a Prayerful Day

Tomorrow is that traditional day of Thanksgiving, Nov. 23, this year, and families throughout our city, our state and our nation will be re-enacting to some extent, America's First Thanksgiving.

Here in Virginia Beach, as well as in our neighboring communities, we have much to be thankful for in a period of time when the world situation appears to be testing the moral fiber, the courage, the beliefs and the credibility of men and women who each search for the truth and wisdom we all need.

While the future at times appears grim, or uncertain, most of the people in our city of love and compassion for their families, friends and neighbors are certain of at least one thing. The thanks expressed in many ways by the young and the old in heart or spirit will reflect the courage, the energy, the loyalty and the good health necessary to carry on the battles we must.

Our troubles may at times appear insurmountable, but yet when we see and think about those less fortunate, it makes us feel far better.

In our community of an awesome and prayerful future, we feel sure that progress will continue here at home as leaders seek to solve more distant and perplexing problems.

What people can do to help themselves, along with what they can do to help others is what counts on this earth, as sure as the celestial sun rises on a clear day and the silvery moon shines on a clear night.

The young in our community, whether physically or mentally, can be thankful for the wisdom and guidance of those who lead us today. While some might disagree with them, faith and trust will go a long way, with a touch of humor for good measure.

The old in our community can be confident that the bounding spirit, energy, courage, respect and appreciation of those who are younger--along with their cooperative nature and a willingness to learn--will provide excellent leadership in the years, or decades ahead.

Peace or no peace, war or no war, the combined wisdom, courage, integrity, loyalty and hope of all are strong enough to continue our community on a steady course.

For all of this, we can be thankful on Thanksgiving Day, tomorrow and for ever more to the Almighty.

'Block Mothers' on the Move

When it comes to borrowing ideas from neighboring cities, the City of Norfolk is no piker.

Just the other day, we learned where the voluntary child-protection program, called "Block Mothers", is being introduced to a number of residential areas of Norfolk.

From what we were told, the program is the same which some public-spirited and imaginative women in the suburbs of Virginia Beach started many months ago this year. The local Police Youth Bureau has cooperated in the program, and also has been showing films to various civic groups to help parents and children concerned about possible danger from some who have other than good intentions.

As early as in the Spring of this year, mothers in Arrowhead, Carolanne Farms, Malibu, Diamond Springs, Gardenwood Park and Pembroke Manor who were alarmed by daily press reports of crime established "Block Mother" programs. They eased the minds of mothers.

Perhaps some of Norfolk's troubled citizens can improve on the idea. While we would like to believe the program started in our community, a military wife told a SUN reporter that the "Block Mother" idea originated in a California city.

We often wonder where it really began. In St. Louis? Atlanta? Minneapolis? New York? Philadelphia? Chicago? Boston? Houston? Jacksonville? Birmingham? Cleveland? Los Angeles?

Ideas, particularly good ones, seem to succeed in the fertile and responsible valleys of humanitarian thought and deed.

letters to the editor

'Look Around'

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun

Brave young men of America sail from Norfolk to fight the Communist enemy on foreign soil, but the decisive war, the battle for mens minds is being fought right here in America. This cold war we are losing because of the inability of the people and their elected leaders to recognize the enemy.

On Friday, November 10th, the Virginian Pilot printed a full page of the enemies' propaganda, labelled as advertisement.

"Masters of Deceit" is J. Edgar Hoover's description of the Communist leaders, and the Socialist Labor Party as an arm of the Communist Party USSR is quite adept in the deception. So deceitful are they in their claim that "all the things said about Socialism are untrue," they apparently fooled the Editors and Publishers of some local newspaper. The man whose name appears at the bottom of Fridays Socialist advertisement, Arnold Petersen, writes the introduction and the American Preface to Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto. In this work, as published in New York by The Socialist Labor Party (6th Printing 1964), which calls for an overthrow of our American government and Constitution, he writes "As a summary of the fundamentals of Marxism, or scientific socialism.—"

On the front page of this week's Barron's are published some verbatim extracts from official Communist transcripts, such as:

"The destiny of World Communism depends on the triumph of Communism in the East", and "In a country where the bourgeoisie, or counter-revolutionary Social Democracy is in power, the Communist Party must learn to coordinate its legal work with its illegal work, and the legal work must always be under the effective control of the illegal party".

The published plan of the international Communist conspiracy is external encirclement (Korea, Africa, Cuba, Viet Nam, etc.), plus internal demoralization (educational chaos as far as the teaching of patriotism, and proven mores, heresy from the pulpit is "God is Dead", race riots, increased taxation to feed the socialist inspired welfare state) leads to progressive surrender (Anti-Nationalism, Red-controlled UN World Government, Nuclear balckmail).

Communist thought, or scientific Socialism has infiltrated into nearly every phase of American life as planned by those who would conquer us. Open your eyes and look around if you don't believe me!

New Solution?

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun

The headline of your November 16th issue could hardly be more misleading to the citizens of Virginia Beach. The headline I am referring to is as follows (Ratio Boost Doesn't Mean Tax Increase, Officials Say).

The entire statement is a half truth installed in the headline to deceive the people. If not, then this paper and the city officials or officials who made this statement must have arrived upon a new solution for paying off the bonds which will be floated for the much-needed schools, and the not necessary nondescript projects which are always tied to all school bond issues.

'Coordination' Asked for Schools

CRITERIA FOR SCHOOL PLANNING AND COMPUTED SCHOOL REQUIREMENTS

"The accepted planning criteria for school planning are as follows:

"1. Elementary School (Grades 1 through 6) 600 pupils with a basic site of 5 acres plus an additional acre for each 100 pupils.

"2. Junior High School (Grades 7 through 9) 1500 pupils; a basic site of 20 acres plus an additional acre per 100 pupils.

"3. High School (Grades 10 through 12) 2000 students; a basic site of 30 acres plus an additional acre per 100 pupils.

"It should be pointed out here that, in selecting school sites, close coordination with the Recreation Commission should be exercised so that a possible joint site may be acquired.

"By using the above optimum enrollment factors and applying them to combinations of planning district projected enrollments, a series of education zones by school type can be generated with specific recommendations for the number and types of additional schools required for the years 1975 and 1985.

"The following table summarizes additional school and acreage requirements for the years 1975 and 1985.

A SUMMARY OF THE TABLE

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS, 341 acres by 1975 for 31 schools, 396 more acres for 36 additional schools by 1985; JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS, 280 acres by 1975 for 8 schools, 240 more acres by 1985 for 7 additional schools; and HIGH SCHOOLS, 100 acres by 1975 for 2 schools, 150 more acres by 1985 for 3 schools. Total--1,512 acres for 87 schools by the year 1985.

"It should be noted here that in completing the 87 additional schools required from now to 1985, obsolescence and subsequent replacement of schools was not considered. For instance, Creeds Elementary, Bayside Elementary, and Court House Elementary are now obsolescent and will be obsolete by 1975.

"There follows a schematic drawing of the Community School Concept. This concept proposes to combine neighborhood facilities requirements with the primary academic facility. The community facilities will include: a branch library/school library; a community meeting center which can also be opened to the school cafeteria for Civil Defense purposes; an administrative office which can be used not only by the Parks and Recreation Department for the issuance of athletic equipment, but also used by the Departments of Health and Welfare and the Offices of the Treasurer and the Commissioner of Revenue as needed; showers and restrooms; and the gym. All these facilities can be closed off from the main academic facility when required."

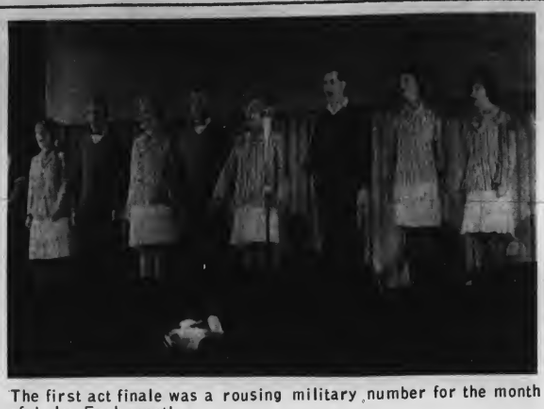
Calendar Capers 1967

Barbara Almond, co-chairman, warbles a tender ballad for June.



The first act finale was a rousing military number for the month of July. Each month was represented by one act in the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club's seventh annual Follies held at the Dome for the benefit of Camp Civitan and the heart unit at King's Daughters Hospital.

CAROLYN'S COLUMN

By Carolyn McAllen

There was ice on the creeks and lakes for the first time this winter--after 70 degrees a week ago.

There's a yellow iris in the side yard that looks downright frost-bitten. The ageratum gave up entirely. But the forsithia (which has bloomed off and on since April) refuses to quit.

I still wonder what that poor woman wore to the Oyster Bowl game. She had bought a new dress especially for the game, but it needed alterations. After taking it to a seamstress at the last minute and being promised prompt service, she went on her way unworried.

But when she returned to the shop on the eve of the game, it was closed. There was no emergency number. The shop owner was out of town. None of the neighboring shop owners knew where the seamstress lived.

She was almost in tears. But what can you do? She said it was the first new, dressy dress she'd had in years.

Since this is Thanksgiving week, let me tell you about my most famous pumpkin pie--an early attempt, that is.

Everything went well until I got ready to bake it. The pie pan seemed to be too big. It must have been a nine instead of an eight inch pan I decided.

The turkey-stuffed family all said the pie was delicious. I thought so myself--until I returned to the kitchen. There, sitting in the middle of the table, was the unopened can of pumpkin.

Some of the most beautifully-made children's clothing I've seen was at the Needlework Guild "Ingathering" last week. I was almost sorry they were not for sale, despite the fact they will be put to good use.

There was one set of receiving blankets with hand-crocheted lace edging. Several little girls' dresses had intricate smocking on the fronts.

And some of the prettiest things were made by Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds (juniors). They began working on their projects last January. Then they displayed them to their fathers at the annual Father-Daughter Dinner in April. And then, as Mrs. Joseph Gawrys commented, "I had to find some place to store them until now."

I'd still like to know how Belle Landrum was inveigled into being hung upside down on a rope by one foot for an act in the "Calendar Capers" of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club Follies.

It was a question mark until the last week of rehearsal because nobody would accept the part. Maybe she was late to rehearsal one day.

Junior Miss Finalists

They Can't Afford to Bite Their Nails

The tension mounts as Saturday approaches.

Sixteen girls, all hopeful of winning, will enter the finals of the Virginia Beach Junior Miss pageant which will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25 in the auditorium of Princess Anne High School. Sponsors of the contest are the Bayside-Princess Anne Jaycees and R K Chevrolet, Inc., both of Virginia Beach.

The finalists, selected in October, will be competing for a number of prizes including a $300 scholarship from the Bayside-Princess Anne Jaycees and a $300 scholarship from Oceana Beauty Academy; gift certificates from Willner's and the ladies shop at Alexander-Beegle's at Pembroke Mall, from The Hub at Princess Anne Plaza and others, all for the girl named Virginia Beach Junior Miss.

The first runner-up will get a $100 scholarship from R K Chevrolet, Inc., and a $75 U.S. savings bond from the Jaycees. The second runner-up will get a $50 bond from the Jaycees.

The winner will compete in the Virginia state contest in Roanoke next Jan. 31. Cynthia Hershberger, the current Virginia Beach Junior Miss, was second runner-up in state competition.

In the local contest, the girls are also competing for a $1,100 tuition scholarship offered by the Electronic Computer Programing Institute.

Various gifts, or gift certificates, are being provided for the pageant by The Jewel Room (the tiara), Kempsville Florist, Virginia Beach Florist and Harrell's Florist (flowers), Rose Hall (charm course for the top three girls), Birchwood Beauty Shop, Electronic Services, Inc., Beeline Fashions, Miller's Department Stores, O. C. Moore Texaco Service Station, the Princess Theatre and Oceana Beauty Academy.

There will be winners, each getting trophies from the Jaycees, in each of these categories: Talent, poise and appearance, scholastic achievement, youth fitness and individual judges conference. The interviews by the judges count 35 per cent of the total in scoring the top winner, first runner-up and second runner-up.

Contestants had their first meeting with the judges at an informal reception and tea at Lake Wright Motor Lodge. Judges are Jack H. Harris, executive director of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN and WVAB Radio; Lt. Thomas Wayne Adcock, commanding officer of the U.S. Navy School of Music for the Armed Forces at the Naval Amphibious Base; Mrs. Julie Collmus of Charm Associates, and Mrs. Janet Mitchell Fishel, a pageant consultant, (She was consultant for the Miss Virginia Beach pageant, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Jaycees.), and Dr. Douglas T. Use 'Yams' in Meals

What pumpkin pie is to New England, sweetpotato pie is down South! And the fall crop is now in at the stores. In fact, it's possible to use mashed cooked sweetpotatoes in place of mashed pumpkin if 3 to 4 tablespoons less sugar are used.

Sweetpotatoes are among the most easily prepared of all vegetables. Scrub them and roast them. Unless they're jumbo size they will be tender in a bit more than a half hour. Most sweetpotato eaters like them, skin and all, although there may be some who want to spoon the chestnut sweetness from the shell. Or, parboil them until barely tender, then peel and slice thickly and brown in melted butter or margarine.

The home economists of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association have tested these sweetpotatoes recipes and think you will enjoy serving them.

STUFFED BAKED SWEETPOTATOES

6 medium sized sweetpotatoes
2 T. butter or margarine
1/3 c. light cream or milk
2 T. brown sugar
2 T. grated Parmesan cheese
1 teas. pure vanilla extract
3/4 teas. salt
1/4 teas. ground nutmeg
1/4 lb. boiled ham, diced
1 egg, lightly beaten

Wash and dry sweetpotatoes. Lightly oil skins and bake in preheated hot oven (400 F.) 1 hour or until tender. Cut tops from sweetpotatoes. Scoop out centers and wash. Add butter, cream, sugar, cheese, vanilla, salt and nutmeg. Mix well. Stir in ham. Pile mixture into sweetpotato shells; brush tops with beaten egg. Return to preheated hot oven (400 F.) for 15 min. or until lightly browned. YIELD: 6 servings.

BANANA SWEETPOTATO BALLS

2 lb. fresh sweetpotatoes
1/4 c. sugar
1 T. butter or margarine
1 teas. salt
1/8 teas. ground black pepper
1/4 teas. grated lemon peel
1 egg, beaten
2 medium bananas
3 cups crushed cornflakes

Scrub sweetpotatoes; boil whole in water to cover until tender. Remove skins and mash. Add sugar, butter, salt, pepper, lemon peel and egg. Mix well. Shape potato mixture into 8 balls, each around a 1-1/4 inch chunk of banana. Roll in cornflakes. Place on a lightly greased cooky sheet. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 F) for 12 to 15 min. Serve with pork or ham. YIELD: 8 sweetpotato balls

SWEETPOTATO LOAF

1/3 c. butter or margarine, melted
1/4 c. finely chopped fresh onion
1/4 teas. ground allspice
4 c. mashed cooked fresh sweetpotatoes
3/4 c. chopped walnuts
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 3/4 teas. salt
1/4 teas. ground black pepper
1 c. fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 c. chopped dates

In skillet place butter and chopped onion; cook over moderate heat until limp and transparent. Blend in allspice. In large bowl combine sweetpotatoes, walnuts, eggs, salt and black pepper. Add onion mixture; blend well. Combine bread crumbs and dates and add to sweetpotato mixture. Turn into greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan and bake in preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 1 hour. Remove to wire rack and cool 10 min. Turn out of pan and slice. YIELD: 10 servings

A meal-in-one, both in flavor and nutrition, is this well-seasoned stuffed baked sweetpotato.

By Mary Wright

OCEANA NAVAL AIR STATION

Mrs. Maureen De St. Croix, a slender little blonde who looks like a healthy edition of Mia Farrow, celebrated her first wedding anniversary on a night out with the girls Sunday, Nov. 12 at the Oceana Officers' Club.

Mrs. De St. Croix is only one of many wives who are more than looking forward to the "fly-in" of their pilot husbands the first of December when the attack carrier USS Saratoga (CVA-60) finishes the last leg of its nine months' Mediterranean cruise.

The scene of Mrs. De St. Croix's anniversary celebration was a buffet dinner for the officers' wives of squadron VF-103, followed by a planning session during which the wives made preparations for the fly-in. Hostesses for the dinner were Mrs. Harvey Clayton and Mrs. John Colgan.

VF-103 (the "Sluggers") and its sister fighter squadron VF-31 will take off from the decks of the Saratoga while she lies off the Atlantic coast near her homeport, Mayport, Fla.

Mrs. Marty McKnight, wife of Cdr. Jesse McKnight (commander of VF-103), said the wives will hang a welcome-home banner from one of the NAS hangers. A Christmas party for both fighter squadrons will be held Dec. 15 at the officers' Club.

The Saratoga's last port of call before heading home will [illegible] and most popular material is Corfam. Colors are brown, black, cordovan and antique gold.

Some Christmas suggestions for the men to be found at WEBSTERS:

* Wallets--thickest to the thinest in calf, alligator and other assorted leathers. The thick wallet will actually hold a deck of cards.

* Colognes--Bay Rum, three flavors of lime, also matching sets of soaps and cologne

* Key rings--fob leather with auto insignias and a unique one in silver be Palma, Majorca. Several wives were able to join their husbands in Europe during the summer. But for most of them, the fly-in will be the first break in a husband-less nine months.

Cdr. and Mrs. Forrest Osborne held a dinner party Friday night, Nov. 17, at their Pineland Lane home for Cdr. and Mrs. Richard Boyd.

Cdr. Boyd has been the commanding officer of Oceana's Air Wing 6 since April. Cdr. Osborne is skipper of Air Wing 6's VF-102 squadron.

Dinner guests included all the air wing squadron commanders and their wives.

TRALANT LUNCHEON

A TRALANT Christmas bazaar and luncheon were held Friday, Nov. 17 in the Colonial Room at the Ft. Story Officers' Club.

Hostesses were wives of officers on the staff of Rear Adm. John S. Coye, Jr., Commander Training Forces, U.S. Atlantic Fleet.

Mrs. Louise Sinnott, wife of Capt. Robert E. Sinnott (chief-of-staff to Adm. Coye) said that the 13 staff wives made the Christmas center-pieces used as table decorations for the luncheon.

Officers' wives from the Fleet Training Center, Anti-Submarine Warfare Tactical School, Nuclear Weapons Training Center and the Dam Neck Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center were luncheon guests.

The bazaar began at 11 a.m. Proceeds will go to charity.

LITTLE CREEK

Lecture series members of the Little Creek Amphibious Forces Officers' Wives Club on Nov. 29 will hear a lecture on the Middle East.

The lecture will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the Lynnhaven Lounge at the Officers' Club. Coffee will be served informally beginning at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Daniel Roderick, chairman of the lecture series, has announced the January lecturer will be C.P.O. J.H. Szczukoski, Chief Szczukowski works in the meats section of the Little Creek commissary and will discuss different cuts of meat: what parts of the animals they are cut from, which are tenderest, and how the less expensive cuts can be best prepared and served. He will illustrate his Jan. 24 talk by butchering a side of beef.

DAM NECK

Guided Missile School officers' wives at Dam Neck have begun collecting winter clothing for the state mental hospitals at Dunbar and Petersburg. The collection box for the clothing is located at the Guided Missile School.

Mrs. Gloria Creath will deliver the club's collection to Mrs. Lesley R. Simpson, chairman of the Volunteer Hospital Services Worshop, for distribution. The drive will run through Nov. 22.

A Red Cross bloodmobile was in operation at Dam Neck, Tues., Nov. 21. All officers wives at Dam Neck assisted with the drive.

Narcotics Agent Tells of Problem

Mrs. Pat Kelly, program chairman for the November meeting of The Princess Anne Woman's Club of Virginia Beach, introduced narcotics agent A. J. Henneghan at their meeting at the Pine Tree Inn.

Henneghan spoke on the narcotics problem and stated that there is a total of 60,000 addicts in this country and that 83 per cent of this figure are living in five states; New York, Illinois, Michigan, California and New Jersey. Virginia has a low percentage of addicts according to Henneghan.

"Addicts spread their addiction almost like a communicable disease and close association with addicts is the greatest cause of addiction" said Henneghan.

Mrs. Earl DuVal, general chairman of the 1967 Antiques Showsale, reported that the financial statement on the proceeds realized from the show was not ready yet. Mrs. Erma T. Mott, co-chairman in charge of affairs, read complimentary letters from exhibitors. Many requested spaces for the 1968 show.

'Powder Puff Queens', they were called for last Friday's game at Kellam High. And it's no fairy tale that all were players on the Knight football team which won 7 of 9 games this year.

Susie Wilkerson, quarterback for the senior girls in the annual 'Powder Puff' game, rolls out to make a pass. Her quarterbacking helped the senior girls defeat the juniors 12 to 0.

Seniors Win in Kellam High's Third Annual 'Powder Puff Game'

BAYSIDE BOROUGH--'Powder Puff' football attention in Virginia Beach high schools shifts to the Princess Anne High stadium today, November 22, when the senior girls take on the junior girls in the annual game of fun and frolic.

Students and faculty members at Kellam High School had their third annual "Powder Puff Game" last Friday night, and the senior won 16 to 0, with Susie Wilkerson starring at quarterback.

Princess Anne High's game will be at 7:30 p.m. in the stadium, and members of the Cavalier football team will be in the "cheerleader" ranks as the girls have a go-go at football.

The Princess Anne event is sponsored by the Girls Athletic Association.

George Tepo coached the Kellam senior team, with help from Roy Ammons, who had coached the winning junior varsity Knight football team this year. Don Dailey coached the junior girls, and Miss Corbett was "waterboy." School principal Jefferson Davis was "waterboy" for the senior girls' team.

Bayside High School had a "powder puff" game between the Honestate Tri-Hi-Y and the Iota Sigma Tri-Hi-Y last Saturday. The Iota's won 12 to 0. The big senior-junior game for the school, however, will be at 4:30 p.m. December 1 in the school stadium.

Cox High is planning a "powder puff" game for 8 p.m., December 2, in that school's stadium. It will be sponsored by the Kappa Delta Phi Tri-Hi-Y and the Sigma Chi Sigma Tri-Hi-Y.

The senior girls team at Kellam High included these girls, in addition to quarterback Wilkerson:

Frances Miller, Becky Gray, Pat Webb, Olive Cason, Glorious Ellis, Mary Burress, Terri McOmber, Yvonne Pardee, Linda Evans, Mary Martin, Wilma Bohling, Jennifer Moore, Gloria Davenport, Anna Aguston, Susie Stevens, Debbie Cullifer, Diane Smith, Kathy Sigmon, Jo-Ann Watkins, Mary Mallard, Kathy Dugan, Sue Duffy, Darlene Brecia, Cindy Davis, Jennifer Brown, Norma Colton and Emmaline Carson.

Shiftless

The new 1968 Peugeot 404 Sedan and 404 Station Wagon are positively shiftless.

How come? New automatic transmission.

404 Sedan

404 Station Wagon

Now, this is no ordinary automatic, just as the Peugeot 404 is no ordinary car. (We didn't spend years perfecting it, just to be like everyone else.) Our new automatic transmission is custom designed from scratch to be completely compatible with the new 80-horse Peugeot engine. It's so efficient, smooth, and silent that none of the Peugeot power or performance is lost. (And you still get over 25 miles to the gallon. What's more, this new automatic transmission is still our only optional extra. As always, we include over $500's worth of "extras" at no extra cost: sliding sun roof, carpeting throughout, safety padded reclining bucket seats, Michelin X tires (three layers of steel cord), padded dashboard, power brakes, heater & defroster, windshield washer, and center arm rest.

Now, if you're the type who still likes to shift for himself, we also have a standard 4-speed synchromesh transmission.

Patriots Win 32-0

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--The First Colonial High Patriots had easy going as they whipped the Smith High Tigers of neighboring Chesapeake by a 32 to 0 score last Friday.

The victory gave the Patriots, coached by Frank Webster, their seventh win for the season in ten games. They were beaten only by Princess Anne, Kellam and Churchland.

The Patriot victory also put the local football team high in Eastern District ranking, behind the undefeated Cavaliers and the Knights on a local basis.

Princess Anne's championship team, coached by John Grady, will take on the Hampton High Crabbers next week in a regional football game expected to put the finishing touch on the most successful year for the Cavaliers in history.

Grady said the Princess Anne team, which wears red, white and blue colors, will begin working out on Monday in preparation for the regional game, which will be at 8 p.m. December 1 at Foreman Field in Norfolk.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN previously listed the names of all varsity players on winning high school football teams in Virginia Beach.

Burlage: Keep Government In Hands of the People

L. Charles Burlage, an attorney who ran for the House of Delegates in the July Democratic primary here, said he disagrees with the Hahn Commission report, where it suggests changing the boundary lines of "localities" in Virginia.

Burlage released to the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN the full text of a statement he said he gave to a Norfolk newspaper reporter earlier this week.

The statement is as follows:

"I have read with a great deal of interest the report of the Hahn Commission as carried in the local press. Apparently, this commission has given 18 months of very careful study to the problems now facing metropolitan areas. They realize the many pressing needs for urban areas and offered solutions that are certainly entitled to our most careful consideration.

"While I have not had an opportunity to study the report in detail, the idea of metropolitan approach to the solution of water, air pollution, sewerage, law enforcement, and education is needed and in my opinion, would be beneficial to all. The Hahn Commission has pointed out many of the needs and the General Assembly of Virginia and the localities must work together to find the best way to bring this about.

"I do not agree with the report's suggestion in the way in which the boundary lines of the localities may be changed nor do I want to see any type of government adopted that may be removed from the people. The government must be kept close to the people and I am sure the General Assembly will work in this direction."

The beginning, or the end?

Beach Council 'Tentatively' Approves Future Referendum on Improvements

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Virginia Beach City Council has tentatively approved the future sale of $18.5 million in municipal bonds for a variety of improvements, with emphasis on public schools.

Several more legal actions are required, however, before the bonds can be actually sold. Council has to vote on the proposed bond issues at another public meeting. Virginia Beach Circuit Court must set the date for a voter referendum, and qualified voters here would have to approve them.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett, in answer to criticism of the proposed improvement program in recent Letters to the Editor column of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, told City Council on Monday that the voters will have an opportunity to vote independently on each of several proposed bond issues.

An ordinance, was approved on first reading by City Council on Monday, and officials listed this partial breakdown of what the proposed bond issues would finance.

*Public school construction, including new schools, classroom additions, and acquisition of some sites, as requested by the City School Board--$14.5 million. (An outline of the school program was in the Oct. 19,1967, edition of the SUN.)

*New public office buildings, including some already under construction, for the city government's operations at the Virginia Beach Municipal Center, and improvements to other city government buildings--$1,700,000.

*A new public library, planned in the Kempsville area--$80,000.

*Various street and highway improvements, including Independence Boulevard (from Wishart Road northerly through Robbins Corner to Shore Drive), two more lanes for Princess Anne and Kempsville Roads through Kempsville village, and two more lanes for Shore Drive's east end, between the west gate of Fort Story and Atlantic Avenue--$1.5 million. (State and federal aid would cover additional costs.)

*Sanitary Sewer improvements, including sewer service in the Chesopeian Colony area and others--$1,250,000.

Stanley A. Phillips, assistant city attorney, told City Council that the $1,250,000 in bonds proposed for sale to finance sanitary sewer improvements would not count against the city's legal "borrowing power," because they would be "revenue producing" improvements.

In other actions at Monday's meeting, City Council:

* Authorized the proper officials to begin acquiring "real property" for the proposed future extension of "Indian River-Courthouse Road" from the Municipal Center east toward Sandbridge, and for the extension of city water and sewer service to Sandbridge.

* Authorized the city manager to convey a drainage easement to the trustees of Princess Anne Plaza Methodist Church, which plans to build on the property where the city has the easement.

What Does Expressway Mean to the People?

What does the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway mean to the people of Virginia Beach who live, work or drive along the Virginia Beach Boulevard traffic corridor?

Les Lehigh, of the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN staff, put the question to shoppers at the Aragona Village, Princess Anne Plaza and Pembroke Mall shopping centers. He also talked with some of the men building the highway, which will enable motorists to travel across the city's suburbs in about half the time it takes today.

Here are some of their comments:

Mrs. Frank Foster of Swallow Drive, Virginia Beach--"I guess it will improve traffic, make it easier to get where you're going."

Jim Kaneer of Paladin Drive, Virginia Beach--"I'm hoping it does a whole lot. We feel like it will."

Mrs. Joseph Womack of Seaboard Avenue, Chesapeake--"We come this was quite frequently. We think the expressway will be a benefit, as crowded as the Boulevard is."

Don Steberl of Canterbury Road, Virginia Beach--"I'm a salesman, so it'll be real quick to get around Tidewater. The toll is the lesser of the problems."

N.R. Masturzo of Five Forks Road, Virginia Beach--"It will relieve a lot of traffic congestion, moving people from Norfolk to Virginia Beach. It will be faster and help people at the Naval air stations to get to work."

Ralph P. Graham, who painted some of the 34 bridges (or overpasses and underpasses)--"I think it's an asset to the community. I think you will save money in gasoline, even with the tolls, when traveling to Norfolk."

Tony Cianelli of Tabbs, Va., who works for a contractor on the highway--"It's alright. I like it. It will benefit everybody."

Joe Frazier of Starboard Road in Chesapeake, also working on the highway--"I think it will be an asset, as far as keeping down accidents, providing motorists use it the way they are supposed to, and not make a drag strip out of it."

Raymond Gray of Carrsville Isle of Wright County, also working on the highway--"We'll be glad to get it. We've really needed it for quite a while. It will help out traffic on Virginia Beach Boulevard."

Friday evening is the time when motorists and others in the City of Virginia Beach will be able to travel the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, if they choose the fast route as an alternate to Virginia Beach Boulevard within the city's limits.

The official opening program for the highway, called the "toll road" by some because there will be a variety of charges for using it, is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday (December 1) at what State Highway Officials call the "mainline toll barrier," just off Kentucky Avenue here and west of the Windsor Woods residential area.

Among the distinguished guests or dignitaries invited to participate in that opening ceremony for the four-lane, divided highway are Virginia's Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr., Virginia Highway Commissioner Douglas B. Futate, and Highway Commissioner W. Fred Duckworth Jr.

The new four-lane expressway was designed by city and state officials to relieve traffic congestion on Virginia Beach Boulevard, thus making it safer for people who use it.

Other guests on the program for Friday's ceremony near Windsor Woods include Vice Mayor Robert B. Cromwell Jr., retiring State Sen. Robert F. Baldwin of Norfolk, and the Rt. Rev. G.P. Gunn, D.D., Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia.

Virginia Beach and Virginia officials who helped plan parts of the ceremony are Elmo H. Orange, director of toll facilities in the state; Albin R. Mailhes of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, Assistant City Manager Roger M. Scott and Lawrence B. Wales Jr., a financial consultant to the Virginia Beach city government.

The expressway, although being opened to traffic its full length, from the Norfolk and Virginia Beach dividing line to the oceanfront business area of this city, will not be fully completed until later.

Orange, who is in charge of the expressway's administration for the state government, said contractors have six more months in which to finish landscaping, sign erection, fencing, guard rails and various roads, or city streets linked to the new highway by interchanges. But the driving lanes are useable.

The speed limit of 65 miles per hour on the wide, scenic highway is expected to lure motorists who prefer to save driving time, or avoid congestion on Virginia Beach Boulevard, particularly on the Norfolk end of that highway.

City officials said the new expressway will benefit visitors to the city, as well as local business, industry and new development--in line with future plans for all of Virginia Beach.

Orange said some sections of Virginia Beach Boulevard are traveled by about 34,000 cars each 24-hour period. He said that within weeks after the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway opens, it may have 18,000 cars, trucks and other vehicles using it each day, on the average.

While some persons who travel the expressway will pay 25 cents, others will be able to go from one point to another within Virginia Beach, for 10 cents. The highway goes through sections of the four heaviest-populated boroughs in the city--Bayside Borough, a small section of Kempsville Borough (the Thalia area), Lynnhaven Borough and the Beach Borough.

Standing Is 'Up' on City, Regional Plans

Standing, seated at his desk.

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--The 27-year-old new acting director of planning for the Virginia Beach city government is a man familiar with planning problems within the city and Southeastern Virginia.

Patrick L. Standing, appointed by City Manager W. Russell Hatchett to succeed F. Mason Gamage, who resigned as planning director for "business reasons" on November 21, is a lifelong native of Virginia Beach.

Since he joined the city government here as assistant planning director in the summer of 1965, Standing has been working for various city improvement programs.

Among other things, he has been working for the enactment of ordinances which will allow for "a more orderly growth of the city," he said.

He has played important roles in the preparation of the Southeastern Virginia regional highway plan, the city's master plan for parks and recreation improvements and a master plan for future educational needs, currently being considered by City Council.

"Tying all of these together to formulate better living conditions for the people, and for the maintenance of stable neighborhoods" is one of his primary goals as a city planner.

Standing, a 1957 graduate of former Virginia Beach High (now a junior high school), received a degree of Bachelor of City Planning from the University of Virginia in 1962.

Sturdy road building equipment cleans up along the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, passing beneath strong girders which support one of the many overpasses and underpasses built into the major crosstown artery. To the right is an historic home with cedars in the yard, only a short distance from the U.S. Naval Air Station at Oceana.

Long Trip Nets Turkey Dinner

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--It took them 15 days to get to Virginia Beach to spend Thanksgiving, but it only took them three hours to return to Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mead of Rochester decided to stop in Virginia Beach enroute to Daytona Beach, Fla., aboard their 50-foot yacht to spend Thanksgiving weekend with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Dagenkolb of Wright Lane. Unfortunately, a bent propeller shaft delayed them four days off the New Jersey coast.

When they arrived here, with their son Thomas, it was just in time for Thanksgiving dinner. Then, due to urgent business, they had to fly back to Rochester the next day.

But they're planning on returning to Virginia Beach in two weeks by car, and re-embark on their trip to Florida via the Intercoastal Waterway.

The Meads had no rough weather until they entered the Chesapeake Bay last week Thursday. There they ran into a "Northeaster."

"We had a lot to be thankful for on Thanksgiving," said Mrs. Mead. "After a day of rough seas, you're glad to be alive.

"We had a bowl of apples sitting on the refrigerator. The bowl was tied down, but the apples went flying all over the cabin."

The trip was the Mead's first experience in sailing on open water in the year they've had the boat. They became so enthusiastic about the yacht after they purchased it that they gave their home in Rochester to their daughter and moved aboard permanently.

Mrs. Dagenkolb said she and her brother were raised near the Erie Canal and had always lived near water. When her husband retired from the Navy, they decided to settle in Virginia Beach.

Said Mrs. Mead, "Every morning my husband says he's going to sell it, but he always changes his mind after we've been under way awhile."

Now the Meads are planning to be here again for Christmas.

Recreation:

Go Ahead Recommended For River Project

PR. ANNE BOROUGH—The Parks and Recreation Commission voted to recommend to City Manager W. Russell Hatchett that he take the proper steps as soon as possible on the "Kemps Landing Project."

The Kemps Landing Project was proposed several months ago to re-establish the water route to Kempsville which made it a river port when it was first established, Marion Renn, chairman of a committee to study the feasibility of the project, reported that his committee was, at this time, recommending that the Public Works Department survey the river (Elizabeth) from the Kempsville bridge to the Norfolk city line, that land 200 feet on either side of dead center be secured by the city, and that the Department of Public Works dredge a channel 80 feetwide straight from the bridge to the Norfolk boundry.

The commission voted to accept recommendations of the Tennis Patrons Association, presented by Sidney Hughes, that arrangements be made so participants in tennis tournaments can use school restrooms, that some courts should have wind shields or back stops, that nets should have center strips and that drinking water be available at the courts.

The commission also voted to set aside part of the proposed 14-acre Seacrest Park near the end of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway be set aside for future development as a tennis center.

Garden Club To Have Tea

Linkhorn Park Garden Club will have its annual Christmas tea at the home of Mrs. Major Pardue on N. Pinewood Road from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 1.

Class Brings Twain to Life With Play

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH--It was in Miss Rose Best's classroom at Thalia Elementary School that the students brought the fictional characters of Mark Twain back to life early this week. At least, as far as the students are concerned.

Sixth graders in Miss Best's class staged a play titled "Tom Sawyer-Pirate", on Monday of this week. And the children enjoyed it.

The names of the characters, followed by the students who played the role of each, included:

Aunt Polly, Debi Baydush; Sid Sawyer, Gary Kennedy; Tom Sawyer, John Rightmier; Becky Thatcher, Gina Marchione; Alfred Temple, Bret Lewis; Joe Harper, Terry Dorough; Huck Finn, Michael Casey; Mrs. Harper, Terry Abraham; Ben Rogers, Micki O'Hara; Amy Lawrence, Lori Mattson; Grace Miller, Karen Marateo; and Widow Douglas, Beccie Law.

Detective Pace

Det. Pace Wins Award From Jaycees

For the third consecutive year, a member of the Virginia Beach Police Division's Youth Bureau has been chosen by the Virginia Beach Jaycees as "The Policeman Of The Year".

The L. Travis Branch Award was presented to Detective Charles C. Pace, Sr., Tuesday night during the annual "Policeman Of The Year" banquet. The presentation was made by the widow of the late Judge Branch, in honor of whom the award is named.

The speaker for the occasion was Judge Philip Lee Russo, of Virginia Beach Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. Russo praised Pace's selection by saying, "If I had been on the selection committee, I don't think I could have come up with some one more deserving."

Circuit Court Judge George W. Vakos was a guest for the evening, as was Police Chief James E. Moore. Referring to the selection of Pace for the award, Moore said: "I don't think they could have made a better choice. His work and relationship with fellow officers is outstanding".

Pace has been a member of the Police division since November of 1957, and has served in the Police K-9 Corp, and the patrol Bureau. He is also a member of the Civil Disturbance Squad. He is a member of the Morning Star Baptist Church, and Princess Anne Lodge No.8, Fraternal Order of Police. He resides with his wife, Lucille, and their five children on Green Pine Lane.

BADGES & BANTER

By Les Lehigh

Indications are Lt. Floyd S. Krahenbill, attached to the Beach Borough police precinct, is the first member of the Virginia Beach Police Division to register the first buck deer kill of this season. Krahenbill says he got a "four pointer" on his trip into the Blue Ridge Parkway region, and that the "rack" measured twelve inches point to point. Weight of the buck was placed at around 160 pounds.

Men of the Creeds Volunteer Fire Department are having good luck during this season's duck hunting. According to Jim Tye, he bagged his limit around Knotts Island, while Floyd Waterfield got his limit in the Back Bay region.

As the nation joined in Thanksgiving Day celebrations last week, persons in the Virginia Beach city jail were also able to partake of a traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner. Chief Jailer D.K.Polk said the menu consisted of roast turkey, giblet dressing, giblet gravy, candied sweet potatoes, green peas, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, butter, coffee, and pumpkin pie.

New officers of the Princess Anne lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, will be installed December 15th at the annual F.O.P. banquet. Incoming president Harry S. Seager, Jr., said guest speaker for the affair at the F.O.P. Commodore Club in Kempsville Borough will be former Norfolk Police Chief Harold C. Anderson.

Men of the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Rescue Squad this week demonstrated the variety of emergency services the squad is called upon to perform. William Biniker, A. R. Binke, Jr., and A. F. Montrose III were dispatched to a home on Jack Frost Road to rescue a cat which became trapped between partitions of the house. The rescue was completed within twenty minutes of the call for assistance.

A new police officer began his duty this week at the 2nd Precinct on Artic Avenue. He is Ronald C. White, who joined the Virginia Beach Police Division after having served for a little over a year with the city's auxiliary police.

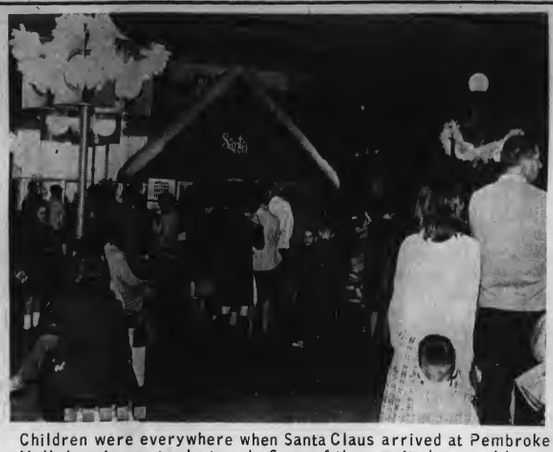
Lt. Henry Capps, Youth Bureau C. O. at Police Headquarters at Princess Anne Court House, recently returned from a deer hunting trip in Rockingham County. Capps says he didn't have any luck, but that his son, "Hank", came back with a " four pointer" buck which weighed about 175 lbs.

The sound of wedding bells are echoing throughout the Oceana Volunteer Fire Department. Raymond Capps says Miss Diane Horton has accepted him, and the wedding is planned for next July.

Wives Club Plans Bazaar

With the holiday season approaching quickly, the Dam Neck Navy Wives Club of American No. 207 will have a bazaar in Kings Department store at London Bridge all day on Dec. 2.

All wives of enlisted Navy, Marine or Coast Guardsmen are invited to attend the club's business meeting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 7 in the Special Services Building at Dam Neck. There will be a free nursery for pre-schoolers.



Children were everywhere when Santa Claus arrived at Pembroke Mall shopping center last week. Some of them waited several hours to talk to the old gent. They all had one thing in common--a desire to tell Santa their wishes.

BAYSIDE BITS

A new ski club in Norfolk which has membership in the 70's plans to meet at the Lake Wright Motel, inside of Norfolk near the Virginia Beach city line, on Tuesday, December 5.

Sepp Kober, the ski-school director at Homestead, in Hot Springs, Va., will present a program, and refreshments will be in the form of "Bring Your Own Bottle", or BYOB. A special beginners' trip for snow skiing will be planned for sometime in January.

Don Clark is club president.

The annual board meeting of the Virginia Beach Council of Church Women United will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, Dec. 1 at Our Savior Lutheran Church on Shore Drive. Officers will be elected for 1968.

Council Thanks Holmes and Dredge Group

PR. ANNE BOROUGH—Virginia Beach City Council has adopted a resolution expressing its "heartfelt thanks" to the City Dredge Commission and Aubrey N. Holmes, consultant to the commission, for "valuable services" to the city without compensation.

Council adopted the resolution on Monday after taking final action on an amendment to a city ordinance which shifted the responsibility for future maintenance and operation of the city-owned dredge from the Dredge Commission to Charles S. Kiley, city director of public works.

When Is a Cord A Proper Cord?

PR. ANNE BOROUGH--Eddie L. Whitehurst, assistant sealer of weights and measures for the City of Virginia Beach, has cautioned residents that they may be getting something less than a cord of firewood when they think they are gettin a full cord.

Whitehurst said he has received some complaints from fireplace owners that they are not getting the proper measure.

He said a "cord" of wood should contain about 128 cubic feet of firewood. This is the amount when firewood is ranked, or well-stowed in an orderly row, measuring four feet high, about four feet wide and eight feet long.

A Choice for Motorists

When the formal ribbon-snipping is over tomorrow on the four-lane, high-speed Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, thousands of motorists or vehicle drivers in our blossoming community will begin traveling the new traffic artery.

Obviously, they will be those who don't mind spending some nickels, dimes and quarters for a much smoother, relaxing drive than they have been able to find on the busy lanes of Virginia Beach Boulevard.

As for the others who want to keep traveling the boulevard, whether for shopping, pleasure, business or other reasons, officials of the city government should make sure driving problems on the old highway are eased, to further boost business.

One aspect of the expressway which has caused confusion in the minds of many is how much it will cost an individual driver to choose the expressway for a trip, between the oceanfront in the Beach Borough and the expressway's connection with Interstate 64 and Interstate 264 just inside of Norfolk.

The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN in previous editions of this newspaper has explained the toll-charge system. But some other reports apparently have confused the driving public.

Generally, this is the way motorists will be able to travel on the scenic expressway, which has overpasses and underpasses (or bridges) instead of traffic signals which hamper the flow of cars, trucks and other vehicles, as far as some people are concerned:

1. If someone wants to travel between Norfolk and the oceanfront across the suburbs-such as a tourist, or someone who lives in Virginia Beach but works in Norfolk-the toll charge of 25 cents (for each car) will be collected, or tossed into "hoppers" at the only booths which are on the highway's four lanes. The same charge applies to a bus traveling the expressway, whereas the charge for a truck will be 30 cents, or 10 cents per axle on the truck.

2. If someone wants to travel between the Va. Beach oceanfront and South Lynnhaven Road (located between Princess Anne Plaza and the London Bridge business area), the passenger car charge will be 10 cents, paid only once per trip-either at the entrance or exit point on a ramp at an interchange. The same 10-cent charge applies for someone who wants to drive between either the Norfolk city line and the Independence Boulevard interchange, or another at Witch Duck Road. This also is true for someone driving between the Lynnhaven Village area and Bird Neck Road, or Laskin Road.

3. Motorists who travel the expressway from Newton Road (the legal boundary between Norfolk and Virginia Beach where the new highway crosses the line), into Norolk will not have to pay a toll charge. However, the Virginia Highway Department said it will be impossible to get into downtown Norfolk on the new highway. Westbound lanes on Interstate 264 WILL NOT be opened immediately.

4. Someone who wants to travel between the Rosemont Road interchange and points west of there, including Norfolk, would pay the 25-cent toll. But they have a choice, of continuing to use Virginia Beach Boulevard, or two-lane Holland Road.

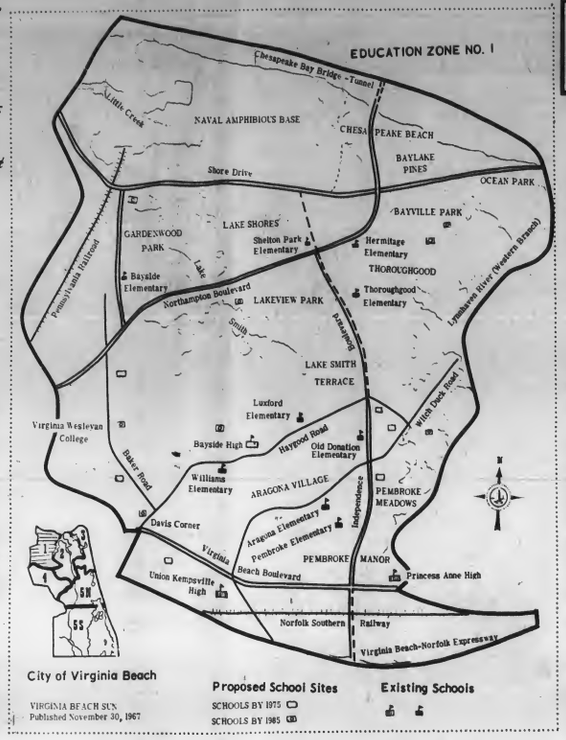
5. Drivers of trucks which enter or leave the expressway on ramps at interchanges along the 12-mile highway will pay a charge of 5 cents per axle, meaning 15 cents if they have three axles or more.

There are other unusual and interesting aspects to the toll-charge system for the expressway, including the use of "automatic collection booths" on the interchange ramps. But motorists will learn about them as they drive the modern, progressive highway.

It will, among other things, provide the first rapid-transit highway across our community's many suburbs. As the City of Virginia Beach continues to grow in population and prominence in the affairs of the Tidewater, or Hampton Roads region, additional new highways must be constructed, as financial means allow.

And on this, it is obvious that the civic, business and political leaders of each community involved must cooperate where necessary to serve the public, while at the same time retaining local government authority on matters, or problems which can best be solved within each community.

In this, as in the use (or non-use of the expressway, the people have a choice. That's the American way. And you can't beat it.



(Editor's Note: The VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, to inform its readers on the future educational needs in Virginia Beach, is publishing by chapters "Master Plan Report No. 7," prepared by the City Planning Commission and the City School Board for consideration by City Council. Here is a sketch of the first of five "Education Zones" in the plan, with the larger residential areas, the locations of existing schools and sites for proposed new ones.)

letters to the editor

Expect an Apology?

Are you wondering if the American people have now arrived at the point, where they expect an apology from a true minister of God, for speaking, through his conscience, his true thoughts about conditions around him?

We have observed, during the past several days, the over-inflation of a foul air balloon, loaded with cowardice, disrespect, hate and revenge.

This distressing ugly projectile was created by the Critics, who make it their avocation, to destroy courage, honesty and faith. We should all ask--must a minister of God apologize for trying to help his fellowmen regain their equilibrium?

A message of truth, beamed into the ears of a President, is a blessing, not a curse. If an apology is in order, it should come from those who have created an atmosphere that demands straight-forward answers to our many muted, disturbing National questions.

Doubts Coverage

Editor, Virginia Beach Sun:

I am enclosing herewith a copy of a speech that I will livered on Nov. 21 in the Council Chambers of the Norfolk City Council during the annual public hearing on the proposed budget for the City of Norfolk for the period January-June, 1968.

I seriously doubted that the VIRGINIAN-PILOT or the LEDGER-STAR would give me any coverage, for this is a touchy subject with city officials. I, nevertheless, feel that it is an item of great importance to every citizen of Norfolk and perhaps to others in the Commonwealth.

The Norfolk papers do not mind pointing the dirty finger at Virginia Beach, but they are loathe to report any situation that reflects on the troubles and difficulties of the political machine that controls City Hall in Norfolk. Perhaps in the distant future we will have free news coverage and be freed from the muzzled press in Norfolk.

Norfolk Debt Problem 'Scored' by Lawyer

While the residents of Virginia Beach will be asked in the near future to vote on a proposed bond issue, Norfolk City Council apparently is ignoring a proposal for a referendum there on that city's financial situation.

Berry D. Willis Jr., a frequent critic of Norfolk's city government said at a recent public hearing on the proposed operating budget for Norfolk that "only the people of the City of Norfolk should decide such a major financial proposition" as a proposed 50 per cent increase in the "people's public debt."

Willis sharply criticized Norfolk City Manager Thomas F. Maxwell and his handling of that city's financial affairs, and accused Maxwell of being contradictory in his budget message, among other things.

Most of his statement, however, attacked the proposal to increase the ratio of real estate assessments by 50 per cent on July 1, 1968.

Commenting that such action would "be authority to issue another $45 million in bonds which will improve the City's credit rating," Willis said: "If you can increase or better the credit rating by going into debt, why does not Mr. Maxwell recommend that the property assessment be increased by 100 per cent so he can add another $90 million to the public debt?"

Speaking of the City of Norfolk's financial situation, and convention-center building Willis said:

"For some years now, it should have been apparent to this Council that the bonded debt condition has been going through quite a financial crisis. With this prior knowledge--and I emphasize this point--Mayor, Roy B. Martin and City Manager Maxwell took the liberty to journey to Europe at the taxpayer's expense after employing an Italian architect to draw plans for a convention center of unconventional design, when they should have known before hand it would cost much more to build than a design created by an American architect."

Willis claimed the cost of the convention center apparently has increased from initial estimates of "a little over $11,000,000" to "$20,000,000 or more," based on daily newspaper reports.

He also criticized Maxwell for not publishing "a budget of projected capital projects and how he planned to have the people pay for them."

"Now, out of a clear sky, Mr. Maxwell asks the people of Norfolk to let him put them into debt by another $45,000,000 in new bond money, "Willis said.

He implied a proposal earlier this year from Norfolk Mayor Roy B. Martin that Virginia Beach merge with Norfolk was so the people of Virginia Beach "could help to pay off Norfolk's public debt of nearly $100 million, including interest." Virginia Beach City Council rejected the proposal.

On the proposed raising of Norfolk's legal debt ceiling by increasing the ratio of assessment, Willis concluded:

"The question, gentlemen, is the most important piece of financial business to be put before the people of Norfolk in the past fifty-years--it is so far reaching money-wise, tax-wise, and debt-wise that only the people of the City of Norfolk should decide such a major financial proposition for themselves in the VOTING BOOTH."

Avoid Snow on Coast Route

VIRGINIA BEACH--Here's winter weather advice for East Coast motorists.Based on U.S. Weather Bureau records for the past 30 years, the chances of running into snow and ice are about twice as great on the inland north-south route than on the coastal route over the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

And that's not all. It not only snows more often inland, but there's almost always more of it. In addition, it's several degrees colder during the winter months in Richmond and Washington, the highway junctions on the inland highway, than it is in this area on the coastal route.

The weatherman favored the coastal route this past winter (1966-1967) even more than usual. Washington had almost four times more snow than Norfolk, and Richmond had three and a half times as much.

According to weather experts, the milder climate of the coast areas during winter months can be attributed in part to the warming influence of the Atlantic Ocean.

On the basis of snow days, Virginia's east coast has a far better record than the inland areas of the State.

Virginia Beach, according to Weather Bureau statistics, also had far less snow during the past three years. Richmond's yearly average of snow from 1964 to 1967 was 28.4 inches. Washington's average was 27.5 inches. There was only an average of 13.2 inches during the recent three-year period.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says that this area's "geographic position with respect to the principal storm tracks is especially favorable, being south of the average path of storms originating in the higher latitudes and north of the usual track of hurricanes and other tropical storms. The winters are mild, while the autumn and spring seasons usually are delightful."

A study of the record bears out the Weather Bureau's description of mild winters here. The average mean temperature for November, December, January, February and March is 45.7 degrees, based on records for more than 75 years. Richmond's average mean for the same months is 42.6 degrees, while Washington's is 41.1 degrees. Norfolk's average winter minimum temperature is 37.7 degrees; Washington's minimum averages 32.8 degrees, and Richmond's is below freezing, 31.9 degrees.

The Weather Bureau also says of the weather in the area, which encompasses the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, that occasional winters pass without a measurable amount of snow.

Unlike this area, where the Weather Bureau says a temperature of zero has never been recorded, Richmond's temperature has dropped that low occasionally. The Richmond record low is 12 degrees below zero, registered in January, 1940. Although winters in Richmond are comparatively mild, too, the Weather Bureau says, "ice storms (freezing rain or glaze) are not uncommon" in the state capital.

According to the Weather Bureau, cold waves seldom penetrate to this coastal area.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, a 17.6 mile long engineering marvel of bridges, tunnels, man-made islands and trestled highways, was opened in April, 1964, as an important link in the Ocean Highway (Routes 17 and 13). Crossing the wide mouth of the Chesapeake Bay between the tip of the Delmarva Peninsula and the Virginia mainland, the Bridge-Tunnel saves travelers the necessity of using the traffic-jammed inland speedways from Wilmington, Del., south through Washington and Richmond.

The highway from Wilmington to Cape Charles, northern terminus of the Bridge-Tunnel, is four-laned with the exception of a few miles that are now being widened. The road is straight and flat, with a minimum of traffic.

Stage Door Play Has 'Possibilities'

The current production of Joseph Stein's comedy, "Enter Laughing" at Stage Door Dinner Playhouse, was on opening night, an unfinished production.

Attribute it to nervousness; attribute it to cast members muffing lines; attribute it to the prompter having to be heard several times; attribute it to an uneven slow pacing that made the comedy less funny; attribute it sometimes to caricatured characterizations of juvenile - or just attribute it to any combination of these, but the production was weak. An erasure of the problems and faults, which should come during the run, and it can be a better than average presentation. The potential is there.

The loose plot revolves around a young Jewish boy, supposedly Carl Reiner, who wrote the original book. His overprotective, typically Jewish family, wants him to be a druggist and is aghast when he chooses to become an actor. But the acting troupe he chooses, composed of particularly money-hungry hams, is even worse than could be expected. The sexy parts of the play, that is, the young boy's less than fulfilling escapades with a secretary, a member of the acting company and his own nice little Jewish girlfriend, seem incidental and just thrown in to add a little flavoring.

Jack Cross, who plays the young aspiring actor and looks a lot like a young Carl Reiner, does a nice job toward a loosing cause. He makes a valiant attempt to make the whole thing "gel" but falls short because of overplaying and not deciding upon a definite age for his character.

His Jewish girlfriend, Wanda, played by Lynn Foreman, is either too young for the role, or plays it far too young. Andrea Harris, as the actor's daughter, does an acceptable job and shows promise, as does Louise Olsen, as Miss B, secretary.

Anne Phipps and J. Miller contribute some nice, warm moments as the young boy's mother and father, but her dropping of lines and the slow pace made their opening night scenes very, very slow.

Small bits are also played by Danny Gunn, Guy Riddick, Barry Margolius, Matt Steckel, Bill Covington and David Lang.

The aspiring young actor's sidekick is portrayed by Byron Baker, who seems to work so hard at creating a youthful characterization that he has little or no interplay with his fellow cast members.

Charles Richman is pleasing as the boy's boss in the machine shop. His characterization is even and studied.

But real laurels of the evening must go to Rolla Nuckles, who plays the ham actor with magnificence. His every hammy syllable, so well enunciated, is a joy to hear, and his movement and gestures are just plain fun. He made the opening night worthwhile.

It is our belief that a semi-must present top flight productions to keep the public coming. This production hopefully will improve, but on opening night was far from semi-professional standards.

Va. Wesleyan Dedicates Women's Dormitories

Virginia Wesleyan College on Wednesday dedicated two new residence halls, naming them after members of two prominent Norfolk families.

The two women's dormitories, Louise Eggleston Hall and Margarette Hanes Old Hall, are part of the $1.6-million Village I being occupied at Wesleyan, which is astride the Norfolk-Virginia Beach boundary line.

The principal speaker for the dedication was to be The Rev. Dr. Walter C. Gumm, bishop of the Richmond area of The Methodist Church.

There are eight buildings in Village I at Virginia Wesleyan. They include four dormitory units, two classroom-lounge buildings, a dining hall and an adjacent academic building which now houses the library and science laboratories.

Wesleyan's next building project is a library, on which construction is scheduled to begin in the next few months. The new college now has 155 full-time freshmen and sophomores, and an additional 112 persons taking evening courses.

There are just a few pointers that I want to bring out this week for those who are anxious to get out and use the pruning shears.

Apple-tree pruning should be done in very early spring, rather than in the fall as many people do it. Limbs will die back on apple trees pruned in the fall if followed by a cold winter.

Peach trees, on the other hand, can be pruned any time between now and spring. These, in contrast to apple trees, must be pruned every year. The apple tree need only be pruned every other year, if the water sprouts are annually removed.

Water sprouts are the new branches that rapidly shoot up in June from the main branches of the trees.

These can be removed in June or early July by a simple hard "Yank" with the hand, or later by pruning.

Here Comes Christmas....

Mrs. Bonney and Mrs. C.E. Upton Jr., club president, hang a wreath on the wide front door of Broad Bay Manor.

Christmas is in the air--at least Christmas open houses are.

Both Cape Henry Women's Club and Broad Bay Garden Club will have theirs on Dec. 6, close enough to each other so everyone can view the two without any inconvenience.

And both will benefit the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Good luck to all.

The SUN Scene

Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Bonham check some of the Christmas decorations made by club members.

Cape Henry Woman's Club

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Just imagine the charm and beauty of a 327-year-old house decorated for Christmas.

Everyone will have a chance to view it Wednesday, Dec. 6, when Cape Henry Woman's Club sponsors "Christmas in the Country" at Broad Bay Manor, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Furman Dey at 1696 Great Neck Road. A $1 donation will be asked for tickets. Proceeds will be for the benefit of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

The first part of Broad Bay Manor (what is now the dining room) was built by Thomas Allen in 1640. A Georgian-style north wing was finished in 1773.

The original hand-carved mantels and fireplaces with their original pots and cranes are still in the house. The wide plank floors also remain. Outside the house is some 175 year-old boxwood shrubbery.

The house was the home of the late John B. Dey, former president of the Princess Anne County School Board.

Mrs. Herman R. Bonney is decorations chairman for the house. Club members have been busy for some time preparing for the open house.

Cookies and hot spiced punch will be served by members of Cape Henry Woman's Club, who will be dressed in costumes from the past, as will the hostesses.

There will also be a Sweet Shoppe with baked goods on sale, along with stuffed dolls and fragrant balsam pillows.

The house will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Tickets are available from club members and will be on sale at the door.

Broad Bay Garden Club

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Broad Bay Garden Club will have its fourth annual Christmas open house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Etheridge at 2417 Windward Shore Drive on Wednesday, Dec. 6.

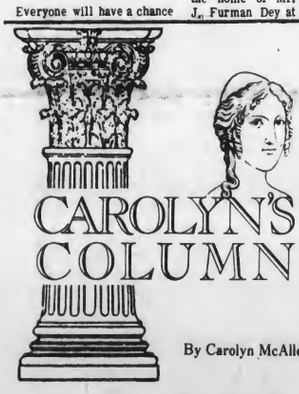
Tickets are fifty cents each and all proceeds will be for the physiotherapy room of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Hours of the open house will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. This is the club's annual money-making project.

Not only will the house be decorated, but there will also be a country store featuring wreaths, greenery and Christmas decorations and gifts, plus a bake shop.

Mrs. John Gibbs is general chairman and Mrs. Fred Russell is chairman of the house. Mrs. Ed Bonham is chairman of the country store.

Tickets will be on sale at the door or may be purchased from club members.



CAROLYN'S COLUMN

By Carolyn McAllen

Car--No License

They should have included a set of driving lessons.

Pat Daily's first comment upon learning of Richard Kline's and R. K. Chevrolet's surprise gift of a Chevrolet Camero for winning the Virginia Beach Junior Miss title was, "Now maybe Mom will let me get my driver's license."

In fact, that was almost the first understandable thing the pert brunet 17-year-old uttered after learning the judges' choice last Saturday night. Before that she just squealed. No tears, however.

Her three younger brothers were among the first persons on the stage after the announcement.

Patriotism entered into the contest too, despite newspaper and magazine reports of disinterest and unconcern among today's teenagers. Kay Henderson, dressed in Army fatigues, recited "A Soldier's Last Letter to Be Read after His Death" as her talent presentation. Faye Frost, a 4-H Club member, gave an original speech on "I Am an American," with the Statue of Liberty and an American flag in the background.

The contest had several interesting sidelights. After Sandra Long had performed a toe dance, the master of ceremonies, Ron Alexander, told the audience that Saturday was the first time Sandy had danced in some time. Seems she broke a toe.

Ann Cherryman, also talented at playing a guitar and singing, made her lovely white formal for the pageant--a project many experienced seamstresses wouldn't attempt.

In my opinion, this contest, sponsored by the Bayside-Princess Anne Jaycees, brought together the very best of today's teenaged girls. First of all I was impressed by the poise of each and every one--that is until the winner was announced and the other contestants all flocked around Pat like bees to honey.

Teresa Seaman, when questioned about her plans to become a psychologist, replied without hesitation, "It's the best career a woman can have. How else can she know why her husband does what he does?" (Ladies, take a hint.)

Whether it was deliberate or not I don't know, but a mixup in music proved to be a good test of composure during the "youth fitness" judging. The 16 contestants were to do a pom pom dance which included physical exercises. However, the music started late. At the end, several girls kept dancing with the music while the others stopped. Then Ron Alexander had the girls repeat the dance from the beginning.

Apparently a very closely-knit group, there was a four-way tie for the "Miss Personality" award (the winner selected by the girls themselves). Finally they narrowed it down to two and split the prize. Picked were Nancy Harris and Teresa Seaman. And they got a bonus too. It seems the contestants sold five pages of advertising themselves, so the money was turned into prizes.

If these girls represent the future mothers of America, I don't think this country has so much to worry about.

Tree to Be Community Project

Viewing the new tree are Mrs. Goff, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. Steinhilber.

KEMPSVILLE BOROUGH--With plans for a community Christmas tree in mind, Thalia Garden Club bought a 30-foot deodora cedar tree and had it planted at the side of Thalia Elementary School last week.

A tree lighting ceremony, including dedication of the tree and the singing of Christmas carols, is planned for 5 p.m. Dec. 22. The tree was purchased from Garden Fair Nursery on Military Highway.

"We just thought the school yard needed something green," said Mrs. H.O. Freeman, chairman of the Christmas tree project. "They're no green trees around the school."

The garden club is encouraging home owners to place electric candles with white bulbs in each of their windows. The tree also will have white lights.

"Individual groups, such as the P-TA, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, etc., are bring urged to plan their own caroling for shut-ins after the tree lighting ceremony," Mrs. Freeman said. Serving with her on the tree committee were Mrs. D.D. Goff and Mrs. Robert J. Steinhilber.

Williams To Speak To LWV

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Murat W. Williams, former United States ambassador, consul and newspaperman, will speak on U.S. foreign aid policy at a meeting of the Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters on Sunday, Dec. 3 at the Bow Creek Country Club. Social hour will be at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7.

Williams, now a gentleman farmer and writer in Madison Mills, Va. where he is still active in Virginia politics, was one of the first ambassadors appointed by the late Pres. John F. Kennedy.

Young Executive Combines Many Roles

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Judy (Mrs. Michael F.) Andrassy is one young woman who combines a career and marriage successfully and, in addition, plays the role of both mother and father to her children while her Navy lt. commander husband is at sea. (He's due to get the additional stripe of a full commander on Dec. 2)

She heads and is broker for Judy Andrassy Realty, Inc. which has its main office on Laskin Road and has just recently opened a branch office on Virginia Beach Boulevard across from Pembroke Mall. Presently she has a staff of 30 working as salemen for her.

Most of her salesmen are military wives, and retired military personnel with some servicemen working part time. They handle commercial, residential and rental property.

Mrs. Andrassy, although in her early 30's, has been in real estate for seven years and opened her own office three years ago. Before that, in New Jersey, she was manager of an insurance office.

"I've always like the selling field," she said. "I like people and houses. It's easier to sell when you have a product to show."

The Andrassy's have lived in the same house in Chesopeian Colony since they came to Virginia Beach seven years ago. They have three children: Debbie, 15; Greg, 8, and Leigh, 4.

"We're permanent residents. We've lived in New Jersey, Hawaii and California and never found any place we prefer to this. It has so much to offer." In fact, her husband commuted to Washington, D.C. for two years while he was assigned there.

Lt. Cmdr. Andrassay left for Vietnam aboard the USS Kitty Hawk on Nov. 15. He is a pilot attached to VA-75.

"Without him I couldn't do this," Mrs. Andrassy stated positively. "You could describe him as the man behind the scenes, very helpful and considerate.

"They say that for every successful working wife, there's a patient, understanding husband, I believe it." She believes it so much that she checks the husband's attitude of all women she hires.

"I think I function better as a mother by working," declared Mrs. Andrassy. "I've never had any problems, and the time I spend with my children means more to them and to me." She also said she has had the same housekeeper for seven years.

"My daughter, Leigh, greets me every night with 'Did you sell a house today?' "

"Greg's only worry was which phone he should use to contact me now that the branch office is open.

"Debbie even rounds up mothers to be agents for me."

She says she has no trouble operating a business in a "man's world". "I like to assist people. My father always told me, and I've never forgotten it, that 'A smile costs nothing, but it enriches many.' "

Her outside activities include writing and running off a monthly news letter for her officers' wives group. "We've a very closely-knit group," she said.

A firm believer in Virginia Beach, she said sincerely, "Virginia Beach has a lot of potential. It's growing, and I intend to grow with it."

Mrs. Andrassy at her office.

College Capers

Miss Cecelia Marie Gerloff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Gerloff, Jr., of Cedar Lane, served as chairman of decorations for the Senior Reception held recently at Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg.

Miss Gerloff is a political science major and expects to graduate in June.

Miss Randi Bryant of Virginia Beach, was one of two juniors and nine seniors at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro who have been inducted into the campus honorary society, Golden Chain. The 11 students were chosen on the basis of their leadership, scholarship and service to the university.

What About Fruit Cake?

Now that Thanksgiving is over, it's time to get into the swing of Christmas holidays.

When you make a fruit cake for the holidays, make an extra one to enjoy on special occasions all winter long.

Fruit Cake

1/2 lb. light or dark seedless raisins
1/2 lb. dates, finely cut
1/2 lb. candied citron, finely cut
1 lb. assorted candied fruits: orange peel, lemon peel, pineapple, cherries, finely cut
2 1/2 c. sifted flour
1 teas. baking powder
1 teas. salt
1 teas cinnamon
1/2 teas. each: allspice, cloves, and nutmeg
1 cup margarine
1/2 c. firmly packed brown sugar
1 c. light or dark corn syrup
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 c. orange juice

Weigh and prepare fruit. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Dredge fruit with 1/2 c. of the dry ingredients. Mix margarine and sugar until light. Add corn syrup; mix well. Add 1 c. of the dry ingredients; beat until smooth. Add eggs, beating well. Add orange juice, mix well. Add fruit mixture. Fold in remaining dry ingredients. Bake in two well greased (9x5x3-inch) loaf pans, or two (9x3 1/2 inch) tube pans, lined with waxed paper, in 250 degrees F. (slow) over 4 to 5 hours, depending on size of cake. Place shallow pan of water on bottom of rack of oven during baking; remove during last hour. Cool cakes. Store in air-tight container or wrap in aluminum foil or plastic wrap. Makes about 5 pounds.

To glaze: Glaze fruit cake after storage to give it a sheen. For the glaze, mix 1/4 c. light corn syrup and 1/4 teas. grated lemon or orange rind in a saucepan. Bring just to boil over medium heat. Brush on top of fruit cakes.

By Mary Wright

The 1,500 children of men stationed at the Fleet Anit-Air Warfare Training Center, Dam Neck, will be guests at a base Christmas party Friday, Dec. 9.

Beginning at 9 a.m., with the youngest children's party, there will be four consecutive parties, each for a different age-group.

The parties are sponsored by the recreation and welfare department of Dam Neck's Services office. Profits from that department's exchange facilities (base movies, bowling, etc.) provided the money for refreshments and gifts for the children.

Enlisted wives at the Center were responsible for selecting the gifts at a civilian firm at Norfolk. Officers' wives wrapped the presents.

Each party will begin at the Combat Information Center auditorium with cartoon movies and Christmas carols. Santa Claus will welcome the children at the base gymnasium; Christmas stockings and presents will be given out and the parties will end with milk and cookies.

Mrs. George C. Peebles, the base executive officer's wife, is in charge of decorations for the party, which has been an annual event at Dam Neck for the past four years.

A Tasty Trick

A trick practiced by good cooks is that of adding a touch of sweetness when cooking tomatoes, corn and peas. Newest wrinkle to this tried-and-true technique is to add just a little corn syrup poured right from the bottle. Something inexplainable and extraordinary happens, something a family will like.

Davis of Thalia Point; Durward W. Barker of Thalia Manor; Walter Young and Graydon Early of Thalia Acres; Stanley A. Horton of Thalia Gardens, and C. Bradley Arnett of Wayside Manor.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Thalia Lynn Baptist Church will have its annual Foreign Missions banquet at 7 p.m. Friday, December 1st, in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Dale G. Hooper, a Southern Baptist foreign missionary to East Africa, will be guest speaker.

The church at the same time will have its annual kick-off dinner to raise funds for the Lottie Moon offering. Thalia Lynn has set a goal of $1,500 for the missionary fund this year.

New members recently welcomed to the church include Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stanley (Sally) Mawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Derrill Drake and children; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Arthur Tugman III, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hurt, Commander and Mrs. Alvin Hughey and children, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Wayne Pate.

Mrs. C. L. Hershberger, president of the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs, spoke on "Christmas All Around the House" at the November meeting of the Homestead Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Shelton Shipley of Hillview Boulevard. Mrs. Ronald Harriman was co-hostess.

Plans for a December dinner for the members and their husbands were discussed.

Single Goal of Helping Unites Church Women

Women from 13 churches in the Virginia Beach area including seven different denominations are all working this Christmas toward one goal: to make the season a little more pleasant for patients at the state mental hospitals at Dunbar and Petersburg, Va.

Community Church Women, a group begun last May and now operating at full steam, meets the fourth Wednesday each month at St. Francis Episcopal Church, on Rosemont Road.

Mrs. Lesley R. Simpson, chairman of the Volunteer Hospital Services Workshop of the Tidewater Association for Mental Health, approached the Rev. Clayton E. Crigger, rector at St. Francis, last summer about the possibility of a community branch of the workshop at Virginia Beach.

The Rev. Mr. Crigger volunteered St. Francis as a meeting place, and one of his parishioners, Mrs. Arthur G. Allen, set about organizing the group.

Mrs. Simpson, who has worked with the Association for Mental Health for eight years, hopes that "the Virginia Beach group will be the first in a number of community workshops."

The state is unable to supply any of its mental patients with woolen clothing because of the "inadequacy of appropriations by the state assembly," Mrs. Simpson claimed.

Collecting usuable, warm clothing for the hospital inmates is one of the chief concerns of the Community Church Women.

The group also is making corduroy capes, hooded and lined with cotton flannel, to send to the hospitals. One of the beauties of the capes is that they are machine-washable.

According to Mrs. Simpson, none of the state hospitals have their own dry-cleaning facilities. Even though the donated woolen clothing is dry-cleaned before distribution to the hospitals, it generally lasts through only one season of wearing--with no further dry-cleaning and no proper storage areas available for the summer months, to protect the woolens from moths.

The capes, however, are good for several years, said Mrs. Simpson, and are given to "continued-treatment" patients, who remain in the hospitals indefinitely.

Not only do the Community Church Women collect practical, warm clothing. They are now involved with Christmas-wrapping shoe boxes of small, personal items (scented soap, toiletries, tooth paste and tooth brushes, face clothes). These boxes, Mrs. Simpson went on, will be "sent along with the basic present.

"Unwrapping each little thing," she said, prolongs that excitement, that joy, for the patients."

The Community Church Women will meet on Wednesday, December 27, at St. Francis. A baby-sitter will be available for women with children.

Members of B.P.O.E. Lodge 2268 who will participate in Sunday's memorial service are (standing) L.M. Pollander, Charles W. Tucker, William Lennox, Joseph F. Curran, Sidney S. Kellam, Bruce L. Hall, Edward A. Simiele, T.R. Lowman and Charles D. Bryan Tiler; (seated) Guy G. Narter; H. Gordon Titmus; William H. Carnes, exalted ruler, and Theodore L. Beasley. John P. Keary, chaplain, also will participate. (Photo by Boice Studio)

Elks to Have Memorial Service

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Members of the Virginia Beach Elks Lodge will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday, December 3rd, to have its annual memorial service to honor deceased members. It will be at the American Legion Post on Laskin Road.

The Rev. B. Sydney Sanders, rector of Eastern Shore Chapel, Virginia Beach, will be the guest speaker at the service.

Appropriate music will be presented by the Elks Chorus under the direction of Frank Ferrigno, accompanied by Olga Ferrigno at the piano.

Families and friends of the "departed brothers" of B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 2268 are invited to join in the memorial service.

It will honor the memory of the following:

Fred A. Haycox, Sr.; John J. Collins; Clarence Day, Sr.; Shepherd J. Woodhouse; Cecil E. Ottinger; A. L. Lippert; Charles L. Hunter; J. Camden Brady; Robert J. Cherry; Howard E. Gibbs; Vincent D. Phillips; Benjamin J. Gordon; William A. Wood III; John H. Turner; Edwin D. Dail; Salvatore Romano; James A. Fox; Richard Longanecker; Alfred T. Taylor and Preston Cruser.

Mrs. Doles Plans Overseas Trip

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH--Mrs. Doris Irene Doles of Alanton Drive is planning to take a trip to Western Germany in February to visit with her son, who is in the U.S. Army, and her daughter and son-in-law.

Her son is Lt. Steven M. Doles, stationed at Erlanger in West Germany. Her son-in-law, Paul K. Dougherty, manages an office for American Express in Gelnhausen, West Germany.

Ministers Trade Pulpits

LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH---A minister's wife who spent a month last summer in Cali, Columbia in South America spoke to the Eastern Shore Chapel Auxiliary and to the Women of Galilee about her experiences there while her husband served as an exchange minister.

Mrs. Polly Taylor, her husband, the Rev. H. Jerome Taylor Jr., who is chaplain of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church in Kings Grant, and their two daughters, two and four years old, exchanged churches with the Rev. and Mrs. George Estes of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Cali.

Mrs. Taylor spoke informally and showed slides of her hotel (originally a monastery), scenes in the country and life of the natives.

"Columbia has such a potential for development," she commented, "but only half of the children are ever educated, and food and clothing are seldom adequate.

"Cali has the first Episcopal church, and the going is not rapid. Remember that the Spanish conquered but did not colonize South America. The people were exploited and ruled by the rich, who owned gold and diamond mines. And many still do. The middle class is slowly coming ahead."

Coffee was served before the meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Benjamin Hunger II, president of the Women's Chapel Auxiliary of Eastern Shore Chapel.

Jackson 'Cards' Three Kings

The 1967 Christmas Card for the Virginia Museum is an unusual close-up of the "Three Kings," designed by A.B. Jackson, head of the art department of Old Dominion College and an exhibitor at the annual Boardwalk Art Show here.

Jackson's works are represented in many private collections, including those of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, Secretary and Mrs. Willard Wirtz, and Secretary and Mrs. Dean Rusk.

A.R.E. Forum To Present Ray Hanchey

The Forum program of the Association for Research and Enlightenment on Sunday, December 3rd, at 3:30 p.m. will present as its speaker Ray Hanchey of Richmond, who will talk on "Your Life and the Edgar Cayce Readings."

Mr. Hanchey studied in the University of Texas and the University of California and is now a sales training director and pharmaceutical chemist with a leading drug company.

He has been a member of the Board of Trustees and the Executive Committee of the A.R.E. and will be director of a training school for teachers and lecturers at A.R.E. headquarters in the summer of 1968.

Beach Coaches Boost Cavaliers

If the Princess Anne Cavaliers don't whip the Hampton Crabbers in the regional football game this Friday at Foreman Field in Norfolk, there will be a lot of disappointed "hometown" fans.

And among them are the head coaches of four other local high school varsity teams which lost to the high-riding Cavaliers during the regular football season.

Coach Charlie Caldwell at Floyd E. Kellam High, Coach Frank Webster at First Colonial High, Coach George Versprille of Bayside High and Coach George McGovern of Frank W. Cox High were asked by a VIRGINIA BEACH SUN reporter what they think about the Cavalier game against the Crabbers at 8 p.m. this Friday night, December 1.

All generally said the same thing: "Princess Anne should win it."

Versprille, Webster and Caldwell added, however, that they heard the Hampton football team has a strong defense that could give the Cavaliers trouble.

McGovern, commenting on the Hampton team, said, "They're big."

"I've heard that they have a real fine defense," Versprille said. "It ought to be a good one," Caldwell said of the Friday game.

Webster said he figures Hampton "has probably got the advantage," and "might be a little stronger on defense."

So what does Coach John Grady of the Cavaliers think about the game. He figures he has an offense and a defense that can overcome predictions by any out-of-town coaches that Hampton will win.

Al Habit, defensive coach, and Dennis Hagland, backfield coach at Princess Anne, have been drilling their players on the practice field.

From Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love, came Chief Halftown to instruct youngsters at Plaza Bowl on the fine points of bowling. However, when the picture was taken, he was entertaining the younger generation with "Humpty Dumpty." With him are Bart Ritchie, an unidentified little miss and Susan Ross. His visit was sponsored by Plaza Bowl as a member of the Brunswick Advisory Staff of Champions.

'Doc' Garrison Is Named 'Humanitarian'

Dr. Jack S. Garrison, a resident of the Thalia area and team physician for the Princess Anne High football team, has been named "Humanitarian of the Year in the City of Virginia Beach" by Aragona Moose Lodge No. 1198.

The lodge plans to make the humanitarian award an annual affair, and Dr. Garrison will be honored on Sunday, December 10, when the Aragona lodge has an enrollment ceremony for new candidates for membership.

Dr. Garrison also will be guest of honor on December 17, when the lodge has its annual Christmas Party. He will receive a Distinguished Service plaque and a proper citation for his selection as Humanitarian of the Year.

He was chosen for this year's award from among more than 100 persons recommended for the honor, because he is upholding the precepts of the Loyal Order of Moose--furthering the brotherhood of man, and he is making outstanding contributions to the community through humanitarian deeds.

Lady at perfume counter: "I'd like something that will bring out the mink in a man without disturbing the wolf."

Seems like whenever a man gets too old to set a bad example the old coot starts giving good advice.

As he gets older, a man comes to envision the ladder of success as something that gets him safely down off the roof.

It's wonderful to be married to a European girl, but when anything breaks down, it's difficult to get parts.

You can't reduce by talking about it. You just have to keep your mouth shut.

Beach Borough Firemen

40 Years on Paid Status

By Les Lehigh

This is the 41st year of operation for the fire department serving citizens of the Borough of Virginia Beach.

The department came into being in October of 1907.

It was placed into operation as a volunteer organization. The unit later began operation on a paid status in February of 1927, with two men being placed on salary.

The Beach Borough station was first headquartered in a building at 24th and Pacific which is presently occupied by the "Chez Wini" antique shop. The station was moved to it's present location at 20th and Arctic, in January of 1938.

Today's operation of the Beach Borough department includes men on a paid and volunteer status, as well as those of the Civil Defence fire unit.

The "paid" unit is comprised of 16 men ranging in age from their "20's" to their late "50's". Men between the ages of 19 and 60 comprise the "volunteer" group. The Civil Defense unit is made up of 20 men in the same age group.

Overall operation of the three units comes under the direction of Chief E. B.Bayne, who has served as Chief of the Beach Borough unit since September of 1947.

The positions of assistant fire chief are held by M. R. Mathias and G. M. Atwater. Mathias is the oldest member of the department in point of service, having become a member in February of 1930. Chief Bayne joined the unit in May of 1937.

Regular drill and training sessions are held for all men of the department under the guidance of W. R. Gurley, who serves as Training Instructor.

When asked by the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN how a new man progresses through the various units, Bayne replied: "If a man wants to join a volunteer unit we place him in the Civil Defense unit, where he attends his training and is outfitted. Some of the men want to stay in the Civil Defense and don't want to join other units".

Each man recieves clothing and equipment, consisting of a fire hat, coat, mask and pair of boots, at a cost of $362. per man, Bayne said.

Residence requirements vary according to the "unit" a fireman works with. Those assigned to the "paid unit are required to live within boundaries of the Beach Borough. Those working as a "volunteer" must live within a two mile radius of the Artic Avenue headquarters building. There is no restriction as to where members of the Civil Defense unit may reside.

Every man working with either of the three units has a radio monitor placed in his home. This keeps him in constant touch with the "dispatcher" at headquarters, enabling him to answer any alarm which may be sounded.

The regions which come under the protection of the men of the Beach Borough station include the Beach Borough, in addition to Croaton, Rudee Heights, Birdneck Point and Bay Colony in Lynnhaven Borough.

Fire fighting equipment at the Beach Borough station includes two 750-gallon pumpers, one 1,000-gallon pumper, one 3,000-gallon tanker, one combination ladder-and-pumper truck, one amphibious "DUKW" pumper, one salvage truck, one "emergency" truck and two aerial ladder trucks, one with 65-foot hieght capability, the other with 100-foot height capability.

The station also maintains a "canteen" truck, operated by the Ladies Auxilliary, which serves coffee, sandewiches and doughnuts to the men at fires which burn for a considerable length of time.

Each of the 16 men attached to the "paid" unit of the Beach Borough are on duty 52 hours a week, on rotating shifts. He will report to the station at 6:00 PM on the first day of his shift, and be on duty for a 24 hour period. That man will then be "off duty" for 48 hours, before being on another 24.

The headquarters building has cooking facilities, sleeping quarters, and spaces for recreation and relaxation.

One of the projects under way at the Artic Avenue structure is renovation of the second floor.

Until July of this year, that floor was occupied by members of the police division, 2nd Police Precinct, now located a block away, at 18th and Artic.
